CANADA DROPS OVERSEA DRAFT BAN IN CRISIS

Premier Will Send 16,000 Abroad.

Parade in Quebec

QUEBEC, Nov. 23 (AP).—A group of 700 youths staged an anti-conscription parade in this city tonight. They carried banners reading "down with conscription" and marched to the offices of the newspaper Chronicle-Telegraph, where two windows were broken. Later the demonstrators paraded to the recruiting office where they attempted to force entry, but were prevented by a large detachment of police.

OTTAWA, Ont., Nov. 23 (AP).—The Canadian government, after fighting five years of war by sending only volunteers to fight abroad, abandoned the policy today under a tidal wave of opposition which threatened to put the veteran Prime Minister W. L. Mackenzie King out of office.

Before a tense house of commons called together expressly to debate a nation-shaking crisis arising from an immediate need for reënforcements on the western front, King announced that partial conscription for overseas service had been effected by an order-in-council and that 16,000 drafted men had been made available for service overseas.

Admits System Fails.

King disclosed yesterday that he had written earlier this month that he believed conscription for overseas duty would almost inevitably bring a general election and would risk national dissension and perhaps weaken Canadian unity and strength "for generations to come." Today his government admitted, however, that the voluntary system had failed.

The government's new course resulted in at least one resignation from the cabinet, Air Minister C. G. Power of Quebec announcing he had quit because of his opposition to the overseas conscription policy. Whether any of the other six members from the French speaking province would follow suit was not immediately learned.

Long Opposed to Draft.

King's voluntary policy was pursued in the light of the historic opposition to conscription in Quebec, where violence broke out over the issue in the last war. Reaction to the new order, from the province, comprising nearly one-third of the dominion's population, was awaited tonight.

The government was forced to adopt overseas conscription in the face of a swiftly mounting wave of opposition which King had failed to check during the last three weeks, despite his appointment of Gen. A. G. L. McNaughton, probably Can-

Lynch Negro in Slaying of Two Women

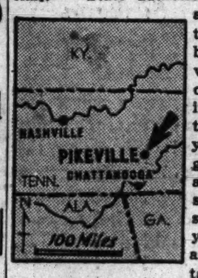
Pikeville, Tenn., Nov. 23 [Special]. — State authorities tonight announced there will be a full investigation of the lynching here today of a young Negro trusty after he assertedly had slain a young woman and fatally beaten her mother.



Scene of lynching.

State Highway Patrol Chief Lynn Bomar, who was sent here on orders from Gov. Prentice Cooper, disclosed plans for the inquiry. The governor announced he would offer a $500 reward for arrest and conviction of those guilty of the lynching.

James I. Scales, 17, the trusty, who had a long record in Nashville juvenile court, was taken from the county jail by a mob of about a dozen men and shot to death on the grounds of the near-by Tennessee State Training and Agricultural school, a reformatory for Negro juveniles, of which he was an inmate.

Bride of Air Force Officer.

He had been taken to the jail several hours after Mrs. Gwendolyn McKinnie, 21, daughter of H. E. Scott, superintendent of the reformatory, had been found dead and her mother seriously injured in their home on the school grounds. Mrs. McKinnie was the bride of Lt. Charles H. McKinnie, an air force officer now overseas. Mrs. Scott, a matron at the reformatory, was taken to Chattanooga, where she died tonight.

Scales had been assigned about two weeks ago to work as a cook in the superintendent's home. He was quoted as admitting he had attacked the women with a knife and a hammer after Mrs. Scott had refused his demand that she give him the keys to her automobile. Scott was in Nashville at the time.

School officials learned of the attack when investigating Mrs. Scott's tardiness for work. Scales was seized on a near-by road a short time later. He was returned to the reformatory, then taken to the county jail.

Sheriff Is Absent.

A mob soon appeared there and obtained custody of him from Mrs. Ruth Douglas, a cook who was in charge of the jail in the absence of Sheriff Henry Goforth. She said the men told her they had been sent to return Scales to the school.

Preparations were first made to hang Scales at the reformatory. Assistant Superintendent W. S. Neil said that when he stepped out of his home he found Scales surrounded by men who had thrown a rope over a tree limb. He said he told them they were making a mistake and that he "didn't want anything like that done here."

He said the rope was tossed aside and several shots were fired, killing Scales. Before leaving, members of the mob forced other Negro inmates to look at the body "as an example."

Yanks 'Feast' in Leyte Hills on Dried Soup

BY ARTHUR VEYSEY.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

WITH THE 1ST CAVALRY PATROL in the Ormoc Hills, Leyte Island, Nov. 23.—It was early afternoon before American troops in the hills here got their Thanksgiving dinners. The food came individually packed, double wrapped in cardboard and wax paper to keep out the rain, which fell unendingly. Each package was about eight inches long, four inches wide, and an inch and a half thick. This was the menu:

Soup made from half a teaspoonful of powder dissolved in a cup of muddy stream water; an inch high tin of cooked pork, four vile tasting crackers, half sized; lemonade made from synthetic powder and water mixed in the canteen after the soup course was finished.

For dessert some of the soldiers had a bar of hard tropical chocolate into which the diet experts had been so busy packing vitamins that they forgot about the taste. Others had a bar of pressed figs. This feast was topped off by a stick of chewing gum. Each man got four cigarets. Some chain smoked them. Others saved them despite the risk of attempting to keep anything dry.

On Five Days Nothing.

Most of the men have been up in these knife edged hills more than two weeks. They didn't know today was Thanksgiving. On five of the last 14 days they hadn't eaten at all. Their feast was more welcome, therefore, than any turkey and trimmings they ever had eaten.

It took two days to get this Thanksgiving dinner to the men in the hills. Three Pennsylvania boys hauled it from a highway dump four miles across rice paddies in an alligator [amphibious truck]. At the base of the hills it was transferred to a trailer and another soldier dragged it three more miles behind a tractor. That took a day.

Tote Food Over Hills.

From there Yanks and Filipinos toted it on their backs up and down ridges rising 1,000 feet and across streams.

The carriers included Lawrence Figge, 2128 Tripp av., Chicago.

As they ate their chow the troopers counted their blessings: Food, new shoes yesterday, relatively light fighting in their sector, the lack of Jap mortars, and once, about a week ago, they saw the sun for 10 minutes. Ted Walker of Worland, Wyo., spoke: "I am thankful to be alive," he said.

The feeling was unanimous out here where life and a gun are virtually a man's only possessions.

For Japs, Grass.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LEYTE ISLAND, P. I., Nov. 23.—Ragged bands of Japanese soldiers in the hills behind American lines on Leyte had a simple Thanksgiving meal today. It consisted entirely of grass.

Sgt. Augusto Gonzales, a guerrilla home for his first Thanksgiving meal since the outbreak of war, told of the extremes to which small bands of trapped Japanese had been forced.

Their guns are often rusty and useless. Few have more than half a dozen cartridges. Their shoes are worn out and their clothing tattered.

"A wounded Jap told us before he died that he had nothing but roots and grass to eat for weeks," Gonzales said.

KENTUCKY TRUANT OFFICER OILS HIS GUN TO SHOOT WILDCATS

Vanceburg, Ky., Nov. 23 [Special].—B. C. Douglas, school attendance officer, today began oiling his "shooting irons" for war on "yowlin' wildcats over Martin Holler way" that have kept three sons of Farmer Joseph [Popoff] Johnson from attending school in the Queens district since mid-October.

Farmer Johnson.

"I guess that means me," said Douglas, with obvious lack of enthusiasm, as he read a notice from D. J. Carty of the state education department at Frankfort. The order said school laws declare "the local attendance officer is to ascertain any cause of nonattendance and then is charged with eliminating such cause."

Douglas said he would call on the sheriff and others to help him track down the wildcats, which Johnson called "cateymounts" when he told Supt. Thomas W. Rowland that the animals' "yowls near our house just makes my hair stand plumb straight up on my head."

Parisians Get Cigarets, but Yanks Can't

Ike Orders Probe

PARIS, Nov. 23 (AP).—Gen. Eisenhower has ordered the court martial of any service personnel engaged in black market sales of cigarets, it was disclosed today. He also ordered an investigation into illegal sales. Communications zone headquarters, which is in charge of cigaret distribution, soon will effect a distribution at the rate of five packages weekly to combat troops and two packages to men in rear areas.

BY ROBERT SAGE.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

PARIS, Nov. 23.—Where are American smokes going? They are going with the wind.

This was the answer given today by members of the French Forces of the Interior from Normandy to the war department's question of what happens in Europe to cigarets shipped for the use of the Yanks.

The F. F. I. men said an enormous quantity of American tobacco in all forms has been lying uncovered on the beaches at Cherbourg for several weeks, lashed by the wind and soaked by rain.

Townspeople Help Themselves.

According to the F. F. I. the townspeople help themselves at will to packs of soggy cigarets, waterlogged cigars, and packages of mushy pipe tobacco. Nobody challenges them since it is considered tobacco lost unless somebody is interested in drying it out and smoking it.

Besides the loss of the tobacco on the beaches, wholesale leakages seem to be general all the way from Paris to the coast. In the capital the only people who seem to lack American cigarets are American officers, war correspondents, and the G. I.s who are stationed here.

Pay $2 to $3 a Package.

When the Yanks go into a cafe or a cabaret they see a pack of some popular brand of American cigarets on every table but theirs. With the rations slashed to zero, they are obliged to buy cigarets on the black market at prices between 100 and 150 francs [$2 to $3] a package or go without.

People in the country towns also seem to have no difficulty in getting smokes. Parisians going to Normandy in search of butter and meat return with four or five cartons of American cigarets which they picked up on the way. There is no trouble getting the cigarets—the principal thing is dodging military police, who are reported merciless to civilians found with American smokes in their possession.

YANKS CAPTURE LIMON; PUSH ON TO LEYTE RIVER

Practically Destroy Jap 1st Division.

GEN. MacARTHUR'S HDQ., Philippines, Nov. 24. [Friday]—(AP).—American infantrymen have captured the Japanese bastion of Limon and have driven 1,000 yards south to the Leyte river in a sudden upsurge of a battle which has practically destroyed the enemy's 1st division.

Headquarters reported today the 32d division plunged thru shell-battered Limon on Wednesday, in the biggest advance in more than two weeks.

The entire Yamashita line, upon which the Japanese depend to hold Leyte Island, is in danger of being rolled up, Gen. MacArthur's war bulletin said.

Lose Critical Line.

The American commander had identified Limon as apparently the site for the Japs' major defensive battle to protect the vital Ormoc corridor. Capture of the town, said the bulletin, means the Nipponese have lost a "critical defensive line." Heavy rains continued to lash the battle front.

The announcement said rolling terrain lies ahead of the Yanks in their drive down the main highway toward Ormoc, last Japanese stronghold on the island.

"The enemy," said the announcement, "in his bitter defense of this northern anchor of the Yamashita line has suffered terrific losses from our artillery and superior infantry firepower. His 1st division has been practically destroyed."

Jap Plans Upset.

Since the Americans turned into Ormoc corridor, after capturing Pinamopoan early this month, heavy fighting has flared around Limon, about four miles by road south of Carigara bay. The Japanese dug into the town, using favorable terrain for a knockout battle.

A front dispatch said other American forces pushed south from Pinamopoan on the west side of the Ormoc road and had almost reached that vital artery.

The bulletin reiterated that American aggressive tactics had upset Japanese plans for a strong counter-attack, with newly landed reinforcements, and had placed them on the defensive. They were required to commit their troops in piecemeal attacks.

Bomb Supply Dumps.

American heavy bombers attacked supply dumps and barracks at Ipil, south of Ormoc, destroying large supply buildings.

Leyte-based fighters destroyed an enemy motor pool and strafed communication lines below Valencia, midway between Limon and Ormoc on the main highway.

Enemy air action was light. Yank patrols shot down one plane.

B-29s Blast Jap Capital from Base in Saipan

Washington, D. C., Nov. 23 (AP).—Tokyo today was attacked by B-29 Super Fortresses in a daylight mission launched from bases in the Marianas islands. It was the second aerial attack on the Japanese capital.

The mission was conducted by a newly established 21st bomber command operating from bases in Saipan, approximately 1,500 miles to the south and east.

Sizeable Force Attacks.

The war department, in announcing the raid, said:

"A sizeable task force of B-29 aircraft of the 20th air force today attacked industrial targets in Tokyo, Gen. Arnold, in his capacity as commanding general of the 20th air force, announced at the war department.

"The mission was a daylight operation by the newly established 21st bomber command, under command of Brig. Gen. H. S. Hansell Jr., from bases on Saipan."

Gen. Arnold, in a statement, said that the 20th air force today rocked the heart of Japan with bombs from a mighty new task force of B-29 aircraft based on Saipan."

Pledges Japs' Destruction.

The attack, he added, "should be convincing proof that these far Pacific islands captured by our army and navy at great cost in men and material have been put to the greatest possible use. Tokyo's war industries have been badly hurt by a blow made possible by the Americans who fought and died for the Marianas. Now, as our American factories feed the voracious appetite of our B-29s with replacements and bombs, we will pound Japan's war machine out of existence."

The air forces chief added that "no matter where the Japanese may try to hide their factories, we will seek them out and destroy them. We are going to do just that. Japan has sowed the wind; now let it reap the whirlwind."

More than two years have elapsed between the first and

Front Line G. I.s Get Paris Leaves

Refuses Furloughs

Tampa, Fla., Nov. 23 (AP).—Pvt. Rudolph F. Jaeschke is a rare G. I.

Coming to Drew field nearly two years ago, the former Tennessee farmer has never left the post. He has refused all passes and furloughs.

FRONHOVE, Germany, Nov. 23 (AP).—A sergeant walks up to a soldier in the bitterly cold rain thru a street flowing with foot deep sirupy mud and says: "Okay, bud, pack up—you're going to Paris."

It sounds like a hallucination, but it is happening these cheerless days along the western front. A few doughboys are being picked from each company for 48 hour passes in Paris—a heavenly 48 hour respite from K rations, dead men, and constant shellfire that tightens the stomach into knots.

Instead of attacking the next town with his buddies and getting shot at, the soldier is whisked 250 miles away on a truck to sip champagne and gaze upon mademoiselles.

Lt. George Stewart, Atlanta, Ga., attached to a 9th army front line unit, said the plan was to furnish every combat soldier with a Paris leave, but the doughboys who have been at the front get top priority. Passes are for 48 hours, exclusive of travel time.

"Paris is a G. I.'s dream," exclaimed Tech. 5th Grade Carl Brooks, Baltimore, Md., who had just returned from the capital. "The Red Cross put us up in a beautiful hotel room which would cost at least $10 at home. And get this—we had a private bath with hot water.

"I spent my two evenings drinking cognac with champagne chasers in a cafe on the Champs Elysees. I'd have given two months' pay for one more day there. It did me so much good that when I got back here I could stick it out for two more months."

FRENCH TANKS CUT OFF FOE IN 17 MILE SWEEP

Yanks Break Thru Vosges Passes.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

PARIS, Nov. 23.—Strasbourg's liberation was announced amidst acclaim this afternoon in the French provisional government's consultative assembly. Debate was interrupted with the news which brought all delegates to their feet to sing the "Marseillaise." Paul Giacobbi, minister of the colonies, arose to tell the assembly the government's joy "at the news of the liberation of Strasbourg." "Alsace is free again," he cried.

Brig. Gen. Le Clerc.

[Another dispatch said Strasbourg was entered by American doughboys who followed the French tanks.

The second spectacular Rhine breakthru in five days, imperiling nearly one-seventh of the forces the Germans are believed to have committed on the western front, came as the bitterest battle since the invasion thundered into its 7th day far to the north on the Cologne plain.

Southern Arm Gains 4 Miles.

As Brig. Gen Jacques Le Clerc's French 2d armored division entered Strasbourg against light resistance the French 1st armored division more than 50 miles to the south, seized Battenheim, four miles north of Mulhouse, and pushed on north along the Rhine.

This was the southern jaw of a giant pincers reaching around the broken enemy Vosges mountain line, with the northern jaw formed by the French of Lt. Gen. Patch's United States 7th army which had sped thru Saverne gap.

Between these two forces, the Germans along more than 50 miles of the rain swollen Rhine must escape over three bridges and by boats, barges, and pontoons if they are to escape entrapment. As far as is known, the great road and railway bridge over the Rhine at Strasbourg still stands.

Lines in Vosges Broken.

Maj. Gen. Wade Haislip, commander of the 15th corps of the 7th army, said that the German lines in the Vosges mountains were broken; that the enemy was completely disorganized.

German prisoners told interrogators they had been ordered to abandon all equipment, break into small groups and get back into Germany as fast as possible. The general said it would take ordnance men a month to count the booty. He said 5,380 Germans had surrendered since Nov. 13, adding:

"One captain walked into our lines with three men. That was all that was left of a whole regiment."

Lt. Robert Farnham, Freeport, Ill., an artillery spotter for the 17th field artillery battalion of the 6th corps, who has been getting a bird's-eye view of the German retreat, said "this is a bigger rat race than the drive on Rome."

370 Miles from Berlin.

Altho at Strasbourg they are farther from Berlin than their American and British allies fighting inside the reich in the Aachen area, the

NAZI 19TH ARMY ROUTED; BATTLE IN STRASBOURG

Yanks Push Thru Passes in Vosges Mountains.

French advance to Strasbourg is the easternmost penetration on the western front. They are 370 miles from the German capital as the crow flies and have advanced more than 400 miles from their landing point in southern France.

French and American forces were charging thru three of the main Vosges passes, keeping up the frontal pressure, and the Germans were massing boats and barges along the Rhine in an effort to save all those that bomb-damaged bridges cannot handle.

The lightning advance placed the allies on three sides of Col. Gen. Johannes Blaskowitz's German 19th army, and the United States 7th and French 1st armies were putting the squeeze on an estimated six to 10 German divisions.

Halfway Thru Saales Pass.

The Americans were half way thru Saales pass, south of the Saverne pass, and French and Americans were well into Ste. Marie, Bonhomme, and Schlucht passes down thru the Vosges toward Belfort.

The 7th army's 15th corps, attacking from the west and east, captured Phalsburg, four miles west of Saverne. It was one of the enemy's last defense zones at the entrance to Saverne gap.

Other forces of the 7th, swinging north, joined up with the 2d cavalry of Lt. Gen. Patton's United States 3d army for a concerted push against the Saar industrial basin and the Palatinate, lying to the east. They captured Weithersweiler, 17 miles from the German border of the Palatinate.

The 3d army, battering forward two to four miles along a 35 mile front, reached the Saar, border at two new undisclosed points, drove to within 15 miles of the stronghold of Saarbrucken, and pressed a mile deeper into Germany to bring 30 square miles under its control.

Under Siegfried Line Fire.

The points along the Saar reached by the 3d's tanks were not disclosed, but in an eight mile advance on the southern flank they had edged forward a mile to Leyviller, 15 miles southwest of Saarbrucken and eight miles short of the Saar frontier.

Inside Germany west of the Saar river, the 3d army reached Kesslingen, 3½ miles north of the border, but here and to the east where it is inside the Saar basin the 3d was running into fire from the Siegfried line fortifications.

The 3d also was within 15 miles southwest of the stronghold of Saarbrucken after a two and a half mile advance which carried its 6th armored division into St. Jean-Rohrback. The 4th armored division churned four miles to Fenetrange, 27 miles south of Saarbrucken.

For Lt. Gen. Hodges United States 1st and Lt. Gen. Simpson's 9th and the British 2d armies, knee deep in mud in heavy battles, this Thanksgiving day at the approaches to the Ruhr and Rhineland was hard and bitter slugging, yard by yard.

Throw in More Big Tanks.

The Germans threw more of their new King Tiger tanks against the United States 9th army and brought its attack almost to a halt after it had closed to less than two miles of Julich on the Roer river. Retaking Lohn, southwest of Julich, the Americans knocked out eight more German tanks, bringing the total destroyed on this front to 83. The King Tiger is Hitler's latest model. It has more than six inches of armor in front.

In a deluge of rain—lashed horizontal by driving winds—the 9th fought into Bourheim, less than two miles southeast of Julich; Koslar, about the same distance west, and Barmen, 2½ miles northwest. No more than 200 yards ahead was the Roer itself, and 25 miles beyond lies the Rhineland industrial city of Cologne.

In a two mile thrust beyond fallen Eschweiler, the 1st army edged into Weisweiler, 26 miles west of Cologne, but the doughboys were heavily beset on both the north and south.

British Seize Hoven.

To the south, they were fighting tree by tree thru the last of the gloomy Hurtgen forest after throwing off two early morning counter-attacks, one of which was led by tanks.

The British 2d army on the northern edge of this front inside Germany seized Hoven and its strategic heights three miles north of Geilenkirchen. Other forces fought thru Wurm, three miles northwest of Geilenkirchen. The Germans counter-attacked repeatedly.

From 15 to 20 miles to the northwest of this front, the Germans were pulling out of all Holland west of the Maas [Meuse] river in the face of other elements of the British 2d, which drove to within three miles of the Maas stronghold of Venlo, delayed only by thick mine fields.

French Sweep 17 Miles in 2d Break-Thru to Rhine

GERMAN WAR BULLETIN.

Thursday's German war bulletin as broadcast from Berlin said:

"The vigor of the enemy mass assault in the Aachen region again increased to the highest pitch after it had temporarily slackened yesterday [Wednesday]. Our troops again withstood the most ferocious test and held their positions.

"The garrison of Eschweiler, toward which the enemy had worked up from three sides in the course of previous bitter fighting which was very costly, withdrew from the encirclement, according to orders, to a position east of the town.

"In the course of the first week of the new defensive battle at Aachen the enemy lost a total of 320 tanks and at least 20,000 men. Our own losses were also high, but not nearly as heavy as those suffered by the Americans."

WOMAN SLUGGED, ROBBED OF $500.

After threatening her with a knife and knocking her to the sidewalk, a husky Negro snatched the purse of Mrs. Lillian Anas, 40, of 824 E. 49th st. last night, escaping with $500. The robbery occurred in front of 4756 Drexel blvd. while Mrs. Anas was on her way with the money to the restaurant owned by her husband, Charles, at 840 E. 43d st., she told police.

YANK GUNNERS KILL 300 NAZIS ATTACKING HILL

ESCHWEILER, Germany, Nov. 23 (AP).—Under gray, dripping skies on this dismal Thanksgiving day, doughboys of Lt. Gen. Hodges' American 1st army inched forward all along the line in some of the heaviest fighting of all the invasion.

The savagery of this plodding battle was told by the dead strewn on the slopes of Hill 232, where the doughboys fought one of the epic defenses of the war. There they had beaten off wave after wave of German attacks as machine gunners performed great acts of heroism.

Maj. Harold Fosnot.

In two machine gun units totaling 50 men a large number were killed or wounded, but as soon as one machine gunner was a casualty, another would jump in to take his place.

300 German Bodies Counted.

Today 150 German bodies were taken from the hillside, and there are 150 more lying in the rain which is turning the countryside into a vast mudhole.

The American advance southeast of Eschweiler's rainsoaked ruins is thru the dark, cruel forested country where every foot of gain exacts its price. Advances are measured in yards of soggy, brown mud, over which many small streams are raging in torrents.

But the boys are almost out of the woods—literally and figuratively. Then the going may be a bit easier. Then they will be able to get support from tanks and self-propelled guns.

The Germans are fighting back with fanatical tenacity, throwing in heavy artillery fire to hold their defenses.

Hamlet Changes Hands Five Times.

Putzlohn, a little village north of Eschweiler, has been one of the hottest battlegrounds of any front. It is just a cluster of about a dozen houses on an intersection of highways, but in 48 hours it changed hands five times.

"The Germans are trying desperately to hold that position," said Maj. Harold Fosnot, 417 West 69th st., Chicago, "because it is one of the keys to their defenses since the fall of Eschweiler."

GRADUATE OF PURDUE.

Maj. Fosnot, 30, has been serving as a general staff officer since he arrived in France in September, his wife, Mrs. Grace Fosnot, 417 W. 69th st., said last night. They have a son, Harold Jr., 17 months. A 1st lieutenant in the reserves, Maj. Fosnot was called to active service in January, 1942. He is a graduate of Purdue university [1935] and was sales manager of the Graver Tank and Manufacturing company, East Chicago, Ind.

UNIONS CALL OFF PHONE STRIKES THRUOUT NATION

Tell Workers to Return to Jobs at Once.

The strike of telephone workers, which for a time threatened the entire nation, ended suddenly late yesterday when union leaders of the striking Ohio and Washington, D. C. operators notified the war labor board they would ask the idle workers to return immediately to their jobs. They also asked that workers striking in sympathy with the original Ohio strike return to work.

The announcement came shortly after 7,500 members of the Illinois Telephone Traffic union, handling state-wide and city toll calls, voted to join the strike as did the Chicago union handling city calls. Earlier in the day, the WLB had referred the strike to Economic Stabilization Director Vinson, and Presidential intervention had been predicted.

The Illinois and Chicago unions rescinded their strike vote after receiving word of the action by the Ohio and Washington leaders. The Detroit union also planned to resume work tomorrow.

Protest Expense Payment.

The strike began last week when a small group of Dayton, O., operators walked out in protest against the payment of $18.25 weekly living expenses to operators brought in from the outside. The strike quickly spread to 28 other Ohio cities.

Nathan Feinsinger, WLB public member, said the Ohio and Washington strike leaders walked into his office and voluntarily offered to return to work. The leaders were Robert G. Pollock, president of the Ohio Federation of Telephone Workers, and Mrs. Mary E. Gannon, president of the Washington Telephone Traffic union.

Anxious to Get Workers Back.

"These people were impressed by the fact the WLB and the government meant business and seizure was imminent," Feinsinger said.

Mrs. Gannon told reporters, "I am anxious to get the workers back. We don't want to do anything to hurt the war effort."

In referring the case to the White House, WLB Chairman Davis had described the conduct of the Ohio union officials as a "pitiful failure to assume the obligations of responsible union leadership in time of war."

Approximately 20,000 Involved.

When the end of the strike came, operators were idle in Ohio, Detroit, Mich., and Washington, D. C. Approximately 20,000 employes were involved.

Other telephone unions in New York City, California, Nevada, Iowa, Nebraska, Texas and Pennsylvania had scheduled executive board meetings for today to take action on the strike. All expressed approval of the Ohio federation's actions. Telephone workers in Indiana alone flatly refused to strike or approve the strike.

AMERICA—DUTCH TOWN—NOW IN HANDS OF ALLIES

[BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS.]

America is now in allied hands. Supreme headquarters yesterday announced the capture of the town of that name in Holland. The British radio said its capture was accomplished by British troops who met only a few sniping rearguards and a pocket or two of anti-personnel mines.

A war correspondent said troops found only "a few shell-blasted trees and houses here and there, some smashed up warehouses and factory buildings, almost inaccessible along the canal bank—a picture of unrelieved wretchedness and misery and desolation."

The correspondent recalled that Dutch farmers in the America area used to grow tobacco which was marketed in the Netherlands wrapped in packages labeled "made in America."

"It used to sell well," he said in the broadcast.

4 IN HOSPITAL, 2 JAILED AFTER ROW IN HOTEL

Mayfair Room Parties Clash Over Show.

Two parties at "ringside" tables in the swank Mayfair room of the Blackstone hotel last night disagreed so violently over the entertainment merits of the "Three Swifts," also known as the "Juggling Jesters," that four persons were carried away to the hospital and two were held at the police station awaiting bail.

It was generally agreed that the party of William P. Carney, 60, of 1200 Lake Shore dr., which included his wife, Ann, 47; Edgar M. Blott, 2948 Pine Grove av., and his wife, Ann, 42, had expressed displeasure with the act.

Pay No Attention.

The Juggling Jesters paid no attention, but the criticism attracted notice from Nathan I. Batt, 27, of 806 Lawrence av., a restaurant man at 2006 State st. He had brought his wife, his parents, his two children and his in-laws to the Mayfair room for a turkey dinner, as did Carney and his party.

The Batts acclaimed the Jesters and said the Carneys made a point of insulting the Batts.

After a round of repartee, which became increasingly sharp long after the Jesters quit juggling, Mrs. Carney said she went on the dance floor with Blott. Batt also was out cutting a rug, and he became so abusive with his talk, Mrs. Carney said, she sent her partner to complain to the manager.

Later, Mrs. Carney said she walked into the lobby. Batt reported he went to the lobby for a breath of air. Mrs. Carney, Batt said, slapped him, and instantly the hotel lobby was in an uproar with all the Batts and the Carneys and their friends slugging it out.

Carney at the Bottom.

Carney was found at the bottom of the pile and surgeons at St. Luke's hospital said he may have suffered a broken collar bone as well as a badly bruised right eye. His wife, with cuts on her face and chest, and Mrs. Blott with a finger nail scratch were sent home. Batt also was cut on the face.

Mrs. Carney and Batt signed disorderly conduct complaints against each other and were released on $25 bonds pending a hearing Dec. 1.

PARIS, Nov. 23 (AP).—Censorship today released the names of American officers and soldiers involved in a prisoner exchange in the German held Lorient sector of France Nov. 16. A six hour armistice at the drab fishing village of Le Magour permitted the trading of 79 Germans for 79 Americans by motor boat across the Etel river.

Chicagoland prisoners exchanged were: 2d Lt. David H. Devonald, 6732 Oglesby av., Chicago, Ill.; Pvt. Edward Zielinski, 1520 Komensky av., Chicago; Sgt. Joseph Hrock, 2632 W. 47th st., Chicago; Pvt. Donald V. Foster, Mattoon, Ill.; T/Sgt. Bertrand B. Pease, 5715 N. Ridge av., Chicago.

FLYING FORTS AND R. A. F. RAID NAZI OIL PLANT

LONDON, Nov. 23 (AP).—A detachment of 150 Fortresses of the United States 8th air force, escorted by 75 Mustangs, jabbed the Nordstern synthetic oil plant at Gelsenkirchen—which normally produces 30,000 tons of fuel monthly—with 500 tons of bombs today and a few hours later R. A. F. Lancasters followed up with another blow at the target.

The American attack was made under such adverse weather conditions that special instruments were used to lay down the explosives.

FEUD BY BIDDLE WITH ASSISTANT TO BRING PROBE

Washington, D. C., Nov. 23 (AP).—Sen. Kilgore [D., W. Va.] said tonight the senate war investigating committee expects to inquire into Atty. Gen. Biddle's request for the resignation of his assistant, Norman M. Littell.

Informed sources said the resignation had been asked for on the basis of "incompatibility" between the two men.

Kilgore said a long smoldering feud between the attorney general and Littell was the result of information given by Littell during hearings of the committee when it was headed by Sen. Truman [D., Mo.], the Vice President elect.

Describing the committee's interest in the justice department rift as an important matter of policy, Kilgore told a reporter:

Calls Situation "Dangerous."

"Frankly, we are going to get to the bottom of this because we don't want to have witnesses punished. It is a dangerous situation and we are going to get the bedrock facts on it."

Littell said he could make no comment on the situation until his answer was given Biddle, probably late tomorrow.

The assistant attorney general, chief of the justice department land division, is a Presidential appointee whose nomination was confirmed by the senate.

Littell, a Rhodes scholar, has held his justice department position five years. Previously, he was a member of the law firm of Evans, McLaren, and Littell in Seattle, Wash., and had undertaken extensive investigations into the west coast oil business for the federal government in connection with the old national recovery administration.

Analyzed Elk Hills Deal.

The assistant attorney general analyzed the Elk Hills oil contract between the navy department and Standard Oil company of California. The contract subsequently was cancelled by the President.

At that time Littel told the house public lands committee the contract "went beyond" contracts involved in the Teapot Dome oil scandal of the Harding administration.

Biddle was unavailable for comment tonight.

HOW 2 CHICAGO MEN DIED WITH HERO OF PACIFIC

Riddle Parachute of One, Pals Stick to End.

A U. S. BOMBER BASE IN SOUTHWEST CHINA, Nov. 14 [Delayed.] — (AP). — Maj. Horace E. [Stump] Carswell Jr., pilot of the B-24 Liberator that sank a Japanese heavy cruiser and a destroyer on Oct. 16 in a great bombing exploit, gave his life 11 nights later in an attempt to save members of his crew.

With two of the four engines of his bomber shot out in a low level attack on a Japanese convoy in the South China sea, the San Angelo, Tex., flyer, 28, and his co-pilot, 2d Lt. James L. O'Neal, 26, of 912 Warren st., Maywood, Ill., were nursing the plane to base when the other engines failed. Eight crew members bailed out. Three officers remained aboard and the plane crashed in flames on a mountainside in China.

Two Stick with Chicagoan.

Carswell, already the ranking hero of the United States 14th air force, and O'Neal could have jumped, but they were sweating it out with 2d Lt. Walter W. Hillier, 28, of 1468 Catalpa av., Chicago, whose parachute had been so riddled by flak he could not use it.

Hillier, a bombardier who a few hours earlier had scored a damaging near-miss on a Japanese destroyer and two direct hits on a merchant ship, died with Carswell and O'Neal.

The last man to bail out, Nose Gunner Staff Sgt. Carlton S. Schnepf, 21, Hicksville, N. Y., saw Hillier kneeling with his ruined chute on the flight deck floor between the pilot and co-pilot.

"Carswell and O'Neal were just sitting there, looking straight ahead," Schnepf said. "They knew the others were bailing out, but they made no move to stop them. They knew about Hillier's chute. They were still trying to ride her in. Then the No. 2 engine sputtered and I jumped."

Opens Chute by Hand.

Schnepf's parachute had been soaked with hydraulic fluid and it failed to function properly. He broke it out with his hands and landed on the mountainside. The plane crashed about 500 yards away. There was a big explosion and fire and Schnepf said the three men must have been killed instantly.

When the mission started the crew knew it was to be another extraordinary affair. A flying scout had radioed he had sighted a Japanese aircraft carrier, and Carswell had decided that his B-24 would seek it out.

REPORTS LOSS OF WATCH.

MOTHER'S STORY OF GIRL POSTMAN FOR NAZIS' FOES

Goes to Death with Secrets Intact.

[By Wireless to the New York Times and The Chicago Tribune.]

PARIS, Nov. 23.—This is the story of the death of Helene Vagliano, who died that others might live and fight.

Helene Vagliano was 'born of a rich Greek family. She lived in the south of France. She was 20 when she died. Later, her mother, Danaee Vagliano, wrote this letter to an English friend:

"Dearest Netta: I have to tell you with hearbreaking grief that our beloved Helene was murdered by the Gestapo at Nice on Aug. 15. A friend, a woman who worked with her [at an aid center for families of French war prisoners] betrayed her when she was arrested—from fear I suppose—and said that her son who had gone to Algiers had been able to leave France because of Helene.

Seized Three Days Later.

"This put the Germans on her trail; they arrested my daughter three days after this woman, this 'great friend' of Helene's, had been taken by the Gestapo.

"We, Mariono [Mrs. Vagliano's husband] and I also were arrested as witnesses or rather accomplices, but Helene never told us about her work as she did not want to compromise us.

"My daughter was taken by these men to the Gestapo prison at Villa Montfleury in Cannes. She was put in solitary confinement in a small cell. Every half hour German Gestapo men came to her cell to question her. As she refused to speak they beat her with canes and three-thonged whips.

"My husband and I and Helene were then taken to Grasse to the headquarters of these savages of the anti-Bolshevik legion. They put me alone in a foul cell for 18 hours without food or water. The cell was just under the third degree chamber. There I heard at intervals during the whole afternoon my little daughter being tortured.

Burnt with Irons.

"I heard her saying, 'I don't know, I don't know,' then, 'O, don't do that again,' then screams of agony. They undressed my daughter completely in front of 10 men and their chief and burnt her whole body with red hot irons and marked her cheeks, her arms, her legs, and her back.

"At 7 a. m. I heard two shots fired, but it was a bluff, and we were later taken from Grasse to Nouvelle prison at Nice."

On Aug. 5 Mrs. Vagliano saw her daughter for the last time.

"There I found my daughter," she wrote. "Her arms, legs, thighs, and neck looked like raw beef and were frightfully swollen. I was ordered to leave the cell and was not allowed to kiss my daughter."

On the morning of the allied landings in the south of France [Aug. 15] "the Gestapo went mad with rage," the letter continued. "At half past three Helene and 22 other prisoners, including two women, were taken from the prison to an open space some five miles away and there shot. The prisoners were tied one to another and shot thru the back of the neck and left on the ground. With the poor child was a priest who blessed all prisoners, not caring what was their religion, and he asked to be shot last so that he could say prayers to the end for them."

STRASBOURG IS FORTRESS AND TRADE CENTER

Strasbourg, which was entered by French armored forces yesterday, is the most famous city of the upper Rhine. It is both a fortress and a commercial center and the religious and cultural capital of Alsace.

Two miles west of the Rhine, it has a population of 180,000 and is the center for travel between Switzerland, France, and Germany. Its products are textiles, leather and machinery and, not the least, pate de fois gras.

Blasts Rock Restaurant Patronized by Geraud

PARIS, Nov. 23 (AP).—The newspaper Paris Presse reported today police were investigating a series of blasts in towns thruout France which came after explosions in a restaurant at Royat where a few hours previously Gen. Henri Giraud had been eating. Giraud, former co-leader of the French committee of national liberation, had planned to return there for luncheon.

RED EMBLEMS COVER BELGRADE, SCARRED BY WAR

Unfold Story of 3½ Years' Nazi Domination.

BELGRADE, Nov. 20 [Delayed]—(AP).—The story of Belgrade's three and one-half years of Nazi occupation was unfolded to the western world today a month after the Yugoslav capital's liberation by the Red army and Marshal Tito's Partisans.

Uniforms of the western allies are rare, soviet emblems are everywhere, and the city is scarred by allied bombing and German vandalism. Yugoslavia's future political orientation is declared to be a subject for post-war determination by the people themselves.

The first party of American, British, and Canadian newspaper men to visit the city since its liberation found a cold, bomb scarred metropolis resounding to the songs of hundreds of Partisans drilling thru streets profusely bedecked with the Red star, the hammer and sickle, and pictures of Premier Stalin and Marshal Tito.

Two Story Picture of Tito.

Virtually every store window is adorned with identical portraits of Stalin and Tito side by side, and a huge two story picture of Tito is hanging in the heart of the city at an intersection.

The city suffered heavily under allied bombings, which strategically had put the capital out of the war last April. Nearly every downtown building bears the marks of bombing, and it is a rare building which has its windows intact.

While there is no apparent food shortage, prices have sky-rocketed, sometimes as much as 200 per cent over the pre-war level. On roads leading to the city many women are trading clothes for food from peasants.

The main problem as winter approaches is transportation. Fuel is available in the country, but the railroads are practically wiped out and almost every automobile is used for war.

War Is Keynote.

With the front not far away in three directions, war is the keynote in Belgrade. The shots of drilling Partisans ring out all day. They train for a month and then go to the front to pursue the Nazis.

Signs of street fighting and evidence of German vandalism mark the city. Wrecked Nazi tanks are still standing at intersections. The burned-out library of Belgrade university, which the citizens say was deliberately fired by the Germans, is one of the most conspicuous relics.

A chapter in the story of Belgrade which perhaps never will be fully told is the fate of approximately 15,000 Jews. The men were rounded up by the Germans for forced labor until September, 1941, when they were taken to an unknown destination. In January, 1942, the women and children were rounded up and held in a concentration camp on the fair grounds. Eventually they disappeared.

Tito Talks of Future.

LONDON, Nov. 23 (AP).—Marshal Tito said today a federal democratic government would be established in Yugoslavia and that it would apply all its powers "to the closest collaboration and rapproachement with its Balkan neighbors," particularly Bulgaria.

In an interview with Stemjan Bristev, a Bulgarian newspaperman, Tito explained that the new Yugoslavia would consist of six federal units—Serbia, Croatia, Slovenia, Macedonia. Bosnia-Hercegovina, and Montenegro.

2 DIE OF HEART ATTACKS.

Des Plaines Street police yesterday were seeking relatives of two men who died in their district, apparently of heart attacks. Edward Stack, 46, was found dead in his bed at a hotel at 645 Madison st. William Fall, 70, collapsed and died in front of 1013 Madison st., where he lived.

Russian Offensive on Move Again

Advances reported by Russians in Hungary and Czechoslovakia.

RUSSIA REOPENS SLOVAKIA DRIVE ON 25 MILE LINE

Gain on Kassa; Win Csap and Tokaj.

LONDON, Nov. 23 (AP).—The Red army resumed its offensive in Czechslovakia west of Ungvar today, grinding thru rain and mud for gains of as much as 16 miles on a 25 mile front. At the same time the soviets recaptured the famous wine center of Tokaj [Tokay] in northern Hungary.

The operations by the 4th Ukrainian army in Slovakia and the 2d Ukrainian army in Hungary gave the Russians a virtually continuous active front of about 55 miles stretching across the frontier northeast from Tokaj to Sobrance, a town 10 miles northwest of Ungvar.

In the fresh drive in Slovakia the 4th army again seized the railway junction of Csap [Cop], which has changed hands several times in recent weeks, and occupied more than 30 other populated places.

Drive on Kassa.

The offensive apparently was aimed at the big highway and railway hub of Kassa [Kosice], 40 miles west of the fighting today.

A chain of hills about 800 feet high must be crossed to reach Kassa. Once this is accomplished the Russians would have practically a straight front from Miskolc, the northern Hungarian rail center, into Poland.

In today's fighting soviet forces smashed due west of Ungvar 16 miles to Budkovce.

The broadcast Russian war bulletin said more than 3,000 German and Hungarian prisoners were taken in the fighting north and northwest of Csap and also announced the capture of more than 2,500 of the enemy in two days of battle in Hungary. Moscow said this brought the total of prisoners taken in Hungary since Nov. 8 to 14,470.

Advance Beyond Tokaj.

The Russians' announcement of the recapture of Tokaj came a day after the Germans said they had evacuated the town and a few hours later than a Romanian announcement which said Romanian troops and soviet forces had moved in.

Moscow also said Tarcal, three miles west of Tokaj, was taken during the day.

Three heavily fortified places on the island of Saare, guarding the entrance to the gulf of Riga, also were captured by the Russians and a German garrison on the island's Sworbe peninsula, to the south, was pressed back against the sea, Moscow said.

POLES, BRITONS CAPTURE MORE ITALIAN TOWNS

ROME, Italy, Nov. 23 (AP).—British and Polish troops, slogging forward in the hills south of highway No. 9 between Forli and Faenza against strong German resistance, have captured a few more villages and ridges and cleared most of the Nazis out of the Cosina river loop southeast of Faenza.

The Poles, after capturing Monte Piano, moved 500 yards east and took the village of San Mamante. They also captured Oriolo and San Biagio, northwest of Monte Piano.

In fighting thru these rugged hills at the edge of the Po valley the Poles captured 140 prisoners and inflicted heavy casualties in killed and wounded on the Germans.

Eindhoven Plea for Food Wins Fats and Meats

EINDHOVEN, Holland, Nov. 23 (AP).—A peaceful demonstration two days ago protesting a lack of food in the Eindhoven area has resulted in a slight increase in fats and meats supplied by allied armies. This success has aroused the rest of liberated Holland and there are threats from all the larger cities of massed hunger strikes unless food allotments are increased.

VISIT TO SAMAR GUERRILLAS IS A CALL ON FRIENDS

Tribune Man Finds They're Wonderful People.

BY ARTHUR VEYSEY.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

WITH THE GUERRILLAS ON SAMAR ISLAND, P. I., Nov. 21 [Delayed].—These guerrillas are wonderful people. Most of them are farmers or fishermen who, from time to time, take days off to go fighting. Others are town folks who have moved to the country for what they call the emergency—accent on the third syllable.

If you come to visit, their canoes by scores surround your ship before it drops anchor. They are all smiles. Immediately the trading begins. The sailors want guerrillas' hats, their bolos, their shoes. The guerrillas want sailors' hats, shirts, trousers, and guns. Such bartering you never saw.

Carried Ashore by Youth.

You climb into an outrigger canoe and they paddle you ashore. The tide is out and the canoe grounds 100 yards out. One youth, who cannot weigh over 125 pounds, says, "Sir, climb upon my shoulders." You don't see how your 145 pounds can balance on such a small man, but he takes you thru.

Ashore, guerrillas line the beach. They laugh when one of their number pretends to falter with a navy officer he is carrying.

Small groups of men vanish and return later with squealing pigs slung on poles. Other pigs, skinned and stuffed with rice, are roasting on spits under almost every house.

Showers come suddenly. Each time you step into a new rest house—what a strange contrast! The houses are 12 by 15 feet, with walls and roof of coconut fronds and floors of split bamboo. Yet each had wood and steel chairs like those found in any old-fashioned drug store, sparkling china and silverware, and pure white, beautifully embroidered pillow cases piled in the corners with the mats which serve as beds.

Sergeant Keeps Men Drilling.

During the day a sergeant, who is a former Philippine scout and a colorful character with long hair, keeps calling his platoon into formation. He arrived only a few days ago and he is wasting no time. He marches smartly, in his bare feet and faded dim shorts, barks his orders, and puts his men thru close order drill.

Once a scout comes in with a report the Japs are in a village three miles away. In less than five minutes a patrol is on the way.

In the afternoon there is a feast; roast pig, called lechon, is the main dish. For the salad, there is heart of palm, delicious and crisp like watermelon. For the drink, there is tube, made from coconut. It tastes like raw yeast and puckers the mouth—grim reminder of the wallop it packs.

LOOT BOTH CAR AND APARTMENT.

Thieves took a $500 fur coat from her apartment and an oil painting from her parked automobile, Mrs. N. C. Ellis, 701 N. Michigan av., told police yesterday.

CAVALRY WINS PEAK AND LOOKS DOWN AT ORMOC

Japs Hold Twin Crest 400 Yards Off.

BY ARTHUR VEYSEY.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

WITH 1ST UNITED STATES CAVALRY IN ORMOC HILLS, Leyte Island, P. I., Nov. 22 [Delayed].—Cavalry conquerors of 2,000 foot Mount Catabaran, highest of the Ormoc hills, today looked down into Ormoc bay. Because of the clouds which have hung low over the hills almost continuously for the last two weeks, the men could not make out Ormoc city itself, but could trace dimly the coast line. Ormoc is the last major stronghold of the Japanese on Leyte Island.

The troopers, among whom was Leon Jaskufulski of Chicago, fought their way up the slope of the mountain after tramping for two weeks across rice paddies and sharply rising and falling, boulder strewn ridges.

Spend Nights in Water.

They have been wet ever since leaving their base. Knee deep mud filled their shoes, and then on the slopes, the boulders cut the leather to pieces. At night they dug holes and tried to cover them with their ponchos to keep out rain and chill winds, but by morning the holes always were two or three inches deep with water and the men were shivering.

Until two days ago there was just occasional sniper fire. But to gain the last ridge before Mount Catabaran, the troopers had to take on a sizable force of dug-in Japs. While part of the troopers laid down sheets of machine gun fire, others crawled up to the little round rat holes in which the Japs hid, and with grenades and guns exterminated them.

Japs 400 Yards Away.

Today the Yanks hold the northwest crest of the twin peaked mountain. The other peak, 400 yards away, still is occupied by the Japs. Occasionally a trooper or a Jap fires across the ravine. A couple of times the Japs let fly with their knee mortars, and the troopers replied by radioing their artillery for some bursts.

Nobody will sleep much tonight.

U. S. PLANES BOMB TWO JAP PORTS IN CENTRAL CHINA

San Francisco, Cal., Nov. 23 (AP).—Fourteen American Liberator and Mitchell bombers heavily bombed the Wuhan area of China, including the river ports of Hankow and Wuchang, for more than an hour Wednesday night [China time], a Japanese Domei dispatch said today. The report was unconfirmed from any allied source.

The dispatch said the attacks in Central China's Hupeh province restricted "casualties and damages" to "Chinese residential areas."

"Our interceptors and anti-aircraft crews battled the enemy planes from 9:40 to 11 p. m.," Domei said.

[BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS.]

Raids on three air fields in China by Japanese bomber units were reported yesterday by Domei, Japanese news agency. The report said 13 allied planes were damaged.

SUPER FORTS CARRY TEN TONS OF BOMBS, 8,000 GALLONS OF GAS

Washington, D. C., Nov. 23 (AP).—A Super Fortress can carry at least 10 tons of bombs. The army air forces disclosed today in announcing that a B-29 would be on exhibition here this week-end.

With the plane will be shown supplies and equipment including "the largest load carried so far by a B-29, 40 500-pound bombs," the announcement said.

The gasoline load of the plane "will be demonstrated by 160 50-gallon drums," the AAF said, but did not make clear whether the bomb load was possible with the 8,000 gallon fuel load [which would weigh 18 tons].

CHINESE SEIZE 10 MORE TOWNS ON BURMA ROAD

CHUNGKING, China, Nov. 23 (AP).—Chinese forces who captured the Japanese stronghold of Mangshih on the Burma road last week-end have cleared long additional stretches of the road with the capture of 10 more towns south of the mouth of the Mangshih valley, the Chinese high command announced today.

As a result of the drive by Chinese troops in Yunnan province in collaboration with the American-Chinese campaign down the Ledo road from northern Burma, the China link of the Burma road is virtually ready to be reopened to military traffic, according to the Chinese press. The stretch between Lungling and Tehgchung already is open, these reports said.

Mangshih air field has been taken and repair work has begun on its landing strips and hangars. Mangshih is about 40 miles east of Bhamo.

NEW SUPER FORT FORCE AIMED AT JAPAN'S HEART

Tokyo Photographed by Lone B-29.

SAIPAN, Marianas Islands, Nov. 24 [Friday] —(AP).—The United States launched a mighty aerial weapon—the brand new 21st bomber command of the 20th army air force—straight at the heart of Japan today.

A great task force of B-29 Super Fortresses thundered into the dawn at breath-taking one minute intervals from this island, which five months ago belonged to Japan.

Some of the huge planes took off from the magnificent Isely air field, which was constructed on the comparatively small Aslito field, the main Japanese air base in the Marianas. Isely is one of a series of Super Fortress bases already built or under construction at Tinian and Guam, as well as Saipan.

The giant planes dog-legged in the sky to form patterns of nine or 12 as they headed northwestward toward the most heavily guarded target in the far east—Tokyo itself—some 1,500 miles from this base.

Headed by Ex-Coach.

Leading the entire formation was Brig. Gen. Emmett [Rosie] O'Donnel, 38, of Jamaica, N. Y., former West Point football coach. He is helping avenge the losses the Americans suffered while he, then a major, was piloting B-17 bombers in the Philippines, Java, and Australia early in the war.

The B-29 flyers took off knowing the enemy was alerted by recent practice missions against Truk and the Bonin Islands and by photographic reconnaissance over Tokyo.

But they expected to surprise the Japanese from the standpoint of the impressive scale of this initial major combat mission, engineered under the watchful eye of the new organization's commander—Brig. Gen. Haywood S. [Possum] Hansell Jr. of San Antonio, Tex.

Tokyo Photographed.

A photo reconnaissance B-29, which photographed Tokyo on Nov. 1 and several times since then, discovered the Japanese capital was ringed by elaborate air fields, packed with planes.

The entire Yokohama area, adjacent to the sprawling capital, bristles with anti-aircraft guns, which put up a most intense barrage.

On the photo plane's third trip to Tokyo 100 Japanese fighters rose but failed to attack.

Earlier smaller formations of fighter planes also declined to engage the lone B-29, possibly because they were unable to obtain the desired speeds at that altitude. The fighters also may have been handicapped because their engines overheated. This was an early handicap to the Super Forts, now largely overcome.

Companion to 20th Force.

The 21st bomber command is the second unit of the 20th air force to be announced. Hansell said the organization thus is able to take advantage of six months' experience gained by the 20th command, operating in China, 2,700 miles away. The 21st was organized in Colorado Springs, Colo.

B-29 service organizations established themselves in the Marianas soon after the islands were seized. Aviation engineers, under Lt. Col. Edward A. Flanders, 27, of Oshkosh, Wis., built seven miles of taxiways at one field alone. They salvaged much material, such as boilers, pumps, and pipes, from a former Japanese sugar mill.

Now Saipan is an amazing place, its air fields a vast panorama of slim, silvery, uncamouflaged B-29s, gleaming on a great patchwork of coral sands. In nearby valleys, Japanese civilians toil in gardens, plow their fields with stolid black oxen—indifferent to the sky monsters that rule the Marianas.

YANKS ALL OVER WORLD OBSERVE THANKSGIVING

4,000 at Service in Westminster Abbey.

LONDON, Nov. 24 (AP).—Turkey dinners went to soldiers in the front lines of Europe and Asia today and thousands of their comrades at administrative and supply posts thru the world attended religious services and social functions as Americans overseas celebrated Thanksgiving day.

Some 4,000 American soldiers, sailors, nurses, and Red Cross workers trooped into bomb-scarred Westminster Abbey to offer hymns and prayers in this resting place of many of England's illustrious dead.

Prime Minister Churchill, addressing a Thanksgiving night concert audience, said that Americans had more justification than ever for being thankful today "when we see that in three or four years the United States has, in sober fact, become the greatest military, naval, and air power in the world."

Around the rest of the world Americans celebrated in various ways: At the Cathedral of Reims in France, at the embassy in Moscow, under air raid alarm in Chungking, in India, and in Burma.

In the cathedral of Reims, mass was celebrated by the Rev. Patrick T. Brennan, of Chicago. More than 1,000 United States soldiers took part and an American flag was presented to the cathedral. One of the two WACs in the color guard which carried the flag to the platform was Tech. fourth grade Grace L. Butler, of Stronghurst, Ill.

In the front lines everywhere the day was celebrated as well as possible in front of the enemy's guns.

One hundred American soldiers and nurses were guests of the city of Boston, England, where the Pilgrims gathered before boarding the Mayflower for the new world.

From the continent Gen. Eisenhower in a Thanksgiving day broadcast to the United States called upon Americans to oversubscribe the 6th war loan and then transform the money quickly into vital fighting equipment which is "needed now."

TOKYO BOMBED BY BIGGFST U. S. FORCE OF B-29S

second bombing of the enemy capital. The first attack was made by 18 medium bombers launched from the deck of the carrier Hornet on April 18, 1942.

That flight was commanded by the then Lt. Col. Doolittle, now a lieutenant general and commander of the 8th air force in Europe.

The civilized world was disturbed later by reports that some of the flyers who participated in the first raid had been executed by the Japanese.

Airmen Trained in Kansas.

The work of building the air fields in the Marianas was started at almost the moment the last organized enemy resistance ceased in those islands. Saipan was secured on July 8 and Guam a few weeks later.

The 21st bomber command was activated on March 8 this year and started training at Smoky Hill air base, Selina, Kas., a few weeks later.

The announcement on the Tokyo attack also disclosed the appointment of Lt. Gen. Harmon as deputy commander of the 20th air force which is headed by Arnold.

In a statement Harmon asserted that "we have brought Japan within range of our Super Fortresses from the east as well as from the west. No part of the homeland of Japan is now safe from land based air attacks. We can hit where and when we choose."

Tokyo had a population in 1940 of more than 6,000,000. Located there is one of the most important industrial sections of Japan. Actually, the industrial area includes the cities of Tokyo, Yokohama, Kawasaki, and Tsurumi.

Hansell assumed command of the 21st on Aug. 29, relieving Brig. Gen. Roger M. Ramey, who became chief of staff of the 21st. Ramey had served up to that time as the acting commanding general of the 21st.

Fleet Hits Kuriles.

U. S. PACIFIC FLEET HDQ., Pearl Harbor, Nov. 23 (AP).—United States 9th fleet warships shelled Matsuwa, Japanese Kurile Island base, in an unopposed attack Tuesday within 600 miles of the home island of Hokkaido, Adm. Nimitz announced today. No American ship was damaged. Large fires and explosions were observed ashore. Japanese batteries on the coast were silent.

Lightning fighter planes sank five small freighters and probably sank a 6,000 ton vessel during raids on Makassar, Celebes, on Monday, Gen. MacArthur announced in a supplementary war bulletin. The aerial patrols also destroyed a float plane.

CHICAGO WACS IN PARIS OBSERVE THANKSGIVING

PARIS, Nov. 23.—Parisians joined specially invited members of the American Red Cross and allied troops at beflowered Notre Dame cathedral this morning to celebrate Thanksgiving day. Other services took place at the American Episcopal church and at the Rothschild synagog.

Among the WACs who celebrated Thanksgiving day in Paris were the following Chicagoans: Pearl Crot, 6319 Kenwood av.; Theresa Kraeske, 6327 N. Francisco av.; Ebba Nielsen, 1511 Hyde Park blvd.; and Mary Lawson, 4924 Newport av.

SNOWFALL ADDS GAY NOTE TO THANKSGIVING

Altho less than one inch of snow fell to give Chicago a white Thanksgiving day, it was the heaviest Thanksgiving snowfall in 51 years, records of the Chicago weather bureau showed. Only .10 of an inch of the white carpeting covered the ground but it was the first measurable snow on the holiday since 1935, when .3 of an inch fell. The all-time official Thanksgiving day record for snow was set in 1893, when there were two inches of snow.

Snow was reported thruout southern Wisconsin, extreme northern Illinois, northeastern Iowa, and northern Indiana, with no more immediately in sight. The local weather bureau forecast slightly warmer temperatures at night and warmer today.

It was the first measurable but the second official snow in Chicago this season, a trace having been recorded Nov. 18. James Smith, meteorologist in charge of the weather bureau records, said the day was the 19th of 23 November days that had been marked by precipitation.

OCEAN JUMPOFF AIR FIELD LIES IN WILDERNESS

Goose Bay, Labrador, Has Illinois Commander.

BY FRANK CIPRIANI.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

AN AMERICAN AIR BASE, Goose Bay, Labrador, Nov. 23.—This is the jumping off place over the "Big Drink" for thousands of American combat planes. On the other side lie the United Kingdom, continental Europe and the fighting fronts.

Lt. Col. Hassell.

A highly vital base of the far flung army air transport command, its job is to move swiftly and safely tactical ships and crews to the European theater of war. The job is being amazingly well done. The commander, well known to Chicago, is Lt. Col. R. J. [Fish] Hassell of Rockford, Ill.

Goose Bay field lies atop a plateau. All around is one endless panorama of muskeg or swamp, spruce, fir and birch trees. They seem gaunt and a trapper explains that 30 years ago a great fire swept thru the forests. What one now sees is a courageous effort by nature to amend for some one's carelessness.

Bird life seems nonexistent, but caribou and fox abound, and the streams and lakes are alive with fighting fish. The nearest settlement is a community of some 60 persons of mixed Eskimo, Indian, and French breed.

Planes' Safety Counts.

Nature's beauty, of course, is unimportant here. What counts is the number of ships that arrive, the number of ships that depart and safely reach overseas. Everything that a rich nation can give is here for the protection of crews and aircraft alike. It is the boast of Col. Hassell that the total loss of tactical aircraft from Goose Bay to the United Kingdom since Jan. 1 amounts to less than 2/100th of 1 per cent.

Runways are more than a mile long and comfortably broad, as they need be for the huge Flying Fortresses and Liberators.

Radio and other communications, including the all-important weather service, are in operation 24 hours a day. Air transport command officers, most of them with years of high achievement in commercial flying, are here to guide and direct the young fighting men.

Guesswork Is Absent.

Nothing is left to guesswork. No move is made without knowledge behind it. All incoming aircraft are inspected before going out. All crews are given comfortable billets and allowed ample time for rest and sleep. All crews likewise are briefed or instructed on the problems of their approaching trans-Atlantic crossing.

The base personnel is largely skilled and broken into specialist units. Included are the arctic search and rescue dog section and the snow clearing unit. The dog and sled rescue company easily catches the imagination. Its dog colony totals nearly 50 Siberian, Greenland, and Malamute huskies.

Considerable snow now covers the rugged terrain, and a fallen plane, if not too distant, would depend for rescue upon the huskies and their sleds. In charge is Tech. Sgt. Howard Woolridge of Sharpsville, near Kokomo, Ind. His right hand man is another midwesterner, Corp. Charles Bevan of Maquoketa, Ia. Their huskies answer to such far north names as Tundra, Kabloon, Vanka, Sasya, Klondike, and Smoky.

Keep Runways Clear.

The job of the snow clearing unit is to keep runways open. This is done with powerful plows, sweepers, and bulldozers.

Goose Bay is operated jointly by the American and Canadian governments. Thus the runways accommodate not only American Fortresses and Liberators but British Mosquitos and Lancasters.

Morale is high at this ATC base, a reflection of the happy personality of Col. Hassell. Among airmen he is known as the "granddaddy of the north" because of his attempted flight from Rockford to Stockholm in 1928. He made a forced landing on the Greenland ice cap and he and his partner, Maj. "Shorty" Cramer, walked off to safety. It took them two weeks.

'Uncle Bob' Hope Cheers Stricken Girl

Takes Father's Place

When Petty Officer M. F. Attaway failed to arrive from the South Pacific yesterday to spend Thanksgiving day with his daughter, Patricia, 6, lymphatic leukemia victim, Bob Hope, radio and screen comedian, canceled his scheduled activities and went to St. Charles hospital, Aurora, where Patricia is a patient.

Relatives said Patricia had not smiled so much since she was forced to be confined to bed. For 45 minutes Hope—"Uncle Bob" to Patricia—entertained her with funny stories and remarks. He signed her autograph book and left an autographed picture of himself.

Report Jap Guerrillas Raid Yanks on Morotai

CHICAGO SERVES FIGHTERS 40,000 TURKEY DINNERS

Forty thousand soldiers and sailors were served turkey dinners with all the trimmings yesterday in the three service men's centers operated by the Chicago commission on national defense. Almost 30,000 pounds of turkey were consumed.

Nearly eight thousand mince pies, along with loads of turkey and ham, were fed to 60,000 men in the Great Lakes Naval Training center. Special dinners and entertainment were provided in Gardiner and Vaughn hospitals.

150,000 PACK PIER TO VIEW NAVY'S WAR LOAN SHOW

A crowd estimated at more than 150,000 packed Navy pier yesterday to see the landing craft, ordnance, and other war material that make up the navy's 6th war loan show, "Pacific Theater." This was by far the biggest attendance of the show's first six days. Capt. Dorothy Stratton of Washington, senior officer of the SPARS, was guest of honor.

Tonight the Hollywood luminaries, Mary Pickford and Carol Bruce, will appear in the pier theater between 9 and 9:30. At 2 p. m. there will be a style show called "Cavalcade of Naval Uniforms." Naval dress dating from 1812 to the present will be shown.

Tonight's "invasion" of the Foster av. beach at 8 o'clock will be the first "attack" staged in darkness. It will involve 14 amphibious craft and 300 marines, sailors, and coast guard men.

Another navy exhibit of fighter planes and a hospital plane is on view at the municipal airport. Both shows are free daily from noon to 10 p. m.

DRIVE FOR WAGE BOOSTS BACKED BY AFL MEETING

Workers' Buying Power Termed Low.

BY GEORGE HARTMANN.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New Orleans, La., Nov. 23.—A drive by all unions affiliated with the American Federation of Labor for general wage increases and a campaign for the organization of 9 million workers in low wage industries were approved yesterday by the AFL convention.

They were recommended by the executive council whose report was unanimously accepted. No convention sessions were held today because of the holiday.

"At today's wage rates there is a shortage of workers' buying power," the council said. "This shortage is so serious that it will undermine the very basis of our future prosperity by threatening to plunge the country into a disastrous business depression."

Wide Promotional Field.

The 9 million low wage workers sought by the AFL are employed by power laundries, tobacco companies, textile and other fiber manufacturers, retail trades, cleaning and dyeing firms, lumber companies, furniture and finished lumber producers, leather manufacturers, paper products makers, apparel producers, food companies, quarries, nonmetallic mines, and stone, clay, and glass companies.

A number of resolutions being considered by the resolutions committee headed by Matthew Woll, vice president of the AFL, condemn discrimination.

One of them asks that the AFL inaugurate an investigation of white and Negro discrimination in the army and navy. Another, introduced by E. Phil Randolph, Negro president of the Brotherhood of Sleeping Car Porters, condemns the policy of some AFL unions of segregating Negroes into auxiliary unions that do not have a right to vote on union questions.

Back-to-School Drive.

A meeting of 100 American Legion members who also are delegates to the convention was held this afternoon. Principal speaker was Frank Fenton, organizations director of the AFL.

The chief aim of the meeting, which was arranged by Irwin Kuenzli, secretary-treasurer of the American Federation of Teachers, is a back-to-school drive aimed at 3 million school age workers presently employed.

The meeting voted to ask the AFL convention to demand federal aid for school age workers who cannot afford to return to school after the war.

NEW TRAIN ABLE TO GO 80 M. P. H. AROUND CURVES

Washington, D. C., Nov. 23 (AP).—A new type of train has been invented in Spain that is claimed to have sped 80 miles an hour around mountain curves. A normal train could not exceed 31 miles an hour under such circumstances without being derailed. Details of the train were reported by William L. Smyser, third secretary of the United States embassy at Madrid, in an article published today by the commerce department.

Smyser described the train as swift, streamlined, lightweight, diesel powered, and economical. He said the inventor is Lt. Col. Alejandro Goicoechea.

The old idea of long carriages was abandoned. The new cars are only 12 to 14 feet long. Each car has two wheels at its rear end and none at the front end, which is linked to the car ahead. The center of gravity is less than half as high as in ordinary trains. The over-all height is only 7 or 8 feet. The car floors are about 1 foot above the rails. There are no axles. Each wheel is independently sprung from the car body frame.

AIMS TO ATTACH OLD AGE TAX PEG TO UNRRA BILL

Washington, D. C., Nov. 23 [Special].—Sen. Vandenberg [R., Mich.] said today he plans to submit his proposal for another freeze of the social security tax for 1945 as an amendment to a house bill involving the UNRRA when it reaches the senate.

The bill now being considered by the house ways and means committee asks the courtesy of customs for officers and employes of UNRRA and for aliens representing foreign governments on UNRRA. One section of the bill would amend the internal revenue code to exclude from gross income the earned income of UNRRA employes outside the United States.

The Constitution provides that all bills dealing with revenue must originate in the house. Since the house has not originated legislation in this session on the social security tax, Vandenberg said he would use the UNRRA proposal involving the revenue code change to bring the matter before congress.

Executives' Club to Hear Vaughan Hospital Head

Brig. Gen. Percy J. Carroll, commanding officer of the Vaughan General hospital, will address the weekly luncheon of the Executives' club today in Hotel Sherman. He will speak on "Medical Service in the Present War."

Hero's Welcome

Maj. Thomas P. Liston, home from 86 missions in the European war theater, is welcomed in the La Salle street station by his mother, Mrs. Katherine Liston, and his sweetheart, Peg Murnane.

First American to shoot down a "buzz-bomb," a German V-1 robot, Maj. Thomas A. Liston, 25, arrived home yesterday in time for a Thanksgiving day dinner with his family at 2909 Sherwin av., after a year in the European theater as leader of a Thunderbolt fighter squadron engaging in 86 missions over Germany, France, and Italy.

Maj. Liston's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Thomas P. Liston, his sisters, Katherine and Mary, and his girl friend, Miss Peg Murnane, 2920 Commonwealth av., met the train.

"Am I lucky to be here!" the major exclaimed on returning home for reassignment after one year in Europe with 86 aerial missions to his credit.

MOTHER MOUSER, GUARDING HER 5, BITES MAN'S LEG

Charles Cebatis, 38, 148 N. Leamington av., wound up the holiday yesterday in the Presbyterian hospital after his leg almost served as a Thanksgiving dinner for an enraged cat.

Cebatis was in a warehouse at 36th st. and Racine av. waiting for his father, the watchman. Near-by was Clementine, a normally gentle mouser, nursing five new born kittens. Cebatis leaned over to move a burlap sack which was in his way and dragged it past Clementine's nose. With a bound the cat leaped at Cebatis and bit his right leg three times.

Police notified the city health department, which will examine the cat for rabies.

CIO EXPECTED TO ACT TODAY ON WAGE POLICY

The Congress of Industrial Organizations at its convention in the Stevens hotel today is expected to pass resolutions recommending policies for the national labor relations board and for revision of the "little steel formula," which forbids raising wage levels to more than 15 per cent over the rates of early 1941.

Yesterday the 600 delegates pledged the organization to work for a post-war program of 60 million jobs. Homes and prosperity for all without racial discrimination was the theme of the resolutions passed.

WLB Acts Condemned.

Also indorsed was a resolution that labor be given a place at the peace conference.

Recent acts of the war labor board were branded a retreat from the basic principles of the Wagner act in another resolution. The delegates declared this change in "administrative attitude" was due to Gerald Reilly, a member of the NLRB. The convention condemned Reilly's activities and policies.

Several speakers in the late afternoon declared that the aviation and automobile industries could be converted very soon after the war to avenues of vast prosperity.

Compensation Is Asked.

Other post-war recommendations asked the establishment of a demobilization board, with labor, industry, and agricultural representatives, the disposal of surplus goods in a way that would encourage employment, compensation and transportation expense for war workers thrown out of jobs, and the maintenance of wage levels—with an annual wage for all workers an ultimate goal. Government spending in nonprivate fields was urged.

President Philip Murray extended a blanket invitation to all Negro workers to join CIO affiliated unions. Another resolution asked that Franco's Spain be barred from the allied nations group.

Mayor La Guardia of New York one of the speakers, asserted the United States would have to accept responsibility not only for maintaining peace but also for raising living standards all over the world.

Widow of Sen. Norris Passes Thru Chicago

Mrs. George W. Norris, widow of the senator from Nebraska, passed thru Chicago yesterday en route east to visit with her children. She later will go to Brunswick, Ga., where she will christen a liberty ship that is to be named for her husband.

COPS GET BIRD THAT SETS OFF BURGLAR ALARM

A delicate burglar alarm in the Madigan Brothers department store at 4030 Madison st. kept Policemen William Tyrrell, Murray Rover, and Philip Derrig fully on the alert last night until Tyrrell used his hat as well as his head.

After the alarm sounded the policemen searched the store without finding anything amiss, then reset the alarm and withdrew. Half an hour later the alarm again insistently clanged its summons.

"Somebody's giving us the bird," said Tyrrell sternly. "We'll get him this time."

The policemen overlooked nothing. They jobbed pins in store dummies, rummaged under counters, and pounced on innocent looking hat boxes. Suddenly they flushed the intruder. Tyrrell waved at it with his cap and captured it. It was a starling.

OPA Extends Ration Banking to 4 Groups

RAIL OFFICIALS, STRIKE LEADERS ASKED TO MEET

Labor Director Will Urge Resumption of Service.

Robert L. Gordon, acting state director of labor, moved yesterday to bring about a resumption of service on the North Shore line and the Chicago Aurora and Elgin railroad, which has been stopped for 13 days by a trainmen's strike.

Robert L. Gordon.

Gordon sent telegrams to representatives of the railroads and the two railway brotherhoods involved in the walkout, inviting them to meet at 10 a. m. today in his office at 205 Wacker dr.

"I feel certain both sides will agree that an immediate resumption of this vital service is necessary," the telegram said.

Executives Asked to Meeting.

Invited to attend the peace meeting were John Zanger, vice president of the Brotherhood of Railroad Trainmen; Daniel B. Miller, vice president of the Brotherhood of Locomotive Firemen and Enginemen; Bernard J. Fallon, executive officer of the two railroads, and the trustees and receivers of the lines.

The North Shore line is now being reorganized in bankruptcy proceedings and the C. A. & E. is in receivership in federal court.

The strike was called Nov. 10 after an emergency mediation board appointed by President Roosevelt rejected the unions' demands for a wage increase of 9 cents an hour. The board recommended a 5 cent increase and the railroads have agreed to pay this.

502 Actual Strikers.

Gordon said he understood the wage fixing is a matter to be decided by federal government agencies, but that he hoped an arrangement could be made to get the trains running pending settlement of the wage dispute.

While only 502 motormen, conductors, and collectors are involved in the strike, the railroads have laid off all except a skeleton force of their 1,500 nonoperating employes. Numerous telegrams sent to the White House asking for Presidential intervention have not been acknowledged.

Weather Weary

Tallulah Bankhead and her husband, John Hoysradt.

Tallulah Bankhead and Wallace Beery, stage and screen stars, who passed thru Chicago yesterday en route from Hollywood to New York, were in definite disagreement on the city's Thanksgiving weather. Beery said he thought it was "wonderful—beautiful." Miss Bankhead pulled her fur coat about her, shuddered, and said, "I can't stay here a minute longer and look at this horrible mess," meaning the melted snow falling from the roof of the train shed. She was accompanied by her husband, John Hoysradt.

'WHO'S NEXT, BUY A BOND!' IS NEW CRY OF BARBERS

Master barbers of Illinois are solidly behind the 6th war loan and not only are purchasing war bonds themselves but have turned their shops into selling agencies for the current drive, the Master Barbers' association of Chicago announced yesterday. Instead of the time honored cry of "next!" these shop owners have adopted a new slogan when a customer enters the place:

"Good morning, have you bought a bond today?"

Chicago barbers, after opening the subject in the above manner, according to Frank Aliotta, executive secretary-treasurer of the association, will follow thru as discretion may dictate.

The child, hospitalized "six or eight times," was treated for a streptococcus infection of the ear and throat and for bronchial pneumonia.

James never has walked, but he speaks fluently for a small child and takes a keen interest in all that goes on about him.

TWO CREWS JOIN SOUTH CHICAGO STEEL STRIKE

The so-called wildcat strike at the Carnegie-Illinois Steel corporation's South Chicago works spread further yesterday when maintenance crews in two more departments joined the strike. The number of strikers exceeded 600 yesterday when the men in the locomotive shops joined the other 533 strikers.

A spokesman for the company said production has not yet been interfered with, but that the strike has serious implications if any of the vital machinery should break down.

DINING CAR STEWARD DIES.

Charles Kelly, 51, of Denver, Colo., a dining car steward for the Santa Fe railroad, died yesterday of a heart attack at the Illinois Masonic hospital.

How wise must an executive be today?

USED to be that a grasp of the particular affairs of his company was about all a man needed to run his business successfully.

But today there is hardly a business in the country which is not exposed to the effects of economic, social and political changes which may take place far beyond our own borders. An event—a discovery, an invention, a development—thousands of miles away can vitally affect the problems of a local manufacturer. This will be more true than ever in the years to come—and successful management will involve a grasp of things far wider than ever before.

That's why more and more men in management are turning to the pages of Business Week. For, as revealed in a recent study by Ross-Federal Research Corporation, they find Business Week most useful in providing the kind of news and interpretation they must have to make decisions which will affect the fortunes of their companies.

A McGRAW-HILL PUBLICATION • NEW YORK

COVERS THE BUSINESS FRONT

Business Week, as management-men recognize, performs a vastly different service from the news reviews which cull and present the news for a general audience.

What does all this mean to you as an advertiser?

It means you can always count on finding management-men—and none but management-men—in Business Week's reader audience; that dollar for dollar, your advertising appropriation will buy access to the attention of more management-men through Business Week than through any other national magazine.

So, when you have a message for business men in management positions, the place to put it and keep it in these times is—in the pages of Business Week.

CANADA DROPS BAN ON OVERSEA DRAFT IN CRISIS

King Regime Will Send 16,000 Abroad.

ada's most popular soldier, as defense minister.

Gen. MacNaughton was named to succeed Col. J. L. Ralston, who resigned Nov. 1 after failing to win the cabinet over to his view that urgently needed reënforcements should be made from the conscripted home army—the course finally adopted today.

To Meet Requirements.

McNaughton explained to commons that the 16,000 to be sent was the number required to meet foreseen reënforcements for overseas infantry formations over and above those likely to be available thru the voluntary system.

The general explained that when he entered the cabinet the first of the month he had believed the voluntary system would be adequate to supply the reënforcements.

"Since then," he said, "conditions have altered. Public attention has been riveted on these matters. The paramount need of reënforcements in adequate supply had been recognized thruout our land from coast to coast."

McNaughton said that efforts to win volunteers had been increased, but added that "I must admit that the results have not been adequate." He added that no home defense troops would be conscripted and sent overseas if enough men volunteered, but otherwise the government was ready to send them.

Prepared to Resign!

After listening to McNaughton, Col. Ralston in his first comment in commons since his resignation said there appeared to be little difference between him and the general on policy.

Reliable reports circulated thru parliament's corridors prior to today's session that five or six ministers had indicated they were prepared to resign unless a definite date were set for a brief trial period of the voluntary system.

King's move appeared to have placated these members, but its effect on the cabinet ministers from Quebec and the remainder of the 65 Quebec members of parliament could only be guessed at.

Seeks New Government.

Gordon Graydon, house leader of the Progressive Conservative party, said his party would move for total conscription making all draftees liable for overseas service and call for a new government led by a man favoring total conscription.

The Progressive Conservatives have 39 seats in the house, the Socialist Coöperative Commonwealth federation 10, and other parties fewer than a dozen. The prime minister's Liberals have an overwhelming majority with 161 seats, but the conscription issue cuts thru this membership because of the 65 Quebec members.

[King presented a motion calling upon the house of commons to express confidence in the government and support it in a vigorous war effort, another dispatch said. The motion had not yet reached the stage of debate.]

Covers Pacific Fighting.

The order-in-council announced today implemented an earlier Bill 80, passed in 1942, authorizing the government to send conscripted home defense troops anywhere. Previous orders under this bill had authorized use of the troops in this hemisphere only.

Today's order authorized their dispatch to the United Kingdom, Europe, and other war zones, including the Pacific. The order specifically mentions the 16,000, but the number may be changed later as needs arise.

"Mom, don't invite all your friends' kids to my birthday party. Last year half my guests hadn't even learned to talk."

AUSTRALIA PLAN TO RUN AIR LINES STIRS UP STORM

SYDNEY, Australia, Nov. 23 [Reuter].—Bitter criticism today followed the announcement by Acting Prime Minister Forde that Australia will permanently take over all interstate air lines. The criticism came from federal opposition quarters, members of air line companies, and those of the public who express concern at what seems to them to be labor's initial move toward the nationalization of industry.

R. G. Menzies, leader of the federal opposition, said, "This represents the first shot in the socialist war and it is a major success for the left wing." Arthur W. Fadden, leader of the Country party, said, "Labor has now revealed itself in its true colors. The socialization of banking and insurance may be expected to follow."

Executives of the major air line companies said they were astonished they had been allowed to proceed with post-war plans without receiving an indication of the government's intentions.

NEW ATTEMPT TO BE MADE TO GAIN AIR ACCORD

A. A. Berle Asks Draft on Traffic Regulation.

BY FRANK HUGHES.

A meeting of a joint subcommittee of the International Civil Aviation conference probably will convene this morning to have another try at salvaging a plan for an international post-war air authority which so far has been wrecked on the rocks of allied nations disagreement, it was reported yesterday.

It was learned that Adolph A. Berle Jr., chairman of the American delegation, has appointed a committee of United States delegates to draft a section covering regulation of traffic on the post-war international airways.

Berle Reportedly Indignant.

Berle, reportedly indignant at the British because they haven't budged from demands which will guarantee them a 50-50 share of the traffic where they operate, plans to submit this draft directly to the subcommittee.

He considered, according to this account, that his salvage attempt would have a better chance before the full subcommittee, upon which many of the 54 nations represented here have seats. However, there still is little chance of a reconciliation on the problems which blew the conference wide open at a public meeting Wednesday.

Regulation on Pickup.

Berle's new proposition, according to authoritative sources, would offer a clause regulating pickup of international air traffic, with the provision that two European nations could exclude other nations from this right and the South American pickup rights would be exclusive property of United States air lines.

The South American delegations, of which there are 19 present, are said not to have been consulted on this proposal, and the American delegation is not unanimously in favor of it, reliable sources said. The proposition would give England virtual control of all air traffic between London and other countries in Europe.

The disagreement which has developed here was, illustrated in Berle's statement on at least three occasions, that the British requested the United States to call the air conference in Chicago and that the request was seconded—he said "urgently seconded" at one time—by Canada.

Statement Not Acknowledged.

Lord Swinton, who followed Berle to the floor, failed to acknowledge the statement.

The conference technical committee met in full session yesterday and adopted a 150,000 word report outlining recommended practices in air line operation, communications, and standards of airworthiness. The report covers color of airport landing lights, standard radio signals and frequencies, licensing, registration and identification of aircraft, and standards for air maps and charts.

5 BRITISH FIRMS PLAN AIR LINE TO SOUTH AMERICAS

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, Nov. 23.—Two day luxury air service between England and South America is the goal of five big British shipping companies which have formed the British-Latin America Air Lines, Ltd., it was reported today. The lines expect to make the Rio de Janeiro, Brazil, hop in 30 hours flying over the London, Lisbon, West Africa route. The service would also include Buenos Aires, Argentina. Fares are expected to be slightly higher than ocean liner rates, which before the war were $260 to Rio.

LONDON, Nov. 23 [Reuter].—A demand that the latest "March of Time" release, "Strategy of Liberation," be "recalled and reëdited" is made today in an editorial in World Press News, trade journal of the British press.

Blasting what it calls the film's "extreme partiality to the Stars and Stripes," the journal says it "unfairly suppresses and plays down the parts performed by the British, Canadian, and French forces in a theme which purports to tell the tale of history from Normandy to Brussels."

100 OCTANE GASOLINE
won't grow wings on a car

EXPECT NO MIRACLES from your present car if the tank were filled with 100-octane gasoline.

Its motor was engineered specifically for the gasolines which were available at the time you bought your car. To secure the benefits of very high octane fuels, post-war motors will have much higher compression ratios, will be smaller and lighter, and will deliver greatly increased power and extraordinary mileage.

All this will be possible because of the super gasolines to be made available for motorists in the post-war period. And you have every reason to expect that Phillips will be among the first to offer these vastly improved motor fuels soon after victory.

Why? Because Phillips is today one of the nation's five largest producers of 100-octane aviation gasoline. Phillips is also one of the leaders in the war production of butadiene for synthetic rubber.

These achievements are a direct result of Phillips long years of peacetime research to extend the frontiers of knowledge concerning hydrocarbon chemistry. Other accomplishments, which cannot now be told for security reasons, flow from Phillips wartime exploration of the limitless possibilities of chemical production of new and better things from petroleum gases as well as from petroleum.

This is why we say: Every time you see the Phillips 66 Shield, let it remind you that Phillips refineries, in addition to producing gasolines, lubricants, and fuel oils . . . are also gigantic chemical plants pouring out weapons for victory.

But because there's no Winter without its WARM spells, and no engine that doesn't normally run up around 160 degrees HOT, the anti-freeze to choose is Super Pyro. Just keep checking to note how little of this anti-freeze is stolen by HEAT—how regularly the report is "Plenty safe!"—how rarely you add a bit to be ready for any coming COLD. # 2 TINY RADIOS SOLVE PROBLEM OF BLIND FLYING

Army Pilots Get Angle and Runway Location.

New York, Nov. 23 [Special].—Two hitherto secret radio transmitters, both so small as to be mobile, were revealed by army officials today as the key to the army's success in extending blind instrument flying for its bombers and transport planes virtually around the world.

The transmitters, supplementing the fixed course beam and other existing devices, makes it possible for pilots to bring their planes in to safe, easy landings in the thickest fog—even at night. They spell conquest of the civilian airman's greatest weather hazards—fog and overcast. This means that after the war commercial lines will not have to cancel flights because of poor visibility.

The new blind flying instrument equipment probably is rendering its greatest service in the China-Burma-India theater in operations of B-29 Super Forts and for transports flying the "hump" to China, Capt. Harry Schwartzberg of Mitchel field said today.

Two Transmitters Used.

The two transmitters radiate separate signals which operate two needles in the aircraft to indicate to the pilot both his position in relation to the runway and the proper angle of descent necessary to land, Capt. Schwartzberg explained.

One transmitter—the localizer—is set up at the far end of a runway 5,000 feet or more long. Its signals define a course that runs lengthwise along the center of the runway. The pilot—brought to the localizer course line by any conventional radio aid—receives the localizer signal on a special receiver. A needle indicates whether he is to the right or left or dead on the course defined by the localizer signal pattern.

Defines Glide Path.

The signal patterns of the second transmitter defines the glide path course or line in a vertical plane to be followed by the aircraft for a safe landing. A horizontal needle—set crosswise to the one actuated by the localizer signal registers the indication of the glide path signal pattern.

This indication tells the pilot that he is above, at, or below the proper approach altitude.

"You can't miss with these instruments," one of the Mitchel field operational flight officers said. "Using them is like grabbing a cable and pulling yourself in."

I agree with you, Chadwick. That guy gets in my hair too.

HOW ROOSEVELT WON.

In all the election post-mortems there is one thing everybody is agreed upon. It is that Mr. Roosevelt got the radical vote solid. Thruout the country the Reds and the pinks, the Communists and the fellow travelers plumped for the President. In New York those who were so passionately radical that they insisted upon branding themselves as such ran up a remarkable vote. Under the banners of the American Labor and Liberal parties, Mr. Roosevelt received 692,000 votes in New York City and over 800,000 in New York state as a whole.

Running as a Democrat in New York City, Mr. Roosevelt got only 77,000 more votes than Gov. Dewey did on the Republican ticket. But when the President's vote as a candidate of the two radical parties was added to that cast for him as a Democrat he had a lead of more than three-quarters of a million votes over his rival. If the two extremist parties had put up separate candidates and had kept their party members in line Mr. Dewey would have won New York state by twice the plurality Mr. Roosevelt had. The radicals have the balance of power in our most populous state.

Elsewhere the Reds and pinks didn't have a chance to brand themselves in voting for their favorite candidate, but it is certain that they had enough strength to play an important role. They certainly do not have the relative strength elsewhere they possess in New York, but they have power far exceeding their numbers. It may be conceded that Mr. Hillman delivered 75,000 votes to Roosevelt from Dewey in Illinois, and that was enough to decide the outcome here. In Pennsylvania, Michigan, Massachusetts, and Maryland it didn't take that much switching to change the votes in those states from the Republican column to the Democratic.

If we grant all this, what light does it throw on what Gov. Dewey's strategy should have been? Certainly nothing that he could have done would have won any of the Communist vote. That was a mighty poor grove for his hunting, but that's where Mr. Dewey went gunning for votes when he indorsed all the New Deal measures. The Republican candidate's chance to win support was among the conservative Democrats. Mr. Roosevelt had a weakness there which might have proved fatal. No one was better aware of that than the President himself. That's why he dropped Wallace, who kept on talking New Dealism long after it ceased to pay.

Mr. Dewey's opportunity lay in taking a strong stand for individual freedom—for what Justice Brandeis once called "the right to be let alone by the government." Instead, the New York governor took the issue of the New Deal right out of the campaign. Those speeches of the President pointing out Mr. Dewey's "me, too" on the whole New Deal were killers. The Republican candidate himself was responsible for the conclusion conservatives were driven to; that there wasn't enough difference between the two men to justify them in leaving their party. The American system of private enterprise which developed the country can stand comparison with communism, fascism, or New Dealism any time. A stanch advocate of freedom could have won against the President. This must be remembered as we look ahead even now to 1948.

THE CARRIERS ARE STILL SUPREME.

The box score of the naval battles off Leyte shows that we lost the aircraft carrier Princeton and several smaller carriers. From this accounting, and from the fact that our battleships took a leading part in the destruction of the southern wing of the Japanese attack, it might appear that the battleship is making a comeback. Certainly the battleships have been doing better of late than they did a few years ago, when a good part of our fleet was nesting on the bottom of Pearl Harbor and British battleships were being heard from only when they met a similar fate. The battleship is no longer the set-up for airplane attack that it once was.

Nevertheless, we are inclined to think that the carrier is still the stronger weapon, and that the battleship is destined to take its place in naval museums beside the frigate. Our pony carriers, including those we lost, sank a good many Japanese ships and heavily damaged a good many others, including some battleships. The carrier has by far the longer reach. It can send its planes against a battle wagon several hundred miles away, and can lose some of these planes without serious impairment of its fighting power. A few hits on a battleship with bombs or torpedoes are generally enough to put the vessel out of action.

Of late the defense of the battleship against air attack has been greatly strengthened, but it seems fair to assume that the power of the attacking planes will also be stepped up by means of heavier bombs and more destructive explosives. The carrier is the newer weapon, which suggests that its potentialities are still largely unexplored. Even so, our big and little carriers have accounted for a very large share of the damage done to the Japanese navy in this war. It can hardly be doubted that the Japanese admirals fear them more than any other weapon in our possession.

In this connection it may be noted that the Tirpitz was sunk the other day by attack from the air. Airplanes also found the Bismarck and prepared it for the kill. These sinkings do not bear directly on the question whether the battleship is superior to the carrier, but they do prove that there isn't any ship afloat, no matter how heavily armored and gunned, that cannot be sunk from the air.

CONVENTIONS.

The local press agent for the office of defense transportation replies, in the Voice of the People today, to a letter by James E. Pringle, which appeared Nov. 9. Mr. Pringle's principal point, not made wholly clear by Mr. Blackburn of the ODT, was that the ODT policy of putting business organizations on the spot if they hold conventions, while placing no bars in the way of labor meetings, is typical of the anti-business bias of the administration.

It is undoubtedly useful to discourage conventions in war time, but if so, why not discourage all conventions? There is an instance in point in Chicago. The National Association of Real Estate Boards, after at least two pleas from the ODT, and a final warning from an unstated source that 1,000 of its delegates would find themselves stranded in Chicago, called off the convention that it had scheduled for next week in the Stevens hotel. The CIO, however, went ahead with its convention in the same hotel.

What representations, if any, did the ODT make to the CIO, and what did Mr. Hillman and Mr. Murray tell the ODT it might do with them?

VEST POCKET TREATIES.

The current debate in the senate as to whether Mr. Roosevelt's private understanding with Prime Minister Mackenzie King of Canada to construct the St. Lawrence seaway is to be considered as an executive agreement or requires confirmation as a treaty will determine whether Mr. Roosevelt is to be permitted to gad about the world committing this country to all sorts of international undertakings on his own say-so.

The issue seems to be clearly understood by the internationalists, for they are making a hard fight to persuade the rest of the senate that Mr. Roosevelt is a law unto himself, subject neither to prior limitation nor later review. To this end they trotted out Mr. Green H. Hackworth, state department legal adviser, at a committee hearing, and Mr. Hackworth denied that the senate has the power even to determine whether what Mr. Roosevelt has submitted as an executive agreement should be embodied as a treaty.

"Who decides whether an international instrument shall be designated a treaty or an agreement?" asked Sen. Vandenberg. "The President decides that," replied Hackworth. "If the document is sent to congress as an executive agreement, it is an executive agreement. If it is sent as a treaty, it is a treaty." To this Sen. Vandenberg observed, "Then it is not necessary to amend the Constitution to remove the provision for a two-thirds senate vote on treaties. All that is needed is a President who wants to avoid the constitutional provisions."

Mr. Roosevelt is that President. He sent the seaway project to the senate twice as a treaty, and each time it was beaten. Accordingly, he decided to short circuit the senate by reviving and presenting the compact a third time as an executive agreement. This sort of casuistry was not new with him. On Sept. 3, 1940, he informed congress he had acquired lease rights to naval and air bases in Newfoundland, British Guiana, and the British West Indies in exchange for 50 over-age destroyers, and this he described not even as an executive agreement, but merely as an executive act. His attorney general was willing to say it was lawful.

Now his experts are willing to say that he can tie this country to any international commitment without senate ratification. He has been proceeding on that basis right along. The Atlantic Charter, which he enunciated in combination with Prime Minister Churchill, was not an executive agreement or even an executive act. It was described as a "joint declaration," a diplomatic form which cannot even be defined in terms of American constitutional law. But it was meant to be binding on this country, if no other, for all of that.

The organization of the united nations of Jan. 1, 1942, also was offered as a joint declaration. The Cairo and Teheran statements were declarations. What was said at Cairo and Teheran was less important than what was left unsaid, but a precedent was being set. Dictators with powers as absolute as Stalin and Chiang Kai-shek and ministers with the authority of a Churchill could presume to bind their nations on the strength of their own word, but it was strange to find an American President whose freedom of action is circumscribed by constitutional limitations blandly following suit.

Since these various conferences there have been numerous international assemblages, such as Bretton Woods on monetary matters, Dumbarton Oaks on a peace organization, and Chicago on air regulation, where the President did not appear personally, but where his agents busied themselves working out schemes which later could be integrated into a general procedural pattern committing this country far into the future. The insistence that the seaway project is not subject to senate confirmation does more than hint at the fact that Mr. Roosevelt wants to bind the nation on the authority of his own person.

The jigsaw puzzle of his plans for post-war world organization has as yet not fallen into a coherent arrangement which can be estimated as to its effect upon our country, but there is a reasonable suspicion that it will provide surprises when it does. Apparently Mr. Roosevelt is not too confident that the people, thru their representatives, will be completely enchanted when the whole becomes clear. He does not want to risk the chance that the grand plan will be upset, and that is why he is trying to steer clear of senate confirmation. The issue is being raised over the seaway merely to establish a principle. Once established, it is intended to govern much more important matters.

"SWEET INFLUENCES."

This is a good time of year for observation of the Pleiades, the smallest constellation in the heavens but one of the most famous. If you have no taste for astronomy [a common failing among city dwellers], this thumbnail cluster of twinklers should appeal to you as an eye test. If you can count them up to six you have excellent vision. The experts say that moderately keen vision will discover nine Pleiades, and that exceptionally keen vision will run the count from 11 to 14. Such observations, however, cannot be made in city atmosphere, and we suspect that such eagle-eyed folk, in this myopic and astigmatic epoch of mankind, are as rare as hens' teeth.

If your eyes are none too good, even when helped with carefully prescribed glasses, you will see the Pleiades as a misty blur in the sky, and on clear nights you may be able to catch sparks from one, two, or three of the mournful sisters whom the constellation represents in Greek mythology. This is our own case, so we clap an opera glass on them once in a while, and then the little swarm of remote suns, each of them actually bigger and hotter than our own sun, leaps into view.

A two-inch telescope reveals nearly 100 Pleiades; astronomical photographs record more than 2,000. There is a bright haze around the constellation which may be caused by fluorescent gases. These stars have stirred the imagination of mankind for many centuries, begetting myths, and the legend of the "lost sister" is almost universal. About 100 years ago an astronomer named Maedler formulated a hypothesis that the star Alcyone in the Pleiades was the center of the universe, about which everything revolved, but it is not seriously entertained now.

"Canst thou bind the sweet influences of Pleiades?" asks the Book of Job. Anyway, try opera glasses on them and you will enjoy a fine bit of cosmic jewelry.

RONDEAU OF BOOKS.

When dreams are dead, and visions go,
And long hours lose their zest and glow;
When we like wooden soldiers tread
The road of life, with purpose fled;
When tasks unwanted, row on row,
Bid us to hasten to and fro,
What is there that can joy bestow,
Can stir the heart and lift the head—
When dreams are dead?

Not trivial toys and pleasures—no!
They have their lure but tiresome grow;
Not simply friends—whose love, quick sped,
Can leave one sad, uncomforted.
A book!—the balm for grief and woe—
When dreams are dead.

Thomas Curtis Clark.

Ha-ha or Ho-hum Dept.

Is there a numerologist in the house? Numerology, I understand, ascribes "power of number" to each letter of the alphabet. I crave enlightenment on the letter H. It might explain President Roosevelt's predilection for choosing associates whose names, first or last, begin with H.

Witness Harry Hopkins, Henry Wallace, Harry Truman, Sidney Hillman, Hannegan and Hague; in the cabinet, Cordell Hull, Henry Stimson, and Harold Ickes; in the Supreme court, Harlan Stone and Hugo Black. And who can ever forget those skilled artists of the crackdown technique, Gen. Hugh Johnson and Leon Henderson? Or Gen. Hershey?

But before any numerologist sticks his neck out, may I tactfully point out that Herr Hitler also has a fondness for that letter: Heinrich Himmler, Rudolf Hess, Hermann Goering, and the axis partner, Hirohito? Omega.

DAY IN GOTHAM.

We walked on Sunday morning thru the park,
Greeting the restless members of the zoo;
Listening in on many a quaint remark,
And sagely noting how the strange trees grew;
Striking our sticks upon the outcropped rock
With pompous air and scientific phrase;
Watching the little land-locked sailors tack
Their three-foot barks on Lilliputian seas;
Passed by carnationed dude and nursery maid
And came to where the stony icebergs rise
To scrape the sky in glacial parade
Of laughter, luxury, misery, and sighs.
Then to the Battery's exit to the sea
With warlike traffic moving endlessly.

Evanston's First Rally.

The first war meeting in Evanston was held after the Battle of Bull Run [Civil war's Pearl Harbor] in the First Methodist church. Bishop Simpson, one of the nation's famous orators, is said to have spoken. Many men enlisted at that time, and three became generals in the Union army.—Julius White, at whose home Lincoln was entertained, William Gamble, and John L. Beveridge. Clyde D. Foster.

Mrs. K. A. writes: "I am expecting a baby soon and would like to know how to get the additional allowance for the child. Do I have to fill out forms, or does my husband do that? He is in the marine corps, stationed in this country."

ANSWER: If your husband is in this country at the time of the child's birth, send him a copy of the baby's birth certificate or the hospital record of birth. He then can fill out an official application form for the additional allowance. It is preferable for the service man to handle such matters unless he is overseas.

Miss D. writes: "Are cadet nurses eligible for free transportation on buses, street cars, etc.?"

ANSWER: Free transportation such as you mention has not been extended to cadet nurses because they are not strictly members of a military service, since the corps is administered by the public health service.

HOW DOES WEATHER AFFECT YOUR SKIN?

As soon as Jack Frost makes his annual debut, many of us will exhibit skin conditions from which we have been free during the warmer months. Probably the most annoying is chilblains. Another is red nose, which may be observed in certain individuals after a walk of only a few blocks in windy or frosty air. The glowing appearance may persist for several hours.

Chilblains present themselves with cold weather but they are not associated with zero readings. The lesions are far more likely to blossom on raw days. Those whose circulation is not up to par are more susceptible. One who is aware of frigid extremities is more certain to become a victim.

One thing these sufferers can do toward prevention is to keep warm. The thinly clad girl who encounters swollen, itching patches about the ankles can don woolen halfhose for ordinary weather and make sure that overshoes are available for severe days. There was a time when most of us used knitted mittens. They may well be employed for every day wear, instead of as adjuncts to sport costumes. This will do much to maintain nutrition to the fingers, hands, and wrists. Among the remedies that will raise resistance are generous doses of calcium and fractional amounts of thyroid extract.

Not a few will display typical hives, chiefly on exposed regions. These welts are the direct result of exposure, or when any part of the surface is cooled suddenly. A similar manifestation is observed when one swims in frigid water. Now, this is a form of sensitivity, and there is no better way to overcome it than to accustom the tissues to cold. This is accomplished by submitting small spots to a chilly atmosphere.

As every one knows, low temperatures—if the air is dry, quiet, and still—will abstract less heat from the body than when a stiff norther is blowing. This means that protection must be thoro if one is facing a brisk wind.

Red noses are also allergic reactions. The capillaries dilate and the nasal appendage takes on a rosy hue. It is not true rosacea, altho that disorder is aggravated by inclement weather. The only safe procedure is to avoid exposure and, regardless of appearances, cover the proboscis. Danger lies in the fact that if the episodes are repeated day after day, enlargement of the tiny blood vessels may become permanent. In consequence, the victim may take on the character of Diogenes, with a lantern on his features.

The reason eczema is worse during the winter season is because dirt and bacteria usually complicate the malady. The ends of the fingers may dry and crack, with the old ailment, "salt rheum." This means merely that the natural oil of the skin is reduced in quantity because the blood supply is less.

Good hygiene will save the day. We can bathe the cuticle frequently, dry, and then apply a bland ointment such an lanolin. This protective coating will act like a glove. Furthermore, the sebaceous structures will be spared extra effort.

CONTINUED PAIN.

A. E. writes: Will chest pains continue four months after a heart attack?

REPLY.

They should not, if the original condition has healed. Anginal seizures, on the other hand, may recur periodically. Investigate the state of the stomach, gall bladder, and the duodenum.

YES.

Mrs. P. S. writes: I understand that our boys overseas are served powdered eggs. Are they nourishing?

REPLY.

The nutritive value is retained. The dried material is utilized in the preparation of cakes, breads, puddings, soups, ice cream, etc.

CYSTIC THYROID.

T. N. writes: Is a cyst on the thyroid the same as a goiter?

REPLY.

Quite different. The two conditions, however, may be associated. The gland may undergo what is known as cystic degeneration.

SPASMODIC PAIN.

T. U. writes: What causes colic in an infant?

REPLY.

Indigestion or any condition which overdistends the stomach. Swallowed air may be responsible.

Heigho for the Christmas holly
That comes in November, isn't it jolly?
The stores are jammed, the crowds are milling
The rush is on, the cash is spilling
Bonds are sold, the money is spent
Presents are bought and most of them sent.
A fig for traditional old Thanksgiving
Hustle it thru, that's the way we're living.

What shall we do on Christmas day?
Why, plan for Easter, months away
The calendar's crazy, we're changing our habits
So, Happy Easter! bring on the rabbits!

During World War I. the favorite children's game was a belligerent little bit of rough and tumble known as over the top. After Al Capone and his merry men did their bit for the nation, the favorite game was cops and robbers. A lady riding the Chicago subway last week noticed World War II.'s current variation. Two children in stocking feet were riding up the escalator to street level. Their shoes were parked at the summit. Their game was called production assembly line.

Discovery or Science Comes Thru.

There is one place in Chicago where, regardless of shipment, distribution, or the vicissitudes of the black market, any one can find 79 packages of cigarets every day.

The stock goes like this: 38 packages of assorted Brazilian cigarets, 17 Peruvian makes, 3 Siamese, 2 Turkish, 10 Mexican [including one package of magna-king size, 12 inches long], and 9 packages of prewar Japanese. In most of them the tobacco is darker than that used in American cigarets, and many look like those rolled by our emergency Bull Durham-ers, squeezed to a point at one end and the tobacco running out at the other.

As things are now, they soon may be the only cigarets in Chicago, but they are to be seen only. In the first place, they are well guarded. In the second, all the cigarets have been treated with poisonous insecticide to preserve them, and thus are doubly eligible for the appellation of the '90s—coffin nails.

O, yes, you may see them at the Chicago Natural History museum in the hall of food plants. [Walk a mile for a glimpse, and climb a flight of stairs to boot.] And who is there to deny that cigarets today are not properly museum pieces?

[Footnote to yearning: No standard American brands here. At the time the exhibit was set up, every one knew what they looked like. Now, alas, it is too late to include them.]

VOICE OF THE PEOPLE

SURVEY OF VOTERS.

Ansonia, O., Nov. 16.—In this normally democratic town on the Ohio-Indiana state line where I work as a toolmaker, my wife and I questioned 50 people as to how much they had read or know about the political issues of the campaign and the two men who were running for President.

Of the 36 that voted for the New Deal, 28 never listened to one political speech of either candidate and only 4 of these read the papers, or anything about them. Six more were voting for the New Deal because of good times and because Franklin Roosevelt brought liquor back. The remaining two voted the New Deal because of the union they belonged to. Out of this 36 we knew of only eight home owners.

The remaining 14 of the 50 voted for Dewey. Twelve never missed one speech on the radio and all but 3 of the 14 read the newspapers and articles about the candidates. Eleven of them were home owners.

My wife and I were convinced of what we thought was so, that the majority of voters voting the New Deal were those who let others do their thinking for them. TOOLMAKER.

CONFESSIONS OF A CIGARET SMOKER.

Chicago, Nov. 17.—The current cigaret shortage must convince most addicts [myself included] that they have become a slave to the "weed." Men are so jittery that brawls have occurred over the sale of an extra package. People of all ages, both men and women, stand in long lines to get their daily deck.

I am anything but a reformer, but regret the day I smoked my first cigaret. No doubt there are many weaklings like myself with whom there is no moderation in the limit of cigarets smoked each day. With the majority of us, the habit has gotten a hold that is exceedingly hard to break. The women in their mania to reduce [regardless of their proper weight] have turned to cigarets as the panacea, not considering the harm to their system.

I sometimes wonder why morphine, cocaine, and other narcotics are restricted by rigid laws and the fag is ever available in normal times, openly sold to the flower of our youth. Let us restrict this poison! W. P. SIMPSON.

DON'T TELL HER—SHE'S HAPPY NOW.

Logansport, Ind., Nov. 16.—Your scurrilous and infamous articles, editorials, and cartoons proved to be a mighty boomerang that helped to defeat your choice of Presidential candidates. This, together with your continual harping on the G-string of communism twanged chiefly at AFL Sidney Hillman, with never any mention of that arch CIO-er, John L. Lewis, and his communistic cohorts, obviously because he and they were as rabidly anti-Roosevelt as you were.

MARGARET MAGEE.

THE TRUTH HURTS.

Moline, Ill., Nov. 14.—I am a high school graduate, just 18, so of course not old enough to vote, despite the fact that I am a taxpayer. When I was but a mere 6 or 7 my brother once said to me, "Don't forget, Sis, when in the wrong, the truth hurts!" People can say that THE TRIBUNE has printed "damned ugly lines"—I am quoting from the letter written by Mr. Anonymous of Mendota, Ill.—but perhaps, Mr. Anonymous, the truth hurts!

LUCILLE FRAZELL.

THE ODT AND CONVENTIONS.

Chicago, Nov. 17.—On Nov. 9 there appeared a letter from James E. Pringle in which he says: "Why does the ODT make so much fuss about a few business men's conventions—less than ½ per cent of train travel, etc." This letter uses a statistic which originally appeared in the New York Journal of Commerce several months ago. I do not believe, and I have tried hard to get the figure, that there is any real tabulation of the amount of train travel devoted to conventions.

The important fact is not merely the quantity but the kind of travel involved in conventions. If a convention is held in Chicago, hundreds, or even thousands of people come from scores of cities to attend. When the convention breaks up, all of these people leave at approximately the same time on the roads leaving Chicago. The situation is similar to traffic being poured into the wide mouth of a funnel and coming out the narrow bottle neck part of the same funnel.

As for the ODT "putting pressure on hotels in Washington to provide rooms for labor unions," I frankly haven't the slightest idea what Mr. Pringle means. I have checked this with Washington and find that when our Washington office calls a meeting there, as it does on very infrequent occasions for some ODT advisory group to discuss matters directly connected with the war, our Washington office does attempt, when necessary, to get rooms for these people. Sometimes we are successful, often unsuccessful.

CLIFFORD BLACKBURN,

THE SOUTH REALLY WON.

Chicago, Nov. 11.—I am a northerner and a Yankee. My ancestors fought on both sides in the Civil war, or, as we must say now in order not to offend the south, the "war between the states."

I travel all over the south and must be very careful not to offend the southerners. However, we must smile when they ridicule us and call us "damyankees." We must also clap our hands and cheer when "Dixie" is played.

The one big mistake Lincoln made was when he didn't permit the south to secede. They then could have set up their own government and the northern states could have controled and lived under their own government instead of having the states of the southern confederacy holding the balance of power for our entire nation. A. N. HUDSON.

Is arrest under such circumstances within the law? R. A.

The answer is yes.

WARNER PLANT URGENTLY NEEDS 600 EMPLOYES

3 Shifts Make Things Hum Thanksgiving Day.

BY CHARLES BALLENGER.

The hum of machinery at work was the only prayer of Thanksgiving heard by many Chicago worker yesterday as war plants, beset with serious manpower shortages, struggled to catch up with the increased production schedules demanded by the army and navy.

All plants designated as "must producers by the army and navy worked a full day since most of them are from 10 to 45 per cent behind in the production of materials requested by the military leaders.

Stewart-Warner Needs 600.

At the Stewart-Warner corporation, 1828 Diversey pkwy., producers of vital radar and radio equipment, a full day was worked by all three shifts. The company, designated as a "must" plant, is 20 per cent behind its requested production because of a shortage of workers.

The plant is in urgent need of at least 600 skilled and unskilled workers, machine operators, assemblers and electrical and mechanical engineers. Men and women can be used on all three shifts, but particularly on the night shifts, said George Thomas, plant manager.

Stewart-Warner wages vary from 55 cents to $1.70 an hour base pay for women and 76 cents to $1.70 an hour for men. A 10 per cent bonus is paid for night work. The average employe in the plant receives an hourly base rate of $1.10 and gets a weekly pay check in excess of $65 with overtime.

Backlog of Civilian Orders.

The company also makes lubricating devices for tanks and trucks and fuses for many types of ammunition, including the 105 mm. howitzer shell especially requested by Gen. Eisenhower.

Altho it is now devoted entirely to war production, the company has a backlog of $80,000,000 worth of civilian orders, Thomas said. Reconversion will present no problem, he said, because the plant is making essentially the same items it does in peacetime.

In six months, company officials said, Stewart-Warner has lost 3,251 workers, most of them women. But 2,000 employes have been with the company five years or more, they pointed out.

Men Hunt Peace Time Jobs.

Women employes who leave say they want to return to their household duties, officials said, but most of the men expressed the belief that the war was nearly over and they wanted to adjust themselves to a peace time job.

The plant is unionized, with the United Electrical Workers [CIO] representing some of the workers, but it is not a closed shop and any employe may or may not join the union.

U. S. CASUALTIES TOTAL 528,795; 117,453 KILLED

Washington, D. C., Nov. 23 (AP).—Battle casualties for the fighting forces in all theaters since the start of the war total 528,795. Secretary of War Stimson said today army casualties reported thru Nov. 7 amounted to 454,180 of which 88,245 were killed. This was an increase of 16,724 since a previous report covering casualties reported thru Oct. 28. ## TURKEY DINNER, BUT THIS YANK CAN'T TOUCH IT!

Butte, Mont., Nov. 23 (AP).—Staff Sgt. Hayes Bolitho sat down to the Thanksgiving dinner he has dreamed of for three years today—but he didn't get to eat it. Bolitho, a prisoner of the Japanese for nearly 2½ years, is on a liquid diet until he picks up some of the 50 pounds he lost. While the rest of the family ate turkey, the sergeant could only gaze at it.

He escaped from a torpedoed Japanese transport in Philippine waters last August. He later was rescued when the Americans invaded Leyte. He recalled some of the meals during his days as a prisoner.

[ADVERTISMENT]

MANY NEVER SUSPECT CAUSE OF BACKACHES

This Old Treatment Often Brings Happy Relief

Many sufferers relieve nagging backache quickly, once they discover that the real cause of their trouble may be tired kidneys.

The kidneys are Nature's chief way of taking the excess acids and waste out of the blood. They help most people pass about 3 pints a day.

When disorder of kidney function permits poisonous matter to remain in your blood, it may cause nagging backache, rheumatic pains, leg pains, loss of pep and energy, getting up nights, swelling, puffiness under the eyes, headaches and dizziness. Frequent or scanty passages with smarting and burning sometimes shows there is something wrong with your kidneys or bladder.

Don't wait! Ask your druggist for Doan's Pills, used successfully by millions for over 40 years. They give happy relief and will help the 15 miles of kidney tubes flush out poisonous waste from your blood. Get Doan's Pills.

Hands That ITCH and BURN and are rough or dry, often find longed-for relief in the Gland, comforting action of RESINOL OINTMENT AND SOAP

WHY QUINTUPLETS use this great rub for SORE THROAT COUGHS due to COLDS

Wonderful for Grown-Ups, Too!

Ever since they were tiny tots—whenever the Quintuplets catch cold—their chests, throats and backs are immediately rubbed with Musterole.

Musterole gives such blessed prompt relief because it's more than just an ordinary "salve." It's what so many Doctors and Nurses call a modern counter-irritant. It not only relieves coughs, sore throat, aching chest muscles due to colds, makes breathing easier—but it actually helps break up congestion in upper bronchial tract, nose and throat.

And Musterole is so much easier to apply than a mustard plaster. White, Stainless. Just rub it on! "No fuss. No muss with Musterole!"

IN 3 STRENGTHS: Children's Mild Musterole, Regular, and Extra Strong.

"The navy, if military service is universal," he added, "can give its men basic training and nine months more of advanced training ashore and afloat."

NEW OPA RULES SEEK TO CURTAIL CLOTHING COSTS

Simple Ceilings Planned for Infants' Garb.

Washington, D. C., Nov. 23 (AP).—Price Administrator Chester Bowles today announced that "easy to understand" dollar and cent ceiling prices will be fixed on low cost infants' and children's garments for which the war production board has allocated 40 million yards of cloth.

In addition, the OPA issued a regulation aimed at reducing "overfinishing" and "fancying up" of fabrics, a practice charged with adding greatly to the cost of both cotton and rayon clothing.

Hope to Halt Price Rise.

Both programs, described as the first of a series of moves to hold clothing prices in line, follow Stabilization Director Vinson's edict that a recent slight but "disturbing" rise in living costs "must stop."

Bowles said the new programs followed complaints from the public "about the disappearance of low priced clothing, about deterioration of quality—which is really a price increase—and about rising prices for garments."

While details of the program of ceilings for low cost children's clothing will be announced by the OPA in a few days, Bowles cautioned that it will be possibly four or five months before these garments appear in retail stores.

Estimated Prices Listed.

Here's a representative list of infants' and children's garments to be produced under the WPB allocation program, together with the OPA's estimate of what the ceiling prices will be:

Nine hundred twenty-four thousand creepers, rompers, and crawlers, $1 each; 1,056,000 infants' and children's gowns, kimonos, and gertrudes, 55 cents; 228,000 children's and girls' gowns, 55 cents to $1.25; 1,584,000 infants' and children's pajamas, $1 to $1.25; 516,000 jacket type pajamas, sizes 8 to 16, $1.40 to $1.60; 2,328,000 infants', toddlers, and children's dresses, $1.15 to $1.25; $1,056,000 children's overalls and coveralls, $1.05 to $1.25.

One million nine hundred ninety-two thousand toddlers' and juvenile wash suits, $1.10 to $1.25; 1,428,000 girls' panties, 44 cents; 3,504,000 slips, girls', gertrudes, and girls' shoulder straps, 44 cents to $1.15; 2,460,000 girls' blouses, $1 to $1.15; 4,956,000 boys' shirts and blouses, $1 to $1.25; 732,000 boys' pants, shorts, longs, and knickers, $1.40 to $1.95, and 5,028,000 boys' underwear shorts, 38 cents.

Fancy Designs Curbed.

Concerning overfinishing of cotton and rayon fabric, which the OPA moved to curb, Bowles explained that by printing fancy designs on types of cloth that ordinarily receive less expensive prints, the cost of the finished fabric is increased.

Bowles said that prices for rayon and cotton yard goods might be reduced by as much as 60 million dollars annually as a result of the regulation covering overfinishing. This measure will be effective on all shipments of goods from finishing plants after Jan. 3.

The Inquiring Camera Girl

[The Tribune will pay $5 for each interesting question submitted by a reader and used by The Tribune. Today's question was submitted by Gene Thompson, 608 Orange st., Elgin, Ill.]

THE QUESTION.

What has been your most unusual or amusing experience as an usher?

WHERE ASKED.

Chicago theater [asked of ushers].

THE ANSWERS.

Eddie Wilson, 4551 S. Ellis—One night I was standing on duty outside the door when another usher came up to me and handed me a set of false teeth. "Where did you get these?" I inquired. "They were staring at me in aisle three," he said. I took them to the lost and found department and they have never been called for.

Edward Hickman, 4355 S. Sawyer av.—One night I ushered in a young blind woman with a seeing-eye dog. It was a thrill to have the dog follow me with his mistress and turn when I pointed out the seat they were to occupy. The dog crawled obediently under the seat then and waited until the movie was over.

Bernard Litt, 5428 Kenmore av.—One afternoon while I was taking tickets, a young man—I would say about 32 years old—bought a ticket and, just as he put out his hand to give it to me, fell flat on his face. I thought he had stumbled, but he was pronounced dead of a heart attack a short time later.

Jack Nemitz, 3239 Eastwood av.—A sailor stuck his head in the door before buying his ticket and asked, "Is there any place in the theater where you can smoke?" I said, "Yes, in the lounge, but in the lounge only." He went back out to the ticket office, plunked down his change and said, "Give me two lounges."

Edward Adomaitis, 7147 S. Rockwell—Little children constantly are getting lost in the theater and ask us to find their parents. One afternoon a self-reliant youngster of 4 or 5 walked up to me and announced, "My mother is lost and I wish you would please help me find her. She's been lost for quite some time now."

John Luckner, 6534 Roscoe—We had a dog act on the stage and I was asked to take the dogs for a walk. There were two Great Danes, a St. Bernard, and three other good sized hounds. When we started out, I had the situation under control, but they ended up taking me for a walk in six different directions.

FIVE SECTIONS GO OVER TOP IN FUND CAMPAIGN

Five sections in the Community and War Fund's business division have surpassed their quotas in the current drive, it was reported yesterday by Richard Wagner, chairman of the division, which has a goal of $10,230,000.

Wagner also revealed that 46 groups have exceeded their quotas and 16 others have reached 90 per cent or more of their goal.

Sections which have gone "over the top," together with their chairman and the amounts they have raised, are: Financial, Joseph L. Overlock, $818,748, or 102 per cent; government agencies, Mayor Kelly, $523,158, or 119 per cent; service, Stuart J. Templeton, $1,053,404, or 109 per cent; wearing apparel, chairman unnamed, $339,181, or 101 per cent, and merchandising, David Mayer Jr., $882,905, or 104 per cent.

FALL PROVES FATAL.

Kirby Jones, 83, 3500 Ellis av., a salesman, died in County hospital yesterday. He fractured his leg Sept. 30 when he fell in a hallway of his home.

"PRESTONE" Anti-Freeze KEEPS MOVING UP TO THE FRONT!

THE WAR PRODUCTION BOARD, with the cooperation of the Anti-Freeze Industry Advisory Committee, has put into effect a state allocation plan for the distribution of all brands of anti-freeze. This is your assurance that there should be enough anti-freeze of some kind to protect the nation's motorized equipment this winter.

However, "Prestone" brand anti-freeze may not be available in some localities. The supply for civilian use is considerably reduced because heavy shipments are going overseas for the Armed Forces.

If you are able to get "Prestone" anti-freeze, remember that it lasts all winter. It won't evaporate, boil away or lose effectiveness through "foaming." Protects against rust and corrosion.

HANDLESS G.I.'S FUMBLE BEFORE PILES OF FOOD

Have Trouble with Their Mechanical Hooks.

Atlanta, Ga., Nov. 23 (AP).—There were four soldiers at the Thanksgiving dinner table at the army's Lawson General hospital—and there was only one whole hand among them. That one had a cast around it.

The other seven hands of the four men had been blown off by explosions of mines or dynamite, either in combat or in training.

Table Heaped with Food.

Each of the men had a mechanical hook where one of his good hands once was. Two had only empty sleeves where their other arm had been. A third had a bandaged stump on the left side. The fourth—the one with the whole hand—had to wear the cast on it because his forearm was broken.

The table was heaped high with food—everything from sweet cider and turkey to pumpkin pie and nuts. But all that any of them took of that feast was a little cider. They grasped the paper cups awkwardly with their mechanical hooks and sipped just a little. One almost dropped the cup. Another had trouble adjusting his hook to the proper angle.

They said they didn't eat because they had had something in their wards before they came over to the camp dining hall where 60 of the 900 amputation cases at Lawson were to have Thanksgiving dinner with reporters.

It was difficult to talk. A couple just grasped their knives with their hooks and slid them around their empty plates. Some times they drummed the hooks nervously beneath the table.

Talk but Little.

But they talked a little. Ranger Sgt. John from Ohio said he lost both his arms when a mine exploded one night during tough, close-up fighting at Anzio.

"What I really want most is two good hands so I can walk down the street without people starin' at me," he said.

A reporter put a cigaret in the mouth of Pvt. Dave from Pennsylvania and he warmed up a bit.

"Last Thanksgiving," he reminisced, "I was in a training camp. I ate a swell dinner and then I went to town and got a little tight—just a little."

Miss Elizabeth Pratt Mullaney Troth Revealed

BY JUDITH CASS.

FROM their home, Sunny Top, Fitzwilliam, N. H., Mr. and Mrs. Bernard J. Mullaney, formerly of Chicago, have sent word of the engagement of their daughter, and Mrs. Mullaney's granddaughter, Elizabeth Pratt Mullaney, to Malcolm Roland Oliver Heintzelman, son of Mr. and Mrs. Arthur W. Heintzelman of Marblehead, Mass. The announcement was made at a family dinner yesterday at Sunny Top.

Miss Mullaney, who was adopted by her grandmother and Mr. Mullaney in 1932, was living with her grandmother, the former Mrs. Georgia Blackman Pratt, when she and Mr. Mullaney were married in the former's Chantilly villa, also called Sunny Top, in 1932. Like her fiance, who was born in France, Miss Mullaney spent much of her early life in Europe. She attended the French school of Stockholm and the Chatelard school in Chambly, and was a student at the Feminin de Bouffemont in Montmorency, France, when the war started. Since then she has been graduated from the Mary A. Burnham school in Northampton, Mass., and now is in her final year of nurse training at the Massachusetts General hospital in Boston.

Elizabeth Pratt Mullaney.

Mr. Heintzelman, who lived with his parents in France and Switzerland until 1935, received his early education abroad and then attended Phillips Andover academy. He was graduated from Amherst college cum laude and a member of Phi Beta Kappa and now is a member of the faculty at Andover.

His father is the well known artist whose etchings and dry point are represented in principal museums and galleries abroad, including the Luxembourg and the British museum, and in this country, including Chicago. He also is curator of prints of the Boston public library.

Debutante News.

When Mr. and Mrs. Harry Eli Hobbs received word that their son, Lt. Hobbs Jr., would be home for the Christmas holidays, having completed his missions with the army air forces in Europe, they quickly made plans for a debut party New Year's day for their daughter, Corlene Ann. The party will be an open house from 4 to 7 p. m. in the Hobbs' home at 1320 State pkwy. Miss Hobbs, who was graduated last June from the Ethel Walker school, has been working as a nurses' aid. She plans to enter Sarah Lawrence college in January. The Hobbs family formerly lived in Flossmoor.

A young woman who will be making her debut in New York and in whom Chicago shares an interest is the youngest daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Dwight Deere Wiman of New York and Chicago, Miss Damaris Deere Wiman. She will be introduced to society at a small dinner Christmas night in the Cotillion room of the Pierre hotel. Her father will not be present, however, as for the last two years Mr. Wiman has been in England, where he is director of entertainment for the Red Cross in Europe. Miss Wiman attended the Spence school and now is at the Knox school in Coopers-town, N. Y. Her sisters are Mrs. Arthur William Carter Jr., Mrs. Coleman Glover, and Miss Anna Wiman, who currently is a ballet dancer in the Broadway musical, "Song of Norway."

On the Calendar.

Members of the Arts club have an interesting week in store with the announcements of two coming events, a lecture next Tuesday by Anthony Tudor and the opening Dec. 1 of an exhibition of "Cuban Painting Today." Mr. Tudor, whose name is a by-word among balletomanes, will speak at 11:30 a. m. on "The Ballet in Production." Later the club's president, Mrs. Alfred P. Shaw, will entertain at luncheon for the speaker, who did the choreography for four of the ballets—"Pillar of Fire," "Dim Lustre," "Lilac Garden," and "Gala Performance"—to be given here by the Ballet theater, which opens today.

The exhibition of the works of 11 modern Cuban painters, all in their early 30s, will be previewed during the tea hour from 4 to 6 p. m. Dec. 1. The show, which is being circulated by the Museum of Modern Art in New York, was organized by Jose Gomez Sicre, Cuban critic, with the aid of Alfred H. Barr Jr., advisory director of the museum's staff.

Today's Events.

The Print and Drawing club of the Art Institute of Chicago is entertaining at tea from 4 to 6 p. m.

Kapell Plays Rachmaninoff Interestingly

Concert by the Chicago Symphony orchestra, Hans Lange, conductor; William Kapell, pianist. Presented in Orchestra hall Thursday evening, Nov. 23, 1944, and scheduled for repetition Friday afternoon. The program:
Symphony in E flat major for strings, two oboes and two horns.....Johann Stamitz
Concerto for Piano, No. 2, C minor.....Rachmaninoff
"In a Summer Garden".....Delius
Tone Poem, "Don Juan".....Strauss

BY CLAUDIA CASSIDY.

Hans Lange made his first appearance of the Chicago Symphony orchestra season at the Thanksgiving concert at Orchestra hall, with William Kapell as his soloist, playing Rachmaninoff's Second concerto to mark his downtown debut. This is the intense little 22 year old pianist with the beautiful hands and the crisp black pompadour, who had such a Ravinia success two summers ago with the contemporary work he played so often he said people were beginning to call him Willie Khachatourian Concerto.

Altho Mr. Kapell is one of the most gifted of the younger pianists—I know of no one but Leonard Pennario to rival him, unless it is the young Fleischer who played with Monteux in New York the other day—it is not yet quite time to change that middle nickname to Rachmaninoff. The C minor concerto covers a huge Russian canvas and Mr. Kapell lacks the pianistic maturity to fill in all its splendors. The great sweep of the score eludes him, and the titanic fury of its climaxes. But in the smaller scale of his own performance he played superbly, with incisive brilliance and complete musical security, and when it came to the poetry, ah, that was when Mr. Kapell shone.

Here he had the dreamy, nostalgic languor that is the very essence of the music, an almost liquid lyricism that gave the adagio the undulating cadence that is uniquely Rachmaninoff, and uniquely satisfying, if you happen to find Rachmaninoff, as some of us do, and not merely an outmoded decadent, as others do. Altho there was never a time when Kapell's hands did not seem utterly at home on the keys, in the slow movement they lived there, and the music seemed to flower beneath them. We can all wait for a talent like that to reach its full realization.

It would be a pleasure to say that the accompaniment was the magnificent Rachmaninoff long an Orchestra hall tradition, but the fact is that the orchestra did not play well last night. If it will forgive me for saying so it seemed rather like a horse long accustomed to going full speed ahead under the whip, suddenly finding that it couldn't run under supple reins. It had a dispirited, lackadaisical air, and the amount of tone it achieved was scarcely in proportion to its size.

The nearest it came to giving Mr. Lange the performance he once could have taken for granted was in Delius' "In a Summer Garden," which had resilience and texture. Stamitz's symphony was cleanly but listlessly played, the Rachmaninoff simply could not achieve the old molten fusion once so exciting a part of concertgoing, and Strauss' "Don Juan" was a skeleton of its old self, tho toward the end the orchestra made a valiant effort to salvage its sagging reputation.

Program for Children.

On the Record — By Claudia Cassidy

Resonant Hint to Hitler.

Altho William Walton wrote "Belshazzar's Feast" 14 years ago for a Leeds festival, there is no mistaking the wishful thinking that prompted the brilliant recording sponsored in England a year ago by the British council and just released in this country [Victor M-974; five 12 inch records]. It isn't a king of Babylon but a mad little man with a mustache who now looks with glazing eyes at the handwriting on the wall. But while the implication is dramatic, "Belshazzar's Feast" has more lasting claim to fame than its temporary timeliness. It is a remarkable work on a big, straightforward scale, and the recording does an exceptional job of capturing the festival scope of the performance directed by the composer with the Huddersfield Choral society and the Liverpool Philharmonic orchestra and brass bands. The baritone ejaculations by Dennis Noble are self-conscious intrusions in an otherwise full-throated simplicity of expression, but they are brief and quickly banished by that magnificent chorus. Walton's score makes thrilling listening, even in the confines of recording, with its ominous opening, its brazen clangor of sound, its proclamation of Isaiah's curse, its wailing of sorrow, and the way it turns an Alleluia chorus into a "joyful noise" of the scriptures.

By-gone Brilliance.

One of the sadder things about the brief shelf of Frederick Stock's recordings with the Chicago Symphony orchestra is that so much of it comes from the popular repertory, not from the magnificent scores that were his supreme test as musician and conductor. But if you want to be reminded how the orchestra used to sound under his direction—the sheer brimming vitality, the dexterous brilliance, and the exhuberant tone—listen to Victor's M-975, the two 12 inch records holding Dvorák's "In der Natur" and Suk's Polka from the "Fairy Tale Suite." There are plenty of nostalgic moments!

Shostakovich Sonata.

Not the best of Shostakovich by any means is this sonata recorded by Gregor Piatigorsky, cellist, and Valentin Pavlovsky, pianist [Columbia M-551; three 12 inch records]. Much of it is quite dull, tho the performance is good except for the tinny recording of the piano in the long largo. As Shostakovich, the music is most typical and most attractive in the brief scherzo.

Casadesus' Mozart.

Columbia has reissued the Mozart Concerto for Piano in C minor [Köchel 491], superbly played by Robert Casadesus, with a not quite comparable accompaniment by the Orchestre Symphonique de Paris, Eugène Bigot conducting [M-356; four 12 inch records.] On the final side Casadesus plays the Rondo in D major [Köchel 485].

Children's Corner.

Victor has a new storybook series for children, each an attractive folder with a record tucked inside. For small children, things like "Mother Goose" and "Three Little Pigs;" for the middle sized, "Little Black Sambo" and the merry saga of the hats of "Bartholomew Cubbins;" for those 12 years old and more, excerpts from Delibes' "Coppélia," Viennese waltzes played by Stokowski and the Philadelphia orchestra, Brahms' Hungarian Dances played by Fiedler and the Boston "Pops," and the waltz from Tschaikowsky's "Sleeping Beauty," with the melody running over the folder, just in case you want to try it on the piano.

Service Base Popular with G. I. Shoppers

BY REA SEEGER.

A free shopping service for G.I.'s is functioning under the name of service men's shopping base and the service is sharp. The shopping aids are not only very decorative but also wise in the art of finding just the right gift for those on the lists of soldiers, sailors, marines, and the girls in uniform. It's a service base de luxe, filled with gift suggestions. There are dozens of lounging chairs and desks and tables for those who sweat out the "Christmas gift briefing."

Here's the opportunity to hand over the problem of what to buy for finicky people, fussy relations, special girl or boy friends, and special "specials." If you shrink from the ordeal of shopping yourself, if gift papers, tie ribbons, Christmas seals, and what-not make you run for a foxhole, these experts will shop for you—even wrap and tie every single package. And if you like the bustle and hazards of mixing with an already slightly daft crowd of pre-Christmas shoppers, the girl experts will serve as guides and run interference for you.

Come one, come all, just so you are in uniform. If you shiver and shudder over too close contact with a million buyers who are out for everything they can spend their money for, this service men's base is the spot for you.

Paging the Real Word Expert.

I'd like to call the attention of the Real Word Expert to two words whose literal meaning is the opposite of their accepted meaning: "Manufacture" and "manuscript."

Manufacture—manu [by hand] and facto [to make]. Yet, we think of the word manufacture as associated with huge factories full of machinery turning out things in mass production. Would you ever see a hand-made tablecloth advertised as manufactured—which, literally, it is?

Manuscript—manu [by hand] and script [written]. But could you find a publisher these days who would accept a literal manuscript?

First Boss.

In listing "feminine firsts," why not include one of the most important "firsts" in a white collar girl's life—"first" boss, almost as important as "first" love or "first" evening dress?

At the time she may not realize how significant he really is. Actually he is the most important boss of her entire business life.

If he is reasonable, confidence-inspiring, fair, and considerate, the employe-employer relationships in her life are off to a good start. If he is suspicious, vacillating, overbearing, and ill-mannered, she's off to a bad start.

Some one should set business men to thinking along these lines now, when so many of them are dependent upon new, inexperienced help: What constitutes a good "first" boss?

Display Works of G. I. Artists in Paris Exhibit

BY ANNE BRUYERE.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

PARIS, Nov. 23.—Cartoons, water colors, and oil paintings by artists of the United States army are among 114 pictures now on exhibit in Rainbow Corner, operated by the American Red Cross.

Representing Chicago is a 28 year-old WAC, Virginia Daley of 7736 Saginaw av. She has sketched a group of French children gazing open-mouthed at G. I. Joes climbing the Eiffel tower. Another picture, which she calls "Sad Sacks," depicts a small, woe-begone soldier standing in the huge Place de la Concorde with an English-French dictionary in hand.

Pvt. Vincent W. Fiersuk signs a series of cartoons called "Americans Like Paris." The cartoons depict troops making themselves at home in sidewalk cafes or having fun at the Casino de Paris and the races.

"Water Colors of England," by Sgt. Stephen Pace make up the most important group of the exhibit. They show picturesque villages, landscapes, and monuments, as well as St. Hilda's college at Oxford and Windsor castle.

Charles Spears, 20, shows some unusual oil paintings. He has studied at a Pittsburgh art school and at Pratt institute. He presents a number of vivid portraits of his buddies.

An added feature of the exhibit is a series of illustrated lectures given by experts such as Pierre Veilet, art director of the Louvre; Robert Rey, curator of painting; Picasso, most popular of contemporary modernists, and Christian Berard, famous landscape painter.

These French artists have asked Americans to visit their studios and give uniformed students free lessons. In addition, the French government has invited allied troops to take day or night courses, without charge, at Beaux Arts, where classes in oil painting, water color, sculpture, and architecture are conducted by world famous teachers. There will be prizes and quarterly exhibits in conjunction with the classes.

Among students already enrolled is a blonde, blue-eyed Chicagoan, 26 year old Doris Larson of 424 Newport av. She showed me sketches she had made of colorful Montmartre artists wearing berets and bow ties and said:

"I used to attend the Chicago Art Institute. I've always dreamed of studying in Paris. I'd rather be here than anywhere else in the world, because of the wealth of masterpieces concentrated here."

The amount of meat remaining on the carcass of the Thanksgiving fowl tells the story of yesterday's dinner appetites and the extent of the late supper sandwich spree, a holiday custom which is almost as much eating fun as the hot turkey dinner itself.

No doubt the bones of the Thanksgiving chicken, duck, goose, or turkey [if you were lucky] will yield enough meat scraps for a delicious left-over dish. Cut the meat from the carcass at once to prevent drying out and store in a covered container until ready to use. Wrap up the bones for soup making in a day or two.

Poultry Hash.
[Serves four.]

¼ cup minced onion
½ cup sliced mushrooms
2 cups diced cooked poultry
2 cups finely diced cooked potatoes
1 cup milk
Salt, pepper, paprika

Saute mushrooms and onion in hot fat. Add cooked poultry, potatoes, and milk. Cook slowly until thickened. Season to taste and serve hot. A little celery salt is a nice addition. This hash may be baked in a greased casserole at 350 degrees for about 25 minutes.

Chicken Terrapin.
[Serves four to six.]

3 tablespoons margarine
3 hard cooked eggs
5 tablespoons flour
¾ teaspoon dry mustard
1 teaspoon salt
¼ teaspoon white pepper
2 cups milk or milk and stock mixed
1½ cups diced chicken, duck, goose, or turkey
1 pimiento, chopped
1 tablespoon chopped green pepper
4 ripe olives, chopped coarsely
1 tablespoon lemon juice

Melt fat. Add mashed egg yolks, flour, and seasonings. Stir to blend thoroly. Add liquid and cook until thickened. Add chopped egg whites and remaining ingredients, except lemon juice. Reheat, taste, and add extra seasonings if needed. Add lemon juice just before serving. Serve on rusks or hot toast.

Quick Chicken Pie.

Cut chicken, duck, goose, or turkey meat in as large pieces as possible. Put in greased casserole and pour a can of cream of mushroom soup over the meat. Top with freshly whipped potatoes or thinly rolled baking powder biscuit dough and bake in a 450 degree oven 20 to 25 minutes.

Turkey or Chicken Croquettes.

3 cups chopped cooked turkey or chicken
1 cup thick white sauce
2 teaspoons finely chopped onion
2 teaspoons finely chopped parsley

To make thick white sauce use 4 tablespoons flour and 4 tablespoons fat to 1 cup liquid [half milk, half stock]. To white sauce add chicken or turkey, onion and parsley, and seasonings to taste. Chill thoroly; shape into pyramids, balls, or any desired shapes; roll in flour, then in egg diluted with milk [1 tablespoon milk to 1 slightly beaten egg], and roll in seasoned, fine bread crumbs. Fry in deep hot fat for 2 to 5 minutes, or slightly longer in shallower fat. Makes one dozen small croquettes.

Poultry Soup.

Remove any meat scraps from bones and set aside. Crack bones, place in kettle, and add skin. Cover with 2 quarts cold water; add 1 sliced carrot, 1 sliced celery stalk, a few celery leaves, 1 tablespoon chopped onion, 1 sprig parsley, and a tiny piece of bay leaf. Bring to a boil, then reduce heat and simmer, covered, for 2 hours. Strain, and cook a little rice in the broth until tender. Add any meat scraps, season to taste, and serve. If stock is greasy, it might be well to cool it, then chill in the refrigerator to set fat, which then may be easily removed.

Baked Yellow Pike Nutritious

Eat plentiful fish often to vary the diet and supply a protein rich food. Yellow pike is interesting baked this way: Sprinkle a 3 pound fish with pepper, salt, and flour. Place in greased baking pan, cover with 1 cup evaporated milk, and bake at 450 degrees for 10 minutes. Remove from oven. Cover fish with 2 medium Bermuda onions which have been cut into thick slices and sauted in fat until delicately browned. Top with bacon strips. Return to oven and bake 15 minutes. Remove onion and bacon, dust with paprika, and serve.

If Your Meat's Tough, Maybe It's 'OPA Veal'

BY ARNOLD ERICKSON.

If you have had difficulty chewing any of the various "veal" cuts—and you probably have if you use much of this meat—you undoubtedly got hold of a piece of "OPA veal," a product well over the borderline between veal and grass beef which the OPA has classified as veal against the better judgment of meat experts in the department of agriculture.

Word from the packers' test kitchens suggests that by slow, moist cooking, as in the preparation of grass beef, much of this veal can be made palatable. However, if you prepare it as you do the veal from milk-fed calves that measure up to agriculture department classifications your meat is almost certain to be a flop. There is no quick way to cook it.

Altho this kind of meat ordinarily is not popular, and, for that matter, was never sold in large quantity in the pre-OPA meat industry, there is an extensive call for it now because it is ration point free. The government brought much of this "veal" to market this year by following a price policy that encourages farmers to dispose of light, thin grass cattle and get a "calf" price from packers which is higher than the cattle feeders can afford to pay. Under normal conditions such cattle would be bought by cattlemen of the corn belt for fattening into beef steers.

So far as expert meat men in the stock yards are concerned, such a product is not veal at all, but it is sold lawfully as veal because the OPA says it is veal. One stock yards cattle salesman said he recently had a meal of this meat and knew it was veal only because his wife said the butcher told her it was. So, despite age-old trade practices, the meat goes as veal in the markets which are governed now more by OPA specifications than by true meat grades. A federal plan to reduce the beef cattle population on farms also is said to be tied in with the program which is sending these light, thin cattle into market instead of thru the corn feedlots.

THE FACTS ON THE COFFEE SITUATION

A Statement by the Producing Countries

MR. GEORGE C. THIERBACH, President
National Coffee Association
120 Wall St., New York

Dear Mr. Thierbach:

In view of the various reports that have appeared for some time in the press of this country relative to both the supply and prices of coffee, and in view of recent statements from responsible sources to the effect that the responsibility for the solution of these problems rests with the producing countries, the Pan-American Coffee Bureau has decided to submit to you a clarification of the factors involved in the great crisis which now faces the coffee industry of Latin America.

The Pan-American Coffee Bureau has, without exception, always scrupulously abstained from expressing any opinion or taking any position with respect to any of the war-time regulations or restrictions imposed in the United States.

As a foreign agency the Bureau has rigorously refrained from direct or indirect interference in any manner, in subjects concerning the internal economy and policies of this country.

This policy has been strictly adhered to, as can be testified to by the National Coffee Association and during recent years, so fraught with difficulties and problems for the coffee industry, the Bureau has concentrated on cooperating with the National Coffee Association, the various government agencies of the United States and the producing countries for removal of difficulties, an early solution of existing problems, and faithful adherence to all war-time regulations.

We have considered these policies as the least we could do in order to reciprocate the favorable and cooperative attitude shown by the government, the trade and the public of this country towards the Bureau and the entities which the Bureau represents.

However, it does not seem to me to be necessary to deviate from our policy in order to submit a concise statement of facts as they affect the Coffee producing industry of the Western Hemisphere.

Coffee Prices Reached All-Time Low in 1940

Following the outbreak of the European War, with its consequent closing of markets for about 10 million bags of coffee produced in Latin-America, the price of coffee already greatly depressed because of a long period of over-production, because of abandonment by Brazil of the price support policy which it followed until 1937, and because of restrictive tariffs in various consuming countries—(colonial protection in Continental Europe and Imperial preference in Canada and Great Britain) reached the lowest levels in history.

These disastrous levels, starvation prices if permitted to continue for any length of time would have resulted in ruin for the coffee industry of Latin-America, and in economic chaos for the 14 coffee producing countries of this Hemisphere.

Such a catastrophe would have resulted in deplorable social and political repercussions, would have opened the doors of the Americas to dangerous extremist ideologies which were making bold experiments in Europe and what is most important, would have cut off vitally important markets in Latin-America for United States industries.

Ceiling Price Set Below 30-Year Average

The completion of the Inter-American Coffee Agreement, in which the United States participated, averted this calamity. The coffee market slowly recovered and prices reacted in a healthy manner until they reached, late in 1941, a level which was then acceptable or even satisfactory when compared to the disastrous depths to which they had fallen in 1940.

It should be noted at this point that the sole basis for the acceptability of these prices was the fact that they represented a partial recovery from the all time lows afore-mentioned, which obviously cannot be taken as a fair basis of comparison.

When war-time conditions made necessary price control in this country, green coffee prices were frozen at the levels prevailing in 1941, levels which as we have seen were at that time acceptable to the producers. However, it is clear that these so-called "recovery" prices of 1941 were far from remunerative, when it is considered that they were still about 5% below the average of the past 30 years.

Coffee prices still continue frozen on that basis today, at the end of 1944.

Production Costs Substantially Higher

With this background, the present situation may be summarized as follows:

a) The agricultural and industrial wages, local transportation, the cost of machinery and other articles which coffee producers import, etc., all rose substantially between 1941 and 1944 (in some cases up to more than 100%) which increases have been fully reflected in highly increased cost of coffee production.
But the prices of coffee continue frozen on a 1941 basis and therefore, coffee producers at present have to produce coffee and to live in 1944 at 1944 costs while their income is frozen at 1941 levels.

Abandoned Coffee Trees Portend Disaster

b) This state of affairs is already resulting in the abandonment of millions and millions of coffee trees throughout Latin-America and in the failure adequately to care for and maintain plantations still in production. If this situation is prolonged there will be an inevitable collapse of the coffee industry of Latin-America.
As the war stimulated the demand for meat, cotton, and grain, many producers have found a temporary and precarious compensation in raising cattle and growing other products. With the advent of peace and the restoration of local production in the countries devastated by the war, this temporary demand will cease and with it will cease the temporary income offered former coffee producers whose situation will then be desperate.

Present Prosperity in Coffee Countries—an Illusion

c) The apparent prosperity in the coffee producing countries, an appearance resulting from existing favorable international trade balances, is illusory and frankly misleading. Such balances result solely from the impossibility of buying, in which these countries find themselves, from the impossibility of obtaining the instruments of production necessary for their activities and of obtaining many other essential articles of life. The restrictions imposed by the war have not permitted them to import except in very limited quantities, agricultural and industrial machinery, railroad cars, mills, rails, trucks, automobiles, electrical equipment, and often did not permit them to import even spare parts either new or used.
Now, the very modest industrial plants of these countries, their railroads, systems of urban transportation, highway rolling equipment, agricultural, industrial and transportation equipment, water transport facilities, coastal or interior, already deficient before the war are today on the verge of collapse, and the open process of disintegration through lack of replacements or even remotely adequate maintenance and repairs.
This is the sole reason for the existing balances, which will evaporate on the day the war-time restrictions which impede the purchases of material are removed. Such balances are actually not sufficient to renovate our agricultural and industrial equipment or to repair the depreciation caused by three years of excessive use, without even a minimum of adequate maintenance, and repairs.

Increase Needed—Only ½ of a Cent a Cup

d) An increase in coffee prices sufficient to maintain economically in production the billions of coffee trees in Latin-America, sufficient to prevent economic ruin in the various countries, sufficient to avoid the loss of valuable markets for industries of the United States, would not constitute a sacrifice for the public because it would represent, at the most, about ½ of a cent in the cost of a cup of coffee. This means that a consumer who drinks four regular cups a day would have his budget for coffee increased by about ½ cent a day.

A Lowering Production May Affect U. S. Coffee Supply

e) If some readjustment is not made an unfortunate situation might arise, which would prevent or disturb the free flow of coffee to the American market, just at a time when the shipping situation is such as to permit an ample supply of the product for United States needs.
Coffee producers cannot be forced to sell their coffee at a loss, i.e., below the cost of production when the abandonment of plantations and the neglect of adequate cultivation of those which are still in production has already reduced the yield of coffee in some countries, and will reduce it even more in the coming crops due to the fact that neglect of the plantations for one year results in a reduced production which takes at least 3 years to return to original yield.
In the case of Brazil, unfavorable weather conditions and inadequate returns have reduced by more than 50% the last two crops.

Coffee Growers Unable to Take Further Losses

f) With reduced production, on one hand, and with the impossibility of continuing to produce without suffering economic losses under present conditions, on the other hand, it is only logical that the producers, so badly squeezed for some time past, will not be able to sell in 1945 at 1941 prices.

Would Rationing Be a Solution?

It is our considered opinion that rationing would not be a solution because it would not permit the restoration of plantations already abandoned or being abandoned, thus adversely affecting the producers, the trade and the consumer.

* * * *

This is the present situation of coffee as viewed and interpreted by the Pan-American Coffee Bureau. The gravity of the menace which weighs over the Latin-American producers who derive their livelihood from coffee, over the roasters, importers, brokers and distributors in the United States who deal in coffee and over the public which has made coffee its favorite beverage, can hardly be exaggerated.

In conclusion, may I express to you personally and on behalf of the countries represented by the Bureau our great appreciation for the cooperation offered at all times to the Bureau by your Association.

Cordially yours,

EURICO PENTEADO
Chairman of the Board of Directors of the Pan-American Coffee Bureau

BREAKFAST CEREAL HELPS YOU MAINTAIN YOUR BLOOD'S "IRON LEVEL"

STILL AN URGENT NEED FOR BLOOD DONATIONS

Mr. John Macauley Keene of 6719 Merrill Ave., Chicago, Ill., began giving blood two years ago. So far he has donated 16 pints. Other persons in good health are urged to come forward and donate vitally needed blood for plasma. The fluid part of your blood is restored in a few hours; the red corpuscles are soon rebuilt if the "iron level" of the body is properly maintained.

KELLOGG'S ALL-BRAN gives you more iron for your money than most other foods

DAY AFTER DAY—as long as you live—your body has to make billions of new red blood cells. You need iron to help make hemoglobin for these new cells—and if you don't get enough of it your vitality and well-being may suffer.

The best way to get iron is in the foods you eat. Unfortunately, very few every-day foods provide an appreciable amount of iron. Thus your diet can be short of iron without your knowing it—may vary day to day. And your "iron level" may go down.

Why take chances—when you can get a good start on your daily iron needs simply by eating a dish of KELLOGG'S ALL-BRAN regularly for breakfast? This crunchy, nut-sweet cereal is extra rich in iron—a one-ounce dish each day provides more than one-third your daily needs of iron. It actually provides more available iron than spinach. That's because KELLOGG'S ALL-BRAN is made from the vital outer layers of finest wheat.

KELLOGG'S ALL-BRAN—Made From the Vital Outer Layers of Finest Wheat

Probably you know that the skin of the potato or the peel of an apple is chock-full of essential food values. Into the vital outer layers of wheat, too, Nature has packed some of the grain's most important nutrients.

KELLOGG'S ALL-BRAN is made from these vital outer layers—that's why it's not only rich in iron, but is a storehouse of lots of other important food elements. In fact, ALL-BRAN is more abundant in many of these food elements than good whole wheat itself.

Triple Milled for Golden Softness

KELLOGG'S ALL-BRAN is triple milled for golden softness. It's an appetizing way to get wholesome nourishment and extra iron. And it's America's most famous "regulating" cereal. Get ALL-BRAN at your grocer's, made by Kellogg's in Battle Creek.

Hats for the holiday mood have an air of elegance and beauty which fills the wearer with the feeling of being superbly groomed. Sequin trimmed winter white felts and black or brown felts splashed with colorful satin are only a few of the breath taking models.

The festive little theater hat of black felt at upper left has a softly crushed swirl of fuchsia satin covering the entire crown. Aqua or blue are other combinations with the black.

The hat at upper right combines chocolate brown felt with large pink and blue satin bows which cascade down the back in an alternate color treatment. The minute beret has a side visor which adds to its charm.

The diminutive winter white felt at lower left is trimmed around the brim and crown with gold sequins. The up-turned back is heart shaped, and the bird cage veiling is of lustrous black.

The winter white felt padre hat at lower right is for the exotic type. The crown is partially trimmed with gold colored sequins. Contrasting black veiling extends from the base of the crown down under the chin and is draped high at the back of the hat. A black horsehair tab at the back serves as an anchorage for black jet pins.

Chicago Yanks in Florida Ask Sally for Radio

[Activities of the Sally Joy Brown department are sponsored by Chicago Tribune Charities, Inc.]

BY SALLY JOY BROWN.

Perhaps some reader who has a small radio to dispose of would be interested in the following letter from a camp in Florida:

"Dear Miss Brown:

"We are a group of eight Chicago men stationed in the same barracks. We have tried to buy a radio, but none is available down here. If any reader has a small table model radio we would certainly enjoy having it so we could have music and news."

If a south side reader no longer needs her baby buggy, Mrs. D. would be glad to have it. Her husband is overseas and she has several small children. Further information will be given on request.

We feel sure some of our readers will be able to assist a 9 year old boy who has just started a stamp collection. He is very enthusiastic about it, but his mother has just returned to work on a temporary basis after a year's illness. Her husband also is ill and unemployable. The name and address will be given to interested readers.

Mrs. Edward T., Oak Park—If colored candle wax gets on a garment or table cover I place the stain between white blotters or paper towels and press with a warm iron. As blotters get soiled I change them for fresh ones. Then if any color is still left on spot I make up a liquid of 1 cup denatured alcohol and 2 cups of water and sponge the spot with this solution.

Mrs. Harry W., Peoria, Ill.—I have kept my soft wood floors in excellent condition for years by periodic applications of 3 parts of good boiled linseed oil to 1 part turpentine. This finish takes wax nicely and when wear begins to show on any special places, we re-oil them.

Thru the Looking Glass

If there is a rather unusually solvent Santa Claus who might be wondering what you'd like for Christmas you could guide him slyly toward those solid gold compacts, with sapphire clasp, that were introduced this year by a fine cosmetic house.

Last we heard there were four or five of these left. We don't know just what technique might be best to use after you got your prospect to the cosmetic counter. Maybe the solitary, shining tear that trickles slowly from your sorrow weighted lids . . . maybe just the wistful look. Maybe you'll just have to use that old one about loving beautiful things. Anyway, if your line is good enough and the big strong Santa falls for it, you'll end up on Christmas morning with something beautiful, a round, jewel-like case, measuring three and a quarter inches across, that was fashioned in gold by Cartier. Santa, in case you're interested, will wind up with a bill for $540, including tax.

You'll think it's worth it. The compact is perfectly, elegantly simple, made entirely of solid gold with a superimposed pink gold decoration in the center of the top. The inside is fitted with a mirror, a lamb's wool puff, and a cake of hand pressed powder.

There is a suede bag for this, too, to protect it from marring contact with the contents of your pocketbook.

We saw this gold luxury about two months ago when it had just been introduced to a breathless public in the east. When we inquired, fearfully, whether the manufacturer thought he'd EVER sell them he twinkled wonderfully; six had been sold right smack out of his showroom practically before he'd had time to unwrap 'em!

EVEN ROAST OF COFFEE IS ASSURED

Exclusive process roasts every berry evenly to insure uniform flavor

When coffee has the same delicious flavor in the cup day after day, much of the credit can be given to the way the coffee is roasted. For delicious uniform flavor depends upon a uniform roast—a roast in which every coffee berry is done to perfection.

To achieve such uniformity, Hills Bros. Coffee, Inc., years ago, developed a roasting method that automatically regulates the amount of coffee roasted and the degree of heat. In this exclusive process, "Controlled Roasting," only a few pounds of coffee at a time pass through the roasters. So exact is the control that every berry is done to perfection, assuring a completely even roast. The result is matchless, uniform flavor in every pound of Hills Bros. Coffee.

Even during wartime the users of Hills Bros. Coffee will find no change in quality or flavor. As always it is a blend of the finest coffees obtainable. And as in prewar days, Hills Bros. Coffee can be depended on to produce the same delicious flavor in every cup.

SYNOPSIS: John Ranger, owner of Circle-JR ranch, and three cattlemen go in search of rustlers who shot and killed Rod Spillman. On the way to the crossroads store Sandra and Nelson Ranger are intercepted by bandits. Two rustlers, riding warily out of the hills, scrutinize the valley, then signal for the herd to move on. Four armed men appear in the valley. In the rustlers' attempt to get away, one of them is killed and a stranger is taken prisoner. Uhlmann and Sholte are anxious to hang the stranger, believing he is one of Scarface's bandits, but John Ranger and Russell Hart prevent it. Uhlmann keeps guard over the captured cowboy, Sloan, while the others drive the recovered cattle. Bill Hays warns them of the approach of Pablo Lopez's raiders. During the encounter Sloan escapes and rescues Sandra and Nelson from the bandits and escorts them back to Blunt's, where the men are hoping to hang him. John Ranger comes to his aid and dresses his wound. When Sloan's innocence is established he pretends to shake the hand of Pete Sholte. At John Ranger's ranch Jim Budd, the Negro cook, recognizes Sloan as Mr. Webb, escaped prisoner. Sandra senses there is a secret understanding between Sloan and Jim Budd. When the sheriff notifies Sloan he has been cleared Sloan evades the sheriff's questions, for which Sandra criticizes him.

INSTALMENT XI.

WOMAN'S INSIGHT.

No balanced judgment would ever decide Sandra's feelings toward this man. It was not only that Cape Sloan had done her a great service at much risk to himself. Something reached out from that lean body with the whipcord muscles, from the strong, reckless face, that drew her irresistibly to him.

She said, in a low voice: "I think you have been wild and lawless and that there is something . . . shocking . . . in your past. But whatever you have done, you are not evil. A man's actions, at some crisis, and what he really is, are two different things. I don't have to be told what is troubling you to know that I am on your side."

Swiftly she turned and walked into the house. The man's gaze followed her. He was astonished at what she had said, at the insight which had probed thru the incriminating facts to the essential truth.

His way of life was chosen. There was no room in it for a woman like Sandra Ranger, nor for any of the pleasant and kindly friendships. He was in a fight from which he did not expect to get out alive. But he had set himself to a task. He meant to go thru with it unless his enemies destroyed him first.

The name of Jug Packard came up one evening while the Ranger family was sitting with Cape Sloan on the porch.

"Is paying values?"

"You must have heard of the Johnny B—— near the mouth of Geronimo Gulch," said John.

"Seems to me I have. Is it locally owned?" Cape kept his voice indifferent.

"Jug Packard holds a controling interest."

The young man stifled a yawn with his forefingers. The obvious lack of interest was fraudulent. "Lives in New York, with an office on Wall st., I reckon," he suggested.

"No sir. Lives at Tucson, when he isn't at the mine. Mostly he stays right at Jugtown, where the works are. His family put on considerable dog at Tucson, but the old man dresses like he did when he didn't have a nickel."

"I see. An oldtimer, a diamond in the rough."

"An old timer all right. He's been here since Badly was a hole in the ground, but I wouldn't call him exactly a diamond or rave about his heart of gold."

"A millionaire?"

"He's got money enough to burn a wet mule." Ranger added, after a moment: "Jug is a crabbed old tightwad."

"But otherwise an estimable citizen," Sloan commented.

"Hmp! Not unless rumor is a lying jade," returned Ranger. "I wouldn't trust him farther than I could throw a bull by the tail. Some nasty stories about Jug have floated around. By the way, your friend Uhlmann used to be a foreman or pit boss or something or other for him."

"Did he mention that he was my friend?"

Ranger leaned back in his chair, drew on his pipe, and released the smoke slowly. "Jug came in as a mule skinner for a freight outfit," he said. "The Pachies ambushed the party on the Oracle road and would have got the whole caboodle if Bob Webb and two-three of his boys hadn't happened along and drove them off. Jug was wounded, so Bob took him to Tucson and looked after the bills till he got on his feet again. They say Mrs. Webb nursed him. Anyway, later Bob took him down to the Johnny B and gave him a job."

"Mr. Packard seems to have made good there," Sloan said dryly.

"Jug is one of those fellows born to make money. If he sees a dime around that isn't nailed down he gets it. No doubt he saw right away that there was a fortune in the Johnny B. Jug is mighty competent, the kind that is bound to get to the top. Webb was kinda easy going. He relied on Jug a lot. In three-four years he was superintendent and had a small interest in the mine." The cattleman stopped talking. His daughter prodded him. "Well, go on," she urged.

It was her eyes, Sloan decided, that quickened a personality interesting and exciting. He did not know that she had divined intuitively that this story somehow concerned him greatly.

"Webb was killed when a charge exploded unexpectedly in one of the drifts," her father continued. "After that Jug took charge, tho Mrs. Webb still owned most of the property. He organized it into a stock-company, and by that time he held the next biggest interest to Mrs. Webb. The mine ran into a streak of bad luck. They lost the pay vein, and none of the drifts seemed to have much ore. For a couple of years the Johnny B shut down. The stock went down to almost nothing. Jug bought it right and left, a good deal of it from Mrs. Webb. When the mine opened up again Jug owned nine-tenths of the stock. Almost right away they struck a bonanza."

"Fortunate for Packard," Sloan remarked.

The girl looked at him quickly. "You think Mr. Packard just happened to hit pay ore?" she asked.

"That's his story. You can take it or leave it." Ranger's resentment at the man exploded into words. "No, I think he pulled off some kind of shenanigan. Maybe he knew the ore was there and shut down to get control."

"Who kept the mine books?" Sloan asked abruptly.

"I don't know. Why?"

"He might have been looting the mine before it shut down, pocketing the profits so as to have enough to buy up the stock later."

"I wouldn't put it past him. Anyhow, he has the Johnny B, however he got it."

"And Mrs. Webb—what did she do about it?" Sandra asked.

"What could she do?" Ranger answered. "Jug had been too slick for her."

"So the story ends there."

"No. After a while young Webb came back and raised a row. Got off on the wrong foot and killed a fellow named Giles Lemmon, who was one of Jug's men. They gave him 20 years in the penitentiary."

"Which made it nice for Mr. Packard," Sloan drawled.

"How dreadful!" Sandra murmured. "For him and his poor mother, if she was still living."

"She was then," Ranger replied. "She isn't now. Two years after he went to prison I read in the paper of her death."

"And the son——he's still in the penitentiary?"

"I reckon so, Sandra. Maybe he deserved what he got. When a man kills he can't kick if he has to pay the price. But one thing is sure. Jug Packard brought about that killing."

Looking at Hollywood

By Hedda Hopper

HOLLYWOOD, Cal., Nov. 23.—Thanksgiving is over but let's continue being thankful that war has never touched our shores, that we're able to work and buy bonds, that we're in a business that can and does keep our men overseas from going mad. I mention such pictures and radio shows as Command Performance, Mail Call, Jubilee, and the rest. We're grateful that stars like Bing Crosby, Jack Benny, Fred Astaire, Jimmy Cagney, and Betty Hutton, to mention a few, have done the kind of job reflecting credit on our industry. We're sorry for those who didn't live up to what was expected of them and what they'd promised. We're glad we don't have to live with their consciences. We're thankful for the unknown men and girls who have been giving of their talent for years to make life more pleasant for our men overseas. Larry Adler told me he hoped to live long enough to get a hand as big as their accompanist who traveled with the Jack Benny show got at every performance. I asked, "Was she so beautiful?" "No, she was so normal and sweet she reminded every man of his wife or sweetheart." . . . I'm thankful that here in California we can lift up our eyes and see the sun shining on snow-capped mountains, that we can pick and eat a ripe orange off a tree, that people no longer gripe when they have to park their own cars while Christmas shopping. I'm grateful that I never started wearing slacks. Now I don't have to give them up. . . . At this season of the year I don't think it would hurt any of us to take stock of ourselves. Some one said, "There's so much good in the worst of us and so much bad in the best of us, it ill behooves any of us to talk about the rest of us." Isn't that the truth?

A Real Deal for Louis.

Louis Lighton, producer of "A Tree Grows in Brooklyn" and "A Bell for Adano," has not bought up his Twentieth Century contract. When he finds the story he likes [also Zanuck], he'll produce the picture. Wonder what they're doing at that studio with the script Clare Luce wrote about China? It's about time we did something on that subject, don't you think? . . . Metro's hoping Arthur Freed [off to New York to see shows, night clubs, etc.] finds another Lucille Bremer. No girl has ever stepped up as fast as Lucille. From a Rockette to star of "Ziegfeld Follies" in a year is going some—even for our town. . . . John Schenck returns Monday. We've got a walking date. Maybe he'll teach me Spanish—I hope, I hope. . . . Pinky Lee of Earl Carroll's "Vanities" is a perfect cut up with Eve Arden in Republic's picture of the same name. . . . Penny Singleton and Bob Sparks leased Ruth Selwyn's Beverly Hill home for two years with an option to buy. . . . Even Japan listens when Cecil De Mille speaks. The other night De Mille went to home of Louis Zamperini's mother and spoke from there over radio. At midnight Tokyo Rose came on the air to say that Zamperini was not dead—he was a prisoner in Japan. . . . A Big eastern executive is in very wrong with an independent producer here because of the producer's daughter. There's liable to be all kinds of fireworks before things blow over. . . . Lucile Gleason is playing the easiest role of her life—Jimmy's wife in "The Clock." All she does is prepare ham and eggs for Jimmy, Bob Walker, and Judy Garland. Where she got the ham I wouldn't know.

All in the Point of View.

Lunched at Lucey's with Charlie Brackett. He told a funny one. In "Double Indemnity" a line of dialog mentioned a certain brand of bourbon. When picture was shown director and producer each got a case of it. When "Duffy's Tavern" started, the producer received a note, "Don't you think it's about time to insert a charming bit of dialog about our bourbon?" But when "Lost Week-End" started the same guy wrote, "Please do us a favor. Don't make mention our whisky." Which reminds me that in "The Women" a certain brand of scotch was mentioned. Every week during its New York run Producer Max Gordon got a case. His friends all wondered why he was so generous. Max doesn't drink. . . . Renee De Marco got quite a reception at her Clover club opening. I remember the one she got with Tony in London in 1936. They were the toast of the town. . . . Carl Laemmle Jr. finally found Mimi Forsythe. . . . Warners' script on "Cheyenne" is for either Humphrey Bogart or Errol Flynn.

WMC Appeals to Its State Groups to Spur Recruiting of Nurses

Washington, D. C., Nov. 23 (AP).—The war man power commission has appealed to its state committees to intensify recruiting of nurses for the military services. A spokesman said 10,000 additional nurses are needed immediately to meet army needs for care of wounded and sick soldiers both at home and overseas. The agency directed field committees to make additional names of nurses available at once to the American Red Cross for recruitment purposes. The spokesman said the drive is on an entirely voluntary basis.

"I'm a private secretary—a good one, my boss says.

"But he'd fire me like a shot if I were careless about perspiration. No boss stands for that!

"To be sure I never offend, I use FRESH—the deodorant cream that stops perspiration worries completely. And I'm proving that a FRESH girl gets ahead!"

1. FRESH contains the most effective perspiration-stopping ingredient known to science.
2. A gentle cream that won't irritate any normal skin. Stays smooth and creamy. Doesn't dry out in the jar. Never gets gritty.
3. Keeps dresses free of perspiration stains and odor.
4. Won't rot even delicate fabrics.

A Destructive Boy Reflection on His Parents

BY GLADYS HUNTINGTON BEVANS.
[Copyright: 1944: By News Syndicate Co., Inc.]

Any one who knows boys has to admit that even the best brought up occasionally will break out and do the craziest things. Sometimes it's just an excess of spirits that is responsible; often they haven't the faintest idea of how their actions will look to grown ups, and almost invariably they are totally oblivious of the possible consequences.

I know of one instance where several boys pried open a window and entered the home of the parents of an older boy they admired, because they'd caught some young rats that he always wanted for feeding a pet snake he had, which had been left in the house for that week-end. Housebreaking? No, all they thought was, "O, boy! Young rats for Hal's snake."

Another boy, devoured with after-school hunger, calmly ate half a pie in his friend's mother's ice box without asking her. You don't like it? No, it caused quite a rumpus at the time, but what marvelous young men they are today!

However, repeated or chronic acts of destruction or actual vandalism are another story. When a band of young boys in their in-between years [8 to 12] roam about breaking windows and destroying property, doing small or large mischief, the trouble usually is traceable to home.

Children are young creatures who need training and guidance. Even the animals [cats and monkeys, for example] teach their little ones.

Boys need guidance. They need a cheerful home with interested parents in it. They need training and intelligent discipline. They need pleasant occupation for their leisure time and the friendship of their parents. They cannot go home from school to an empty house or indifferent parents, and be allowed to run wild when and where they will. As an old fashioned friend of mine said the other day, "Children can't just grow; they need to be raised." They do indeed.

Sleeping Togs

You can save money and shopping time by making for your youngsters the hard-to-find warm sleeping togs they need for the winter ahead. This pattern makes a two-piece pajama with "butcher boy" lines, the type of sleeping garment which brings comfort. Style No. 3844 is designed for sizes 2 to 10. Size 4 requires 2¾ yards of 35 inch material. Style No. 3843, for the doll, must be ordered separately. Each pattern is 10 cents, plus 2 cents for mailing.

Order Clotilde patterns from Chicago Tribune, P. O. Box 537, Grand Central Annex, NEW YORK CITY. Print name and address; state size. Each pattern is 10 cents, plus 2 cents for mailing.

Sports Season Is in Full Swing on North Shore

Hockey sticks and badminton rackets are getting workouts from north shore residents who indulge in those two popular sports. The North Shore Field Hockey association and the clubs which are members of the North Shore Badminton association are going full swing.

Every Sunday morning the hockey association, which is headed in its 17th season by Mrs. Warner M. Washburn, meets on the Skokie playfield at the west end of Elm st. in Winnetka. The association is composed of three teams—the Skokie, captained by Mrs. Frode Jensen; the Lake Shore, under Miss Lucy Jane Hedberg, and the Indian Hill, under Mrs. Emmanuel Fenallosa.

This season the association has worked out a "share-a-car" plan, with Mrs. Washburn, Miss Hedberg, and Miss Evelyn Meinecke alternating as drivers for two cars to pick up the players.

Eight local schools, including North Shore Country Day, Roycemore, Evanston Township High school, Kemper hall, and Highland Park High school, have become allied with the association, and each Sunday from 10 to 11 a. m. students from the schools go to the playfield for instruction.

Wednesday nights and Sunday mornings find the gymnasium of the New Trier High school turned over to badminton enthusiasts. The association includes four teams—the Skokie, the Evanston, the Ridge, and the Valley. The latter two teams, which are headed by Mr. and Mrs. George Von Gehr, meet at New Trier with the Skokie, which is under the direction of John White and Theodore Boles. Many of the Evanston players, who are organized under Fred Russell, play at the same gymnasium, and the four teams hold inter-club tournaments.

The badminton season is in full swing in Winnetka, where the Winnetka Badminton club meets Saturday afternoons, Sunday mornings, and one night each week at the North Shore Country Day school. Harold O. Barnes is the new president of the group, with Preston Holliday, Mrs. Roger Sherman, and Richard W. Simmons as other officers.

Knitted Calot

BY JEAN MACDONALD.

Calots are ideal for the youthful miss, co-ed, or teen-ager when created in the brightest colors. These hats may be knitted in less than one day's time, so start now and knit some for Christmas.

For instructions in knitting the calot, No. 1212, send 10 cents in stamps or coin, plus 2 cents to cover mailing cost, to the Needlework Bureau, Chicago Tribune, 220 5th av., New York, 1, N. Y.

The bidding:

| South | West | North | East |
|---|---|---|---|
| Pass | 1 heart | Double | Pass |
| 1 spade | 2 hearts | 3 spades | Pass |
| 4 spades | Pass | Pass | Pass |

Opening lead, ace of clubs.

The bidding is given as it actually occurred, but it does not have the stamp of approval of this department. In mitigation of South's jump, it should be pointed out that he was a dinner guest, playing with his hostess, a lady whose bids are discountable at any Federal Reserve bank in the country.

Against the game contract West elected to open the ace of clubs, and despite the appearance of the dummy, continued with the deuce which, incidentally, was the perfect defense.

This trick declarer naturally won in dummy and was immediately faced with the problem of entering his hand in order to lead toward the king of spades. The only apparent way to do this was to ruff a club, but West's defense had indicated almost to a certainty that he had led a high low in clubs and that declarer would, therefore, be overruffed.

There seemed to be no way to avoid the loss of a club, a diamond, and two spades. Declarer, however, hit upon the one combination of cards that would permit him to fulfill contract. The odds were tremendously against it, but it was the only hope, and that was for the queen of spades to be alone in either hand. He, therefore, boldly played the king of spades out of dummy and was rewarded when the ace and queen fell on the same trick.

The rest of the play was routine. Declarer could not go wrong, the heart finesse and the diamond ace both being right, and the club suit readily available for establishment.

Note that Declarer does not play for the ace to be singleton, because if that were the case there would be no way to avoid losing a trick to the queen, because if West has it he will win a trick by overruffing the club return. If East has the queen he will make it naturally.

[The usual weekly quiz will appear tomorrow.]

WOODS TESTS COSTNER'S RING SKILL TONIGHT

Louis to Appear in Stadium Bout.

BY FRANK MASTRO.

Sgt. Lou Woods, Detroit boxer, who prior to his defeat last month by Ray (Sugar) Robinson appeared on his way to national prominence, will test the ability of George Costner, skilful and hard hitting welterweight from Cincinnati in an eight round bout tonight in Chicago Stadium.

The Fort Sheridan noncom is expected to establish whether Costner's phenomenal success since being discharged from the army last February is bona fide or just a matter of mediocre opposition.

George Costner. Lou Woods.

George has scored 10 straight knockouts in the last nine months to give him a record of 19 such conquests in a row. He achieved three of his knockouts in Chicago in recent weeks, including one in the Stadium on the Robinson-Woods card.

Costner Looks Like Comer.

Costner, who is living with relatives in Evanston since first coming to this section a month ago, has displayed the earmarks of a coming champion in his previous Chicago starts—ring generalship, boxing skill, and punching power with either hand. He is confident of adding Woods to his string of victims. If he realizes this ambition negotiations will be opened to have him meet Robinson in the Stadium in January.

Woods' setback by Robinson was his second reversal in 35 starts. It was the first time he ever had been stopped, and even then Ray was unable to register a knockdown in the nine rounds the match went before the referee halted it.

Lou is expected to weigh 155 pounds and Costner 148 when they step on the scales for the Illinois athletic commission this afternoon.

Louis in Exhibition.

Staff Sgt. Joe Louis arrived yesterday morning for his three round exhibition against Dan Merritt of Cleveland on the same program. The heavyweight champion, who does not have to weigh in or undergo a physical examination, said he weighed 215 or 220 pounds. This evening's appearance will be his last on the current tour, the army having ordered him to return to New York Sunday for reassignment. He knocked out two of his opponents in the five earlier exhibitions.

Elmer Ray, Los Angeles heavyweight, will be trying for his third consecutive Chicago knockout in an eight round match with Claudio Villar of Spain. Five of the contestants in four additional contests of eight rounds are Golden Gloves graduates. These are Collins Brown and Lou Angelucci, middleweights, who are opponents; Johnny Bratton and Gene Spencer, who also will clash, and Robert Carl, who is matched with Ace Miller of Los Angeles.

1,000 Service Men Guests.

Charley Parham, stocky Milwaukee 152 pounder, will face O'Neil Bell of Detroit to complete the program.

More than 1,000 service men will attend the show as the guests of Promoters Irving Schoenwald and Jack Begun. Among them will be 150 convalescent soldiers from Vaughn and Gardiner General hospitals.

Arrangements are being made to handle a crowd of 8,500, with anticipated receipts of $25,000.

But the neighbors one and all would agree

They'd make their way thru a drizzling rain
To old Katie's house at the end of the lane.

And there while the firelight danced on the wall
She'd tell them things to delight and appall,
Of that hoped-for letter each soon would receive,
Of the tall, dark stranger out to deceive;
Marvelous trips they were soon to take
On ocean, river, sometimes a lake;
The veil from the future she'd cunningly tear
And lay all its secrets open and bare.

FANS IN 10 MILE RADIUS TO SEE BOWL CONTESTS

Washington, D. C., Nov. 23 (AP).—Attendance restrictions on a mileage basis probably will be placed on all bowl football games this season, the office of defense transportation indicated today.

It was disclosed that such instructions probably will be sent out within a day or two, limiting attendance to persons living within a 10 mile radius of a bowl site. That plan, theoretically in effect for the Army-Navy game, on Dec. 2 in Baltimore, Md., will apply to all post-season contests.

40,000 WILL SEE WILDCATS AND ILLINI BATTLE

Altepeter, Young to Match Speed.

A 52 year old rivalry and the presence of such speed merchant backs as Buddy Young, Eddie Bray, Paul Patterson, and Hank Altepeter will combine to lure more than 40,000 spectators into Dyche stadium tomorrow afternoon for the 38th football game between Northwestern and Illinois.

The fact that both teams are out of the running for the conference championship has not lessened the demand for tickets and the game will be witnessed by the largest crowd to assemble in the Wildcats' stadium this season.

Illini Hold Edge.

Both teams usually come up with their top performance for this annual game as attested by the series standing which finds the Illini holding an edge of 18 victories against 16 for the Purple. Three games ended in ties.

Illinois, represented by its strongest team in recent years, will be out to avenge last year's 52 to 6 defeat at the hands of the Wildcats. The latter, on the other hand, are victory hungry after a string of six defeats and one tie and see a chance to rescue some solace by upsetting their traditional downstate rivals.

The Wildcats will count on their ace ball carrier, Hank Altepeter, to match Buddy Young's explosive speed. Like Young, the Purple back is a track star in his own right, having placed second in the Big Ten quarter mile run last spring. Altepeter was thoroly bottled up by Notre Dame last week, but had turned in some fancy running in previous games against Minnesota, Indiana, and Purdue.

BUDDY YOUNG TO START.

Champiagn, Ill., Nov. 23 [Special].—Claude K. [Buddy] Young, Illinois' and America's fastest half back, worked out with the Illini today and appeared to be in good shape. The ankle sprain which handicapped him thruout the second half of the Ohio State game last week-end was not noticeable.

Jerry Cies of Carlinville is definitely out of this Saturday's game at Northwestern and will be replaced at full back by Bill Heiss of Aurora. This makes the probable starting back field, Young, Heiss, Don Greenwood, and Paul Patterson. Greenwood has not been able to practice this week, because of injuries, but he probably will be all right.

Sam Snead's 70 Is Low in Portland Golf

Portland, Ore., Nov. 23 (AP).—Cracking par on a rain swept course, Sam Snead scored a 70 today to take the lead in the first round of the 72 hole Portland Open golf tournament.

Snead toured the soggy Portland Golf club course in 33-37—70, two strokes under par. This gave him the lead over Mike Turnesa, White Plains, N. Y., who previously had posted a 71.

These two set the sub-par pace while three others equaled standard figures. They were Harold West, Portland pro, who also drives a bus in Seattle; Willie Goggin, White Plains, N. Y., and Zell Eaton, Los Angeles.

This is Snead's first competitive tournament effort since he enlisted in the navy 26 months ago. He was discharged recently and had only two practice rounds before going into action today. The Hot Springs, Va., pro attracted the largest gallery of the day, 2,500 fans rigged out in rain togs braving intermittent showers to watch him play.

ROBINSON PREPS CLAIM STATE TOP SCORING HONORS

Robinson, Ill., Nov. 23 (AP).—Robinson High school claimed high scoring honors among Illinois prep football teams today and Jack Kaley, Robinson half back, sought honors as the state's leading individual prep scorer.

Robinson defeated Oblong, 60 to 7, today to run its total up to 323 points in nine games, 17 more than the 306 registered by Fenger of Chicago in 10 games. Kaley scored six touchdowns and five extra points in the contest to boost his total to 152, seven more than the 145 of Darrell Scott of Leroy.

NEW YORK'S GOAL TENDER IS ON THE JOB

TILDEN COACH HOPES 3D TRIAL WILL BE PAY-OFF

Coach Chuck Harvey, who will send a Tilden Tech football eleven into the Kelly bowl game for the third time in four years on Saturday, Dec. 2, when the Blue Devils meet Weber High school in Soldiers' field, yesterday called time out from practice sessions to devote himself to Thanksgiving turkey and become philosophical on the subject of football.

Herman Miskowics.

"Yes," said Chuck, while waiting for a second portion of cranberries, "we'll be in for plenty of trouble. Weber is a good, tough outfit and will give our team a busy afternoon."

Herman Is Quite a Boy.

Herman Miskowicz, Weber's full back who plays tackle on defense, is the gentleman whom Harvey figures will occupy the major part of the Blue Devil attention.

"Miskowicz," said Harvey, "is the best full back I have seen all year. He could play on any one's team, and I wouldn't be surprised if he were selected for all-state honors."

When Harvey was asked what form of an attack he planned to use against Weber, and what form of defense he would employ, he became very much interested in a drumstick and didn't commit himself until the subject came around to the strong Tilden line.

Title Would Be New Thrill.

"We'll average around 176 pounds," he said, "and our replacements will weigh about the same. But that Weber line is strong, too, and, as I said before, both teams will know they have been in a ball game before the afternoon is over."

Harvey, altho sending his third team into the Kelly bowl, will be in quest of his first victory in that event. Two previous efforts, in 1941 and 1942, resulted in losses to Leo, representative of the Catholic league. George La Cognata, coach of Weber, also will be seeking his first Kelly bowl victory, since this is his first season as a head coach.

Tilden wants that victory, Harvey agreed, and said, "We'll have a light practice tomorrow. We've been practicing all week, but not too heavy. Monday we'll really get down to business."

Want to Compare Scores?

Tilden, representing the City league, will go into the contest with two ties on an otherwise perfect record. They were against Lindblom and Austin, the latter in the semi-final play-off. Weber, which won the Catholic league title by upsetting Fenwick, 25 to 20, last Sunday, has only one tie, a 6 to 6 deadlock with St. Rita, to mar its season.

The teams played only one common opponent, Leo, which Tilden defeated, 25 to 0, in a practice game while Weber beat the Lions, 6 to 0, in league contest.

Condition of Landis Is Called Satisfactory

The condition of Kenesaw M. Landis, baseball commissioner, who has been a patient in St. Luke's hospital since early in October, was described as "satisfactory" in a hospital bulletin last night. The baseball veteran, who became 78 on Monday, had suffered a setback earlier this week.

Ohio State Reaches Peak for Title Battle with Michigan

BY WILFRID SMITH.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Columbus, O., Nov. 23.—Ohio State university's undefeated football squad studied its mimeographed sheets of Michigan's plays, worked out defensive formations on the field this afternoon, and then forgot Saturday's Western conference championship game momentarily to sit down to Thanksgiving turkey.

Seventy-four thousand, the third largest crowd in the history of the 22 year old stadium, will see the 41st Michigan-Ohio state battle. For the first time, this game, on the last conference date, will determine the undisputed championship. If the Buckeyes win Saturday, an undefeated team not only will gain midwestern honors, but it may challenge Army for national ranking, provided, the Cadets defeat Navy next week in Baltimore. Should Army lose to Navy, Ohio State will be undisputed national champion.

Wolverines Want to Win, Too.

Michigan has won four of the last six games with the Buckeyes. The 1941 game was a 20 to 20 tie. The Wolverines will be the Big Nine champions if they beat Ohio State. Michigan could boast of a perfect record this season except for Indiana's surprising 20 to 0 victory.

This historical narration means nothing to Saturday's thousands. Many more would attend the game if authorities permitted. Ninety thousand watched Michigan defeat Ohio State, 17 to 16, in 1926. When Notre Dame scored three touchdowns in the fourth period to lick Ohio State, 18 to 13, in 1935, the attendance was 81,018. Since then general admission and standing room have been restricted.

Good Seats Cost $25.

Fifty yard line seats are $25 each and try to find a seller. It's a bull market. Ohio fans believe their civilian eleven is headed for a title and competition in a post-season Rose bowl engagement, if the Big Nine faculty men are willing.

Ohio State is confident of victory and the belief is based on the excellent all-around play by Les Horvath. The four-year veteran not only is the leading ground gainer and a forward passer with a .667 completion in recent games, but he is the Buckeyes' field general. Horvath's performance Saturday is the pivot for Ohio State's hopes.

Horvath is a superb player, but his work, when he carries the ball, depends on the abilities of his teammates. The Buckeye line, with Bill Willis, Bill Hackett, and Jack Dugger showing the way, is believed superior to Michigan's forwards. Certainly, if these men overpower Michigan's line, Ohio State will win. If they merely hold their own, then Horvath's passes may be the path to victory.

Tulsa Loafs but Defeats Arkansas, 33-2

Tulsa, Okla., Nov. 23 (AP). — The University of Tulsa football team warmed up today for the Orange bowl encounter with Georgia Tech on New Year's day by beating an oldtime rival, the University of Arkansas, 33 to 2, before 16,000.

The Tulsa Hurricanes had scored their 33 points by four minutes after the start of the second half, then adopted an unusual plan of battle. Thruout the rest of the game they refused to take the offensive, kicking on first down every time they got the ball.

Fans Don't Like Strategy.

Coach Henry Frnka's peculiar strategy undoubtedly had its merits. For one thing the Tulsa pass defense, which has been spotty, got a good workout. Likewise, it kept Georgia Tech scouts from getting a good look at the Hurricane offense. However the crowd didn't like it at all. This was Tulsa's last home appearance of the season and the fans protested against the idea of keeping the Hurricanes' attack under cover.

The aerial minded Razorbacks, pleasantly surprised at this turn of events, threw 40 passes in a futile attempt to score, but completed only 10 and threatened seriously only once, in the closing minutes, when they got to Tulsa's 9 yard line.

Mental Lapse Costs 2 Points.

A blunder by Clyde Goodnight, Tulsa end, gave the Razorbacks their two points in the second period. Goodnight intercepted a fourth down Arkansas pass in his own end zone and lateraled to Leo Walker, who was knocked down in his tracks for a safety. Lineups:

British Release More Equipment to Cricket Clubs

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, Nov. 23.—While the manufacture of sports equipment is prohibited in the United States, the British board of trade came out today with good news for cricketeers here with the promise that more equipment will be available next season to clubs not attached to any recognized cricket league or association.

Only teams belonging to clubs in the cricket conference in London and southern England have been able to obtain equipment in the last couple of years. A special permit is needed for many items. The available equipment for next season, it was said, does not include clothing or shoes. Clubs sponsored by government departments will not be eligible for the extra gear.

St. Mel Is Defeated by Culver Academy, 7 to 6

Culver, Ind., Nov. 23 [Special].—Half Back Ron Gottfried's extra point following Al Mulliken's touchdown gave Culver Military academy a margin in the first quarter of today's game with St. Mel's of Chicago and was enough for 7 to 6 victory. St. Mel's touchdown came as Don Coletti, on an off tackle play, ran 20 yards for a touchdown late in the first quarter. Marty Reed failed in his attempt for the extra point.

BY EDWARD BURNS.

The New York Rangers and the Chicago Blackhawks, representing the two largest cities on the North American continent and the two largest constituencies, gained no ground last night in their fight for the lowliest spot in major league hockey. They played a 4 to 4 tie before a 11,436 crowd in Chicago Stadium.

The Hawks remained in the National league cellar, but were happy withal, for with five minutes and 15 seconds of the game remaining, they were behind 4 to 3. Had the game ended that way, the Chicagoans would have been possessed of a seven game losing streak and a sad tabulation of five losses in six games on their home ice, so beloved in almost all other seasons prior to this one.

Horeck Saves the Day.

At 14:45 of the final period, however, Rookie Pete Horeck, assisted by Clint Smith and Bill Mosienko, effected a 4 to 4 tie. Then Goalie Mike Karakas, by a series of miraculous saves, kept the count at a deadlock until the end of the contest. This final tying goal was the only one in a hard fought third period.

The Hawks led twice in the contest with the only team they have beaten this year—1 to 0, in the first period, which ended, 2 to 1, in favor of the Rangers, and 3 to 2 very briefly near the close of the second period, which ended, however, with the Rangers ahead, 4 to 3.

The first goal of the evening was scored in 5:16 of the opening session by Smith, on assists by Mosienko and Horeck. Then goals by Joe Shack and Ab De Marco put the Rangers ahead at the end of the first period.

Mosienko Ties It Up.

There was no scoring in the first 11 minutes and 18 seconds of the second period, but four goals were made in the last 8 minutes and 42 seconds. In 11:18 of the second, Mosienko, assisted by Earl Seibert and Smith, tied the score at 2 to 2 and in 14:52 the Hawks went ahead when Bill Thoms caromed one home off a Ranger stick.

Fred Thurrier, on a pass from Ott Heller, tied the score at 3 to 3 in 16:39.

Mush Makes an Error.

Then with less than 15 seconds of the period remaining, Mush March, making his debut as a defense man after 16 years plus as a Hawk right winger, passed from alongside his own cage to Heller, who was standing alone 35 feet directly in front of the Hawk cage. Heller, tho surprised, cut loose and beat Karakas, also surprised. That gave the Rangers, in 19:47 of the second period, the 4 to 3 lead which prevailed until Rookie Horeck counted in 14:45 of the final.

The Hawks have a busy week-end ahead, with the one team they haven't met—the Detroit Red Wings. They will meet the Wings in Detroit tomorrow night, then the teams will come here for an engagement Sunday night.

4 PHILADELPHIA PINMEN TO SEEK ALL-STAR FAME

Serpico Heads Quaker City Delegation.

BY CHARLES BARTLETT.

A few months ago, Mike Devitt, bowling editor of the Philadelphia Record, intimated that there might be a fellow named Frank Serpico around when the shooting starts in the fourth annual All-Star match game individual tournament, to be sponsored by the Bowling Proprietors' Association of America and Chicago Tribune Charities, Inc., in the Auditorium Service Men's center, from Dec. 2 thru 10.

Michael granted that Frank was seeded into the show by his fine performance in the 1943 tourney, but also suspected that Frank likes to spill pins to an extent that he would still go out after the Philadelphia Record title. He not only appeared, but won the title. In order to prove himself, he first beat a large field, which competed in a 20-game elimination round, bowled on 40 drives in four establishments.

Averages 208 Pins.

Serpico proceeded therefrom to defeat the other seven finalists in the round robin tournament, comparable to that in which 40 Chicagoans engaged recently. He averaged 208 for the 20 preliminary contests, then raised this to 208 in the round robin, in which he knocked over 7,263 pins in 35 games.

Frank will not be the only representative from the Quaker City. The 49 year old Pennsylvania manufacturer will be accompanied by three other Philadelphia bowlers — Dr. Harry Kerr, 32 year old osteopath; 59 year old Warren Chadwick, one time automobile driver who has held the state pin title, and Joe Clark Jr., a member of the famous family of six adept bowlers.

Dr. Kerr, who stands 6 feet 2 inches, is reputed to rifle a powerful ball in spite of his spare frame. After finishing eighth in the Record's 20 game elimination he wound up second to Serpico in the round robin, blasting out a 199 average, or 6,976 pins. For the entire 55 games he showed a record of 196.

Chadwick Is Match Champion.

Chadwick, who has proved himself a man-to-man competitor with the distinction of having won the match game championship of Philadelphia, allows that he will be ready for such oldsters as Fred Staring, 60 year old winner from Richmond, Cal., and Fireman Jim Toomey from San Francisco.

Clark, whose mother, father, sister, and two brothers are all skilled tenpin topplers, is 5 feet 8 inches tall, weighs 165 pounds, and rolls a neat hook.

BADGER'S GIRARD IN TOP FORM FOR GOPHER CONTEST

Madison, Wis., Nov. 23 [Special].—The University of Wisconsin football squad worked out on a snow covered field today and the prospects of playing Minnesota here Saturday on just such a gridiron increased when the Camp Randall playing field was not covered before a storm hit last night.

Despite the cold and slow underfooting, the Badgers had a spirited drill and with Earl [Jug] Girard hurling passes in his early season form, the team appeared sharp. Roger Laubenheimer and Jack Mead, ends, and Joe Campbell, right half back, were the main targets for Girard's tosses.

The Badger cripples, Guard Nick Collias, Girard, Tackle Martin Meyer, and Centers Don Cusack and Bob Weiske again took it easy.

GREEN BAY MAY TURN ROY M'KAY LOOSE SUNDAY

Roy McKay, a hard running, sharpshooting passer from Texas who has had little exercise on northern gridirons, may be turned loose Sunday by the Green Bay Packers when they close their victorious season against the Card-Pitts in Comiskey park.

McKay, member of the last two College All-Star suads, saw little action in either of the games against the Redskins or Bears in Dyche stadium because of injuries. After getting an honorable discharge from the army, the Texan reported to the Packers last fall confident that his time, at last, had arrived.

Passes First Test.

Then he was felled by a knee injury, which defied all healing ministrations. It wasn't until two Sundays ago that Roy made his National league debut. This was in Cleveland against the Rams. He passed this first test with flying colors. He completed three of seven passes for 47 yards, including a touchdown. He carried the ball twice for 14 yards. He punted five times for an average of 39.2 yards.

Before the season opened, Coach Curly Lambeau predicted that McKay would be one of the outstanding freshman backs in the league. The sample which the Texan showed his coach at Cleveland indicated that Curly was not talking lightly.

Bears Leave for East.

Eleven members of the Bears, accompanied by Coach Hunk Anderson, left yesterday for Philadelphia where the team will meet the Eagles Sunday. The remainder of the squad will leave today.

The Bears will practice tomorrow in Shibe park.

PENN SQUAD RESTS.

Philadelphia, Pa., Nov. 23 [AP].—The Cornell football squad will arrive tomorrow for Saturday's game with Penn. The Quakers rested today, but will have a final tune-up tomorrow.

Dimancheff, acting captain, leading scorer, and leading ground gainer, who was released from the hospital this morning, made a brief appearance on the practice field to test his injured knee, as did Cody.

INDIANA ENDS DRILLS.

Rafferty set the pace all the way over the Clifton park course. Two United States Naval academy runners, Curran Dempsey and Walt Barry tied for second.

The team championship for the 10,000 meter event was successfully defended by the Naval academy, which finished with 23 points.

20,000 WATCH MISSOURI ROUT KANSAS, 28 TO 0

Kansas City, Mo., Nov. 23 [AP].—Bruising straight football, reminiscent of the days of 1910 when they last played Kansas here, carried the Missouri university Tigers to a 28 to 0 triumph today over the Jayhawkers in their 53d annual contest before 20,000 spectators in Ruppert stadium.

The rushes of James Kekeris, 273 pound St. Louis sophomore, a surprise full back converted from tackle, carried the Tigers to a touchdown at the end of the first quarter, and he continued to punch thru the Jayhawker line, scoring 16 points in his own right.

The Jayhawkers, carried off their feet by the savage ground attack, never threatened seriously. Once in the fourth quarter Kansas got as far as Missouri's 16, but the Tiger line held and took over.

Not until the final quarter did the Missourians' resort to forward passing to gain ground.

The Charley Moffett-Sutherland passing combination, the Jayhawkers' best offensive weapon, failed to worry the Missouri secondary defense materially. Eighteen times Kansas threw the ball, but they gained only 48 yards on the Half dozen completed pitches.

The Missouri victory was the 21st in the 53 game series which started here in 1891.

Birds Dumb So Hunters Have Goose Dinner

BY BOB BECKER.

Altho there is a shortage of turkeys this year, a few thousand Illinois hunters who bagged wild geese near Horseshoe lake in Southern Illinois were able to substitute roast goose for gobbler meat yesterday. But more important to the scientists today than this switch of birds for the Thanksgiving day dinner is this question, "What makes the geese at Horseshoe lake so dumb?"

When we were on the Illinois river last week we asked two scientists, Dr. Lee Yaeger and Frank Bellrose Jr. of the Illinois natural history survey, to give us their explanation of why the wild geese at the refuge fly so foolishly and run into the hot lead so eagerly.

Here's One Theory.

Bellrose wonders if this theory is worth considering: He points out that on a well known refuge in Canada the geese become used to man and let people walk among them without fear. Then they head for Horseshoe, and here they see conservation department workers driving around and walking around the refuge and again the birds know they have nothing to fear. So it is possible that the honkers just fly out of the refuge expecting everybody to be their friends?

Whatever theory that will account for the unusually heavy kill around Horseshoe is worth listening to, because at no other place on the continent are geese as silly or are they as devoid of their reputed wariness as in Illinois.

$90,000 for 6,000 Geese?

It has been estimated that each hunter who went to the Horseshoe area averaged one goose. The expenditure was $15 per man per goose. With 6,000 shot that would be $90,000 spent for the 1944 bag of Illinois honkers. We have no final figures on this estimate, but we have reason to believe that it's pretty close.

Title Bouts Are Next for C.Y.O. Boxers

All of the 32 qualifiers for the finals of the 14th Catholic Youth organization amateur tournament on Dec. 6 came thru Wednesday nigth's semi-final fighting in good shape with the exception of Jack Corbett, rangy blond novice light heavyweight representative of St. Mel High school, it was reported yesterday.

Corbet suffered an injured arm while advancing at the expense of Tom Somlo, Ike Berstein's protege from St. Gregory High school. After an examination of the injury in the C. Y. O. center gymnasium. Dr. W. Llyod Kenny said Jack probably would be able to go thru with his championship fight against Gene Bruno, also of St. Mel High. Bruno remained in the running by eliminating Kusada Kazuo of Holy Name.

RAIL REVENUES MOVE TOWARD NEW HIGH MARK

But Some Interests Expect Traffic Dip.

BY EDWIN NICHOLS.

Railroad operating revenues apparently again are on the way to a new high record this year unless there should be a sharp reversal in the remaining weeks. The roads are handling about two and one-half times the freight traffic and more than four times the passenger business that they had before the war. But taking into account the progress of the war in Europe, some financial observers express doubt that the traffic volume in 1945 and in the early post-war era can be maintained at the lofty levels of 1943 and 1944.

Expectations that future shipments may be below this year's are based partly on the present industrial trend. Business activity as measured by the federal reserve board's monthly index of industrial production has declined moderately but persistently thru most of the last year. For November, 1943, the index was at its high record of 247. By last September it was down to 231. Unofficial estimates indicate a level of 229 for the November.

Traffic Continues High.

Despite this trend, freight movement has continued at record levels most of this year, altho in some recent months revenue ton miles are estimated to have dipped slightly below the 1943 level.

In the eight months thru last August, operating revenues of the railroads totaled $6,281,293,000, compared with $5,937,652,000 a year earlier. In the 12 months ended with August the total was $9,397,931,000, against $8,774,131,000 in the preceding 12 months. Assuming continuance of the trend, the interstate commerce commission has estimated that revenues for all of 1944 will be approximately 9 billion 500 million. The highest previous calendar year revenues were $9,054,724,000 in 1943. Revenue ton miles in the seven months thru last July amounted to 431,273,490, an increase of 4.3 per cent over the corresponding period of 1943. A ton mile represents the transportation of one ton of freight one mile.

Views of Experts Differ.

In some quarters, including the carriers themselves, the probability of a sharp decline in traffic when the war ends is emphasized. Others contend that there are excellent reasons for believing that an immense volume of traffic will be maintained well into the post-war period. They refer to the record after the first World war, when railroad gross earnings continued to rise for two years after the armistice.

One apparent reason for the carriers' forecast that rail revenues will shrink as military operations decline is the relatively greater expansion in industrial output and freight movement in the present war than in the 1914-'18 period. The growth of competing forms of transportation, now restricted in part but certain to expand after the war, is another reason.

On the other hand, Wayne Hummer & Co., member of the New York Stock exchange, in a discussion of the railroads' post-war outlook, said: "Their real problem may be how to handle the increased traffic that could result from a mountain of peace goods production and distribution, combined with the demobilization of an army of 11 million men."

Traffic Shrinkage Forecast.

The railroad view was presented to the interstate commerce commission last October. It said that the "present volume of traffic is abnormal, is due to war conditions, and is certain to shrink substantially upon termination of the war in whole or in part." The statement was made in connection with the roads' plea for permission to collect the increased freight rates authorized and then suspended early in 1943.

A somewhat similar view was taken by Standard & Poor's corporation, whose advisory service said: "Undoubtedly peace will put an end to the period of phenomenal enrichment of the railroads. If the anticipated post-war boom materializes, it should provide them with excellent traffic. But in the interim period their business may sink badly. As the law now stands, they could show good earnings even under such circumstances, because of large carry-back tax credits."

Net Operating Income Dips.

E. F. Hutton & Co., New York, in a post-war appraisal of railroad securities, just published, said: "For the post-war conversion period we believe that a relatively high traffic level is indicated but with a reduction of war time operating costs lagging substantially behind the decline from peak war time traffic. With a record level of gross revenues in the first half of 1944, net railway operating income was 22 per cent lower than in the same period of 1943."

In the eight months ended with August net operating income was $758,577,000, compared with $972,297,000 a year ago. Net operating income in the calendar year 1943 also declined, compared with 1942, because of higher operating costs and taxes.

Car loadings, in accordance with the cutomary seasonal trend, have been decreasing. From 916,446 in the week ended Oct. 28, they dropped to 839,489 in the week ended Nov. 11. For 1944 to Nov. 11, the cumulative total was 38,752,734, against 37,629,600 a year ago.

If revenues meet expectations, 1944 will be the sixth consecutive year of advance in railroad gross earnings.

A. T. & T. CONVERTIBLES.

My American Telephone and Telegraph company 3¼ per cent bonds, 1961, sold recently below 108 and on the same day the company's 3 per cent bonds, 1956, were quoted above 122. Why this difference?—G. H.

The conversion privilege applying to the 3s, 1956, but not to the 3¼s, 1961, is the evident reason for the higher price at which the former are quoted. Both issues are debentures, direct obligations of A. T. & T. but not secured by mortgage.

A holder of the 3s has the privilege of purchasing the company's stock at $140 a share. Payment would be made by surrender of $100 par amount of the debentures and payment of $40 in cash for each share so issued. Thus on surrender of a $1,000 bond and a cash payment of $400, 10 shares of the stock may be purchased. The stock recently has been quoted around 164, or $24 a share above the conversion price.

The right to convert extends to Dec. 31, 1954, or to the redemption date in event of prior redemption of the bonds, which the company is privileged to call at 104 at any time thru August, 1948, at 102 thru August, 1953, and thereafter at 100.

FORD DEVELOPS WEAR RESISTANT AUTO BEARINGS

An improvement which will give longer engine life to the post-war Ford, Mercury, and Lincoln automobiles was announced yesterday by the Ford Motor company. The development is a "tri-alloy" bearing which is said to have three times the life of the regular bearings.

The new bearing is made of 35 to 40 per cent lead, 4½ to 5 per cent silver, 0.5 per cent iron, and the remainder copper. It replaces cadmium, a metal in widespread use as a bearing material before the war.

Worth of the new bearing was disclosed in long truck hauls of airplane parts from the bomber plant at Willow Run, near Detroit, to a plane factory near Fort Worth, Tex. The Ford company said "some bearings and crankshaft journals disclosed no measurable wear after more than 50,000 miles."

BOWLES ADMITS ERROR IN MILL PRICE ESTIMATE

Washington, D. C., Nov. 23 (AP).—Price Administrator Bowles conceded today he was too conservative in his original estimate of the increase in textile mill prices resulting from the Bankhead amendment to the stabilization act passed by congress last summer. It increased cotton prices to textile manufacturers more than 100 million dollars a year, he said.

Bowles had taken exception to estimates that the increase might be as much as 150 millions. He then estimated it at 25 to 50 millions. The Bankhead amendment provided that ceiling prices on each major cotton textile item, separately considered, must reflect parity to the cotton grower.

Today Bowles expressed the hope that this "huge charge" would not be passed on to consumers by manufacturers.

AMERADA PLANS DEEP OIL WELL TESTS IN SPRING

Chadron, Neb., Nov. 23 (AP).—The Amerada Petroleum corporation of Tulsa, Okla., announced today it had leased 200,000 acres in northwest Nebraska and across the border in Wyoming and South Dakota. The company will begin sinking deep well oil tests in the spring.

Amerada and other companies have had seismograph crews working in the area for several years, but no deep well test has been made since the Union Oil Company of California reached 5,000 feet near Agate, Neb., in 1937 only to drill a "dry hole."

GIVE ESTIMATE ON INDUSTRY IN POST-WAR ERA

District Capacity Is Up One-Fifth.

The Federal Reserve Bank of Chicago yesterday issued an estimate of post-war industry in the 7th [Chicago] federal reserve district. War production, with its emphasis on aircraft and ordnance items, has caused large scale adjustment among the district industries, but after the war output is expected to revert to its pre-war pattern, the bank said.

Industrial production in the five states in the district increased from 13½ billion dollars in 1939 to 35 billion in 1943, and production in the first year after the defeat of Japan will be 25 billion, it was estimated.

Capacity Increased One-fifth.

"Productive capacity will be larger perhaps by one-fifth than before the war," the bank said. "Manufacturing in the district, it now appears, will still be dominated by automobiles, food products, iron and steel, and machinery. Roughly two-thirds of 1939 production was concentrated in these items.

"In 1943 a striking shift in industrial emphasis was apparent when aircraft and ordnance, both industries virtually new to the area since 1939, accounted for more than one-fourth of production. Because these industries are expected to decline sharply during and after the Japanese phase of the war, it seems probable that the former peace time pattern of industrial production will be resumed to a large degree."

Post-War Prospects.

The bank listed post-war prospects for midwest industries as follows:

IRON AND STEEL—Steel will have competition from light metals and plastics. About three-fourths of war time facility expansion will be usable in civilian production if demand is sufficiently large. Most iron and steel plants can be converted in less than three months, and surplus problems are expected to be manageable.

MACHINERY—Prospects for machinery production, electrical and nonelectrical, are favorable during and for some time after the war in the Pacific. Reconversion is expected to be accomplished with minimum difficulty.

CHEMICAL—Because of the location for security reasons of the specialized war chemical plants outside the district's principal industrial areas and their primary use in meeting war time munitions needs, less than half the new facilities is expected to be used in production of civilian goods. Industrial chemical plants will require on the average about three months or less to convert, but powder plants are likely to be kept in standby condition or dismantled.

Nonferrous Metal Outlook.

NONFERROUS METALS—Probably less than the 200 million dollar expansion of facilities, chiefly in aluminum and magnesium, will find immediate post-war use. The short run production outlook for the group may be only moderately better than in 1941.

OTHER INDUSTRIES—These groups cover furniture, leather, rubber, textiles, paper, petroleum and coal products, lumber, apparel, printing, and stone, clay, and glass products. The minimum average time required to reconvert is placed at less than a month.

Record Food Output Held Likely in 1945

Weather permitting, the United States may expect production of food next year to equal or even surpass the record levels reached during 1944 if the tentative 1945 crop goals announced by the war food administration are met, food sources said yesterday.

The 1945 production program suggests a slightly larger total crop acreage than was planted this year. Goals have been set below 1944 plantings for some crops and above 1944 for others in which prospective demand requires increases.

Farm Income to Decline.

Total farm income from marketings and government benefit payments, however, is expected to decline, reversing the trend of three years of war time expansion. The department of agriculture estimated that farm cash income from marketings this year will be 19 billion 800 million dollars. Government benefit payments are estimated at about 800 million, making a total of 20 billion 600 million, higher by more than 1 billion than the record of 1943.

Farm income next year may drop 5 to 10 per cent, the department predicted, because of some reduction in marketings and in demand. Income from crop sales is not expected to change materially, but a decrease in income from live stock and live stock products is believed likely.

Total crop goals for next year are 363,718,000 acres, compared with 359,710,000 planted acres estimated for 1944. Live stock and live stock product goals for the most part are increased, with the exception of chickens, eggs, sheep and lambs.

Seeks to Assure Supplies.

WFA is attempting to maintain sufficient government food stocks and to plan for farm production next year that will make certain there is plenty for the army and navy, civilians, allies and foreign relief.

Given favorable weather conditions, crop production as a whole next year easily could exceed this year. Hybrid corn has increased yields in the corn belt by 20 per cent. Farmers this year used 85 per cent more fertilizer than in prewar years. Production per farm worker was one-third more this year than in 1939. The trend is expected to continue, giving the country a tremendous production potential.

PLANS TO EASE TAX CONFUSION DEVELOPING

May Adopt Policies Next Sunday.

A legislative plan designed to do away with much of the confusion and inequality in taxation that has followed the assessment of Cook county real estate at full, fair cash value is being prepared by a joint legislative tax committee headed by State Sen. Walker Butler [R., Chicago].

Butler said yesterday that the committee expected to adopt definite policies at an all day meeting Sunday in the Palmer House. The group has at hand a great deal of evidence gathered at previous meetings and this is all to be correlated before the drawing of the actual bills begins.

Taxing Powers Multiplied.

By order of Assessor Clark, Cook county went on full value a little more than a year ago. One of the results was that the taxing powers of many local municipalities, including the county and the city's board of education, were multiplied by 2.7 [the old assessment ratio was 37 per cent of full value].

The county took advantage of these new powers and levied last year an additional 4 millions of taxes. It is expected to levy fully as much this year. Numerous school boards in the county also embraced the opportunity for bigger levies.

Butler said that some new and effective ceilings would have to be put on local spending, but that the method had not yet been agreed on.

"We might increase the powers of the state department of revenue so it could fix and enforce assessment rules for all counties," Butler said. "Or we might stop the assessment of railroads and utility capital stock by the revenue department on a state-wide basis, as it is now done; substituting instead assessments of rail property in each county by local officials. There are immense difficulties under any plan that may be adopted."

Under present law the state department assesses rail properties on the average of all other property assessments in the state. In 1943 this average was fixed at 31 per cent of full value. Last year the ratio was 58 per cent. In Cook county last year the railroads had a tax bill reduced by 4 millions or more while downstate the carriers had increases of 6 millions or more.

Downstate Problem.

The difficulties of the joint legislative committee are increased by the multiplicity of assessors downstate—one to each township. Only Cook county has an assessor with county-wide powers. State Rep. Edward J. McCabe [D., Chicago] said he has prepared a bill that would establish one assessor per county, to whom the township appraisers would be subordinate.

Clark has maintained that the only legal way to assess is at full value, and that the revenue department has power to order all assessments in Illinois at that level.

Lockheed Net Profit Margin Declines to New Low Level

Robert E. Gross, president of Lockheed Aircraft corporation, said in a report to stockholders yesterday that cost plus fixed fee contracts had cut the percentage of the company's net profits to gross sales to a new low of .8 of one per cent, and warned the company may have to interrupt dividend payments.

An income statement for the six months ended June 30 showed gross sales of $329,483,376 and net profit of $2,751,562, equal to $2.56 a share. The statement said the profits were "after deduction of taxes of $16,790,720 and provision for post-war contingencies." No comparisons with the similar period of last year were available.

Percentage Is Reduced.

Gross said the percentage of net earnings to sales was 1.15 per cent in 1943 and the 1.66 per cent in 1942. The 1944 decrease was attributed to the fact that "an increasingly large portion of our contracts has been of the cost plus fixed fee type."

Approximately 91 per cent of the company's backlog is now on this basis, and because of this, he said, it was believed that profits for the last six months of this year may not equal those of the first six months.

"It is possible that in the near future developments may make it advisable to interrupt dividend payments to preserve the company's resources against the exigencies of post-war readjustment," he said.

Paid $1.50 This Year.

Lockheed dividend disbursements amount to $1.50 a share so far this year.

Gross said that altho Lockheed's output of military aircraft is at an all-time peak the company has about 32,000 fewer employes in its domestic plants than in July, 1943.

Heyden Chemical corporation reported consolidated net income of $704,090 for the nine months ended Sept. 30, equivalent to $1.33 a common share after provision for the preferred dividend requirement. Sales amounted to $12,102,082. For the three months ended Sept. 30, sales were $4,202,699 and net income $236,833, or 45 cents a share. Figures for the comparable 1943 period were not available.

SCIENCE PEEKS UNDER CURTAIN AT SICK MINDS

New Device Gives Glimpse of Brain's Byways.

BY ROY GIBBONS.

Unscrambling the complex nerve switchboard of the human brain is one of the major research problems on which scientists at the Illinois Neuropsychiatric institute here are working to gain a better understanding of the causes of insanity.

In tracing the untold thousands of brain pathways the scientists are being aided by electronics and a machine called an electroencephalograph. That device, built into an electrically shielded room, is a weird assortment of vacuum tubes and power circuits which records on a revolving drum the faint voltages given off by living brain cells.

The machine is calibrated to detect tumors and other brain abnormalities without opening the skull.

Only Part of Array.

But it is only part of a vast array of scientific apparatus housed in 25 laboratories in the nine story building at 912 S. Wood st., on the Chicago campus of the University of Illinois medical school.

The institute is a joint undertaking of the Illinois state department of public welfare and the university. Intended primarily as a teaching and research center and for post-graduate work, it is not used to confine the mentally ill except for study purposes.

Half the building is given over to the division of nerve surgery, headed by Dr. Eric Oldberg, professor of neurology and neurosurgery at the University of Illinois medical school. The other half is devoted to psychiatric research directed by Dr. Francis J. Gerty, professor of psychiatry at Illinois.

Dr. Gerty likened the approach which he and his staff, headed by Dr. Hugh T. Carmichael, assistant director of the institute's psychiatric division, are making to a scientific understanding of insanity to that of a party of explorers who have just set foot on a dark continent.

Much of the psychiatric information gleaned from the past must be scrapped, he asserts.

"The day of talk is over," he said. "What we now must do is go back and put a scientific foundation under what we have learned about the mentally ill."

Says Need Is Great.

With this objective as a goal, the institute is calling into play all the resources of the laboratory, the physicist, the biochemist, the electrical engineer, and every organized facility of modern medicine and surgery.

The need for this activity, Dr. Gerty said, is great. Its social significance may be better appreciated, he added, when it is realized that half the nation's 900,000 hospital beds are given over to caring for the insane. Care of the mentally ill, Dr. Gerty said, is one of the heaviest burdens borne by the American taxpayer.

Dr. Gerty said he believes he and his staff may have turned up a valuable chemical clew in their studies on metabolism having to do with the brain's independent ability to burn oxygen and sugar.

Persons suffering from schizophrenia [split personality] seem to have difficulty in this respect and have proved to be resistant to insulin even tho they are not suffering from diabetes, the sugar disease which insulin arrests, he disclosed.

Other studies are being made with new methods of shock therapy, a procedure by which the insane or mentally sick person is rendered momentarily unconscious by electric shock or put into a state of coma thru the use of drugs.

Why the dark curtain of insanity is lifted from some patients after they have emerged from such artificially induced periods of insensibility is not yet fully understood, Dr. Gerty said. Fear once was held to be the rousing factor, but now has been ruled out by latest beliefs on the subject, he explained.

Science, he said, has come but a little way along the road toward comprehension of the subject of mental illness. But by casting out the superstitions and generalities of the past, he said he is confident that thru intensive physiological, laboratory and psychological study of individual cases, the answer to the age old problem may perhaps be found in the chemist's test tube or other laboratory procedures.

COUNTY FINANCE PROBLEM: HOW TO GET 13½ MILLION

BY WILLIAM SHINNICK.

Figures furnished to the Cook county board yesterday showed that a 1945 tax levy of about 13½ million dollars will be needed to carry on the county government for a year and to pay bills past due.

Even this sum, approximately the same as the tax levied a year ago, will be insufficient to balance the budget if proposed increases in the number of county employes go thru as requested by department heads. These increases amount financially to about $375,000.

The budget estimate was fixed, for operating expenses, at about $20,800,000, with almost 4 million additional needed to clear obligations contracted in 1943 and 1944, and unpaid. Since revenues from fees and repayments by other governmental units will not exceed 11 millions, the board must either levy more taxes or reduce expenditures.

Pegged Levy Inadequate.

The pegged levy granted by the legislature is only 6½ millions for the coming year. It will be possible for the county to raise the additional tax money, however, by applying a tax rate to the full valuation basis adopted by Assessor Clark. Formerly, Clark assessed at 37 per cent and the return on the maximum tax rate of 28 cents per $100 was less than the peg.

Having a choice, and only the rate giving the county ability to pay off, 10 Democratic members voted last year to take that rather than the pegged levy. The other five members, all Republicans, voted no on the proposal then, making it strictly a Democratic show, as 10 votes were needed to pass a budget.

This year the situation is different. Commissioner Kavanagh has died and there are only nine Democrats left. At least one Republican vote is necessary to adopt a budget. The G. O. P. members said they had not yet studied the estimate.

Ryan Promises Hearings Soon.

Commissioner Ryan, chairman of the finance committee, to which the estimate was referred, said he would immediately start hearings.

Deputy Controler Daley, who was assisted in making the preliminary estimate by County Auditor Howard, asserted that the guess on revenues was conservative. He added that the last budget was accurate, but was wrecked when several department heads demanded and got supplemental appropriations in the summer. This year, he said, there would be no need for supplementals, because each department's needs have been figured on full requests.

HIGHEST BOND BIDDER, CO-ED TO RULE A DAY AT NORTHWESTERN

For one day Miss Rosalyn Keeshin, 21, a senior who lives at the Sigma Delta Tau sorority house at 1824 Hinman av., Evanston, will have the privilege of "bossing around" President Franklyn Bliss Snyder of Northwestern university, which she said yesterday seems the climax of four happy years at the school. The honor was won by her high bid at a 6th war bond auction last Tuesday night in Scott hall on the campus which cost her father, a motor freight executive, $100,000, the amount of the check she proudly turned in for bonds. Miss Keeshin, who is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John L. Keeshin of 1003 Bonnie Brae, River Forest, is keeping secret her plans for the big day which will be Wednesday, and not even President Snyder knows what is in store for him.

SUPPLY OF COAL IN MIDWEST 10% BELOW NORMAL

BY PHILIP DODD.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Nov. 23.—Middle west users of bituminous coal and coke will obtain no more than 90 per cent of their normal supply this winter and supplies of fuel oil will continue "tight," the office of war information reported today.

Basing its estimate on data from the solid fuels administration, the petroleum administration for war, and the office of price administration, the OWI, in a press statement, forecast a 16 million ton national deficit in soft coal and only a "limited improvement" in fuel oil supplies.

Affects Southeast Too.

The soft coal shortage will affect southeastern states as well as the north central section of the country, OWI said. The heavily populated northeastern section of the country will have about ⅞ of its normal supply of anthracite and so-called "eastern" coke, according to the statement.

No accurate forecast of the fuel oil supply can be made because of the fluctuating demands made by the army and navy, the OWI said.

"Altho the situation may change overnight," the OWI said, "the PAW has appealed to household users of fuel oil to fill their tanks as soon as possible as a protection against having empty tanks when colder weather arrives . . . and to help relieve the national oil storage space shortage."

Wood Supply Cut.

Lack of labor, transportation difficulties, and a shortage of power-driven saws has cut the supply of wood used for fuel in some sections of the country, particularly in the Pacific northwest, the OWI statement said.

The middle western coal shortage was forecast in the face of a report by Charles J. Potter, deputy solid fuels administrator, that the movements of coal on Lake Erie during the recent navigation season set an all-time high of 50,414,082 tons. The previous high was 49,733,000 tons in 1941.

Coal shipments thru Lake Michigan and Lake Ontario ports brought the total Great Lakes coal shipment tonnage to 55,100,082 tons, Potter said. He estimated, however, that the total was more than seven million tons short of the total requirements of the lake regions.

AWOL AVIATION CADET AND BRIDE, 16, REACH END OF HONEYMOON

Harold Wayne Faulconer, 20, an AWOL aviation cadet, and his 16 year old Tennessee bride, were arrested yesterday by Detective Roy Carrier of the detective bureau confidence detail. It interrupted their cross-couhtry honeymoon and landed the girl bride in the juvenile detention home and the groom in a detective bureau cell.

Faulconer, who said he is the son of a wealthy retired Sheridan, Ore., contractor now living in Hollywood, Cal., is accused by the police of purchasing finery for his bride with worthless checks. He visited three stores and gave each a large check drawn on a Sharon, Pa., bank. One store investigated the check before delivering a fur coat and discovered that the account was closed after the check book of W. C. Windbush was stolen. Detectives accompanied a messenger from the store to the hotel and arrested Faulconer and his bride.

Faulconer said he went AWOL from Dyersburg, Tenn., field in October after two years' service. He married Margaret Strong of that city. He will be arraigned in Boys' court tomorrow.

Escaped Convict Captured Near Stolen Automobile

Edward Okulczyk, 29, an escaped convict from Joliet penitentiary, was arrested yesterday as he was about to enter a stolen auto which had been parked in front of 3030 Madison st. Detectives had been watching the car, apparently abandoned after it was stolen from Mrs. Mary Ehrlich, 6824 Wayne av., Wednesday night. Okulczyk was serving a 10 year sentence for auto larceny when he walked off the prison farm Aug. 3, 1938.

REPORTS RUG STOLEN.

William J. Pancoe, 418 Oakdale av., reported to police that a 9x12 rug worth $125 was taken from his apartment.

NEEDLESS USE OF VITAMINS HIT IN TEST FOR U.S.

Normal persons eating the usual American diet are not noticeably benefited by taking vitamins, according to published results of a study completed at Duke university school of medicine at the request of the quartermaster general's office of the United States army.

As described in the current issue of the Journal of the American Medical association, the investigation was conducted by Drs. Julian M. Ruffin and David Cayer of Durham, N. C. It extended over 30 days and utilized 200 volunteer medical students and technicians as subjects.

Five Groups in Tests.

The volunteers were divided into five groups. Members of the first four were given varying daily quantities of vitamins as contained in vitamin tablets furnished by the army. The fifth group was given nothing but placebos, or inert pills having no medicinal or vitamin value.

The tests were conducted to determine whether the vitamins would have any effect on the appetite, general health, and improved well being of the subjects.

At the conclusion of the tests, the two physicians said they found the same beneficial effect was noted on the "pep" and other health factors of the group which was given the inert, dummy pills, as in the other four groups taking the various vitamin supplements.

Wonder at Justification.

All of the subjects who participated in the tests were consuming the usual American diet, were in apparent good health, and had been checked by average methods to establish that their vitamin requirements were within normal limits.

"While no one would question the employment of vitamin therapy in frank deficiency diseases or even in suspected deficiency states, still one wonders," they reported, "if the indiscriminate use of vitamins, sold over the counter to people who have no deficiency disease, is justified."
